Talmadge Strongly Hints He Will Run For Governorship

No Further Ambitions From National Standpoint, He Tells Crowd at Claxton Gathering.

CLAXTON, Ga., July 20.—(AP) — Eugene Talmadge, peaking here today at the anual home-coming celebration f Claxton and Evans county, eclared, in effect, he had no urther ambitions from a naional standpoint, and at the ame time practically anounced his candidacy for govrnor.

Exhibiting something of his ld colorfulness, Talmadge, vith red suspenders agleam, black air a-tumble over his brow, and vith a wry smile on his face, said:

"I've about decided I can't run nation anyhow. After two atempts to go to Washington, I've oncluded that any time I go up here it'll just be on a visit. But ack here there's plenty that can e done in guiding the old ship f state."

Administration Hit.

Talking to some 3,000 citizens of Claxton and Evans county, and visitors, Talmadge criticized the present state administration for wasteful expenditures, increase in taxes, and for allowing the school system to break down. The national New Deal program came in for its share of censure also.

Talmadge said he understood it took $1,000 to put a person to work in a relief job, and said for that, one could grubstake a farm.

"And that is the only answer to the New Deal," he said. "By giving the boys a pig or a crop to have of their own and the girls walls to decorate, you can put into their hearts ambition that will make them rise up to good citizenship and put loyalty and patriotism in their souls. But instead, what do they have up north? They are striking against the government."

"Free School Teachers."

Ridiculing the state administration for giving the people their first "free school teachers," Talmadge said state leaders were going to try to use the pride, anxiety and ambition of the mothers and fathers for their children to get them vote more taxes, but added: "Don't put any more eggs under the hen until you are sure there is not a suck-egg dog in the hen yard."

Pointing out that the teachers were given back pay and the pensions of the Confederate veterans paid by special legislation in 1935, Talmadge said:

"The same moral support of the people is behind the running of the schools now as then, and if they have to wait until the next session of the general assembly to pay their debts, they will do it."

Expanded Taxation.

This remark brought applause from the audience.

Hitting at the wave of expanded taxation, Talmadge said "You can't legislate prosperity, and you can't tax yourself into economic security."

The only thing that will bring

Howell Supporters May Seek to Bar Former Executive From Making the Race in 1940.

By L. A. FARRELL.

Any doubt about the permanence of the political rift between former Governor Eugene Talmadge and Hugh Howell, who used to style himself Talmadge Henchman No. 1, was blasted yesterday. Howell supporters, it was learned, are laying plans to seek to bar Talmadge from the 1940 gubernatorial race on the ground that the State Constitution prohibits his election.

The Constitution provides that the Governor "shall not be eligible for re-election, after the expiration of a second term, for the period of four years." The provision is contained in Article V, Section 1, Chapter 2-26.

Time Out of Office.

When the 1940 primary rolls around a year from next month Talmadge will have been out of office 44 months and when the general election is held he will have been out 46 months. But when the general assembly meets to canvass the returns of the November balloting and determine the winner the required four years will have passed.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall, it was said, had been approached concerning a ruling on the Howell supporters' plan, but when asked directly yesterday concerning it, the attorney general merely smiled. It is the policy of the department of law to give opinions only when requested by the Governor's office or other department of state. It is not expected that even if a request on the Talmadge-Howell issue is made that Arnall would give an opinion, as neither Talmadge nor Howell have official connections.

Unavowed Candidate.

Howell is an avowed candidate for the governorship next year. Talmadge appears to be an unavowed candidate. In recent speeches he has refrained carefully from going too deeply into the issues of the day or what are likely to be the issues next year. But there seems to be little doubt in the minds of even the most amateur politicos that Talmadge will be a candidate. There is a constant stream of political visitors to Talmadge's downtown law office and the former Governor never leads anyone to believe that his visitors are clients in search of a lawyer.

The recent dissolution of the law firm of Talmadge, Fraser and

FOREIGN BAPTISTS DECLARE NATIONS FEARFUL OF WAR

Messengers From All Ends of World Arrive Here for Alliance; Hope for Solution of Peace.

By BETTY MATHIS.

From Norway, Poland and England, from Hungary, Australia, Canada and far-away Burma came messengers yesterday to the Baptist World Alliance, each with something to say about the war fears of the world.

From Oslo, Norway, this message was brought by Dr. A. T. Ohrn, professor in the Norwegian Baptist Theological seminary.

"Scandinavia now is suffering from fear of war. Though peaceful since 1814, we of Norway now have the growing conviction that neutrality in the event of general war in Europe will be almost impossible."

Women Cited as Factor.

From Toronto, Canada, Mrs. Albert Matthews, leader of the women's group of the congress, arrived with the statement:

"Women, with their added participation in public life, now have a great responsibility in determining whether we shall have war or peace. We are learning the power of propaganda, and we must guard against allowing ourselves to believe things which have their origin in the minds of would-be war makers."

Poland sent L. Miksa, of Lodz, president of the International Alliance for Poland, with this opinion:

"Poland will fight for its corridor regardless of whether England helps her or not. The situation in Europe is troubled, but war hardly is imminent. England is Poland's closest friend and we feel that Prime Minister Chamberlain is genuinely concerned with the future of the Free City of Danzig."

All Anxious for Solution.

All arrivals were anxious to begin the Alliance meetings, out of which they feel some permanent solution to these problems may be worked out. Opportunity to meet with representatives of more than 60 other nations was hailed by Mrs. Matthews as significant in that all members of the congress will have the same ideas and ideals and will approach the meetings with a Christian attitude rather than with a selfish nationalistic frame of mind.

While Mrs. Matthews saw no immediate great change in the attitude of nations as a result of the congress, nevertheless she is of the opinion that this meeting of the Baptists of the world should create in the minds of its members a confident enthusiasm and unity of action not possible in less cosmopolitan groups.

Mrs. Matthews, who will preside at the special mass meeting for women on Tuesday afternoon,

Preston Mauldin Beats Jinx, Places in Soap Box Trial

Wins First Heat as City Eliminations Open; Has Long Been Stalked by Hard Luck; 15,000 Line Course As Tiny Racers Compete.

Preston Mauldin, making his fourth and last desperate effort to shake the jinx that has pursued him through the last four years of Soap Box Derby racing, eluded his nemesis long enough to take first place in the first heat of the 1939 Derby elimination dashes on Northside drive Thursday. The Atlanta and North Georgia finals are to be run at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Nearly 15,000 fans who packed the entire length of the Derby Downs course to see the eliminations, cheered delightedly as Preston whizzed across the finish line a few scant inches ahead of Bob Carter.

It is Preston's last chance to win Soap Box Derby honors for which he has worked so hard and dared so much for four long years. He is 15 years old now. Next year he will be beyond the age limit.

The jinx seized Preston in his first race in 1936. He had a grand little racing car, into which had gone all his skill and much of his love. He piloted it through preliminaries and quarter-finals and semi-finals.

In the finals he was ahead until the last 30 feet when at high speed he lost control of his car and another boy shot in front for the glory, the prizes and the trip to Akron. In 1937 Preston again won his way into the semi-finals, only to lose to Hugh Flury Jr. in a closely-contested heat.

In 1938 he had an even better car, but a wheel broke in the

'Teeth' Kept in Law Barring Political Activity by Federal Employes.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP)—The house passed the Hatch bill tonight after a bi-partisan coalition had scored victories in what they called their effort to restore the teeth to the measure banning "politics in relief" and barring federal employes from political campaigns.

During a long-drawn struggle, the determined coalition of Republicans and Democrats restored many provisions which were in the measure as it passed the senate weeks ago but which were later stricken out by the house judiciary committee after President Roosevelt had objected that the measure was badly drawn.

Vote 243 to 133.

The speaker announced the house vote on final passage as 243 to 133. The measure now goes back to the senate for action on certain amendments.

Led by Representative Dempsey, Democrat, New Mexico, the coalition got the house to approve a provision forbidding a vast army of federal officeholders to participate in national political conventions or other political activity.

The section declares that, with the exception of the President, a few other officials, persons in the executive branch of the government, must not use their official authority to influence an election and must not take part in "political management or political campaigns."

Toward Old Form.

The standing vote of 187 to 103 went a long way toward restoring the Hatch bill to the form in which it passed the senate weeks ago. Subsequent to senate passage, President Roosevelt and other administration men criti-

Engineer's Lost Teeth Stop Passenger Train

SANTE FE, N. M., July 20.—(AP) Engineer Albee, rolling along the Denver and Rio Grand Western narrow guage tracks, leaned from the engine cab. He coughed. Out popped his false teeth.

Albee stopped the train. Passengers and crew joined in the search; located the plate.

Headlight Breaker Buys New Lens for Victim

MINOT, N. D., July 20.—(AP)—R. F. Steinmetz, returning to his parked automobile, found one headlight shattered, but a new lens lay on the front seat.

Attached was this note, unsigned:

The Season for Sneezin' Is Almost Here... Ka-choo

By LUKE GREENE.

Initiation time is nearing for that great fraternity of sneezers, wheezers, snorters and snifflers who like to call themselves "pollen sufferers" but who are more widely known as hay fever victims.

Come the middle of August and the "ah-choos" will break loose like tornadoes, the tears will start streaming in torrents and there will be a premium on handkerchiefs.

Dr. J. P. Kennedy and Dr. J. F. Hackney, of the city health department, went into a discussion of the hay fever problem yesterday as hundreds of expectant victims girded for their annual sneezing session.

Public Enemy No. 1, of course, is the ragweed. Although the ragweed has many cohorts it does several times as much damage as all the others put together.

The fact you weren't invited to become a member of the fraternity last year doesn't mean that you are black-balled forever. The ragweed and his henchmen delight in taking freshmen by surprise.

Cases of hay fever are not reported at the city hall and for that reason Dr. Kennedy doesn't know whether the malady is on the increase, but he has every reason to suspect that it is. Increased travel by automobile, train and airplane and the trend to the country has added to the menace.

Symptoms of hay fever are easily detected. They are a waterstopped nose, a burning, itching throat, stinging eyes with lids glued together on waking and sneezing attacks that sometimes last for 10 minutes and culminate in a nose bleed.

Hay fever is essentially an allergy. Some persons might be allergic to the ragweed or goldenrod, while others might be affected by dust from rugs, feathers and various kinds of pollen.

As Dr. Hackney expressed it, one person could lie down in a patch of ragweed without soliciting a single sniffle, but the minute he gets around a feather pillow he goes into a violent spell of sneezing.

Pollens that depend solely on wind transfer for fertilization do the most dirty work. They sometimes travel for long distances in the air and the fact there are no such pollen-producing plants around your home doesn't insure your freedom from the malady. If the wind is blowing right the pollen may travel 30 miles or farther.

H. J. Cates, chief of the city sanitary department, explained that his men constantly are en-

SLAYING OF POLE ADDS TO UNREST

Frontier Guard Is Shot Down by Uniformed Danzig Customs Officer.

By The Associated Press.

Poland tried hard last night to "localize" a frontier killing that injected new danger into the perilous Danzig situation.

A Polish frontier guard was shot to death by a uniformed Danzig customs officer at the Free City border, but the Danzig and Polish versions of how it happened were conflicting.

Angry officials of the Polish commission in Danzig said they would demand satisfaction from the Nazi-controlled Free City and one insisted "we will not be appeased by a mere apology."

Given Little Space.

Warsaw newspapers gave little space to the shooting, however, and it was plain the government was trying to keep the public calm. Fuller details were known in Gdynia, near Danzig, and there the public excitement ran high.

The Free City story was that the Pole, Vitold Budziewicz, aimed his rifle at Max Stein, the Danzig officer, from 50 feet away and that Stein, on Danzig soil, fired "in indisputable defense."

The Polish version was that Stein and two storm troopers crossed the border near the village of Postelau and that Budziewicz, running forward to challenge them, was shot before he could raise his rifle in warning.

"Deliberate Provocation."

The Nazi newspaper Vorposten said "we are confronted by deliberate Polish provocation."

Foreign circles in Warsaw believed a prompt expression of regret by Danzig authorities would do much to smooth it over.

In a speech at the Tannenberg war memorial, Colonel General

ACTION PROTESTED BY GEORGIAN AS NULLIFYING WORK

10-Week Consideration of Amendments Wasted, He Tells Legislators; Cox Denounces NLRB.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP)—The house today voted an extensive inquiry into the National Labor Relations Board, approving over the protests of a powerful Democratic bloc the creation of a five-man investigating committee with full subpoena powers to study the whole NLRB setup and make any recommendations for legislation.

The action, which carried the chamber by a vote of 254 to 134, came as a blow to Chairman Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, of the house labor committee, which has been considering amendments to the act since May 4.

Resolution Assailed.

Mrs. Norton denounced the resolution of Representative Smith, Democrat, Virginia, as one which would "usurp" the powers of her committee, and shouted to the house that Smith himself "is the last man in the world to pass upon labor legislation."

The sponsor, however, declared as the bitter debate opened on the floor that "something is wrong that needs looking into," and that unless something had been amiss there would not have been the "tremendous pressure" for an inquiry.

Under the resolution Speaker Bankhead is to name a committee whose duty will be to:

1—Find out whether the board has been fair in its interpretation of the law and in its decisions.

Wide Powers.

2—Check the effects of the act on employer-employe relations and upon economic conditions.

3—Find out whether the board has "attempted to write into the act" purposes not justified by its language.

4—Suggest amendments, if any, and determine whether congress should further define interstate commerce.

The committee will make recommendations, also, concerning the personnel of the board. It will have the power to hold hearings anywhere, anytime and can call witnesses and documents. While the resolution made no pro-

RAMSPECK VOTES AGAINST INQUIRY

Representative Ramspeck was the only Georgian to oppose investigation of the National Labor Relations Board as authorized yesterday by the house.

Those voting for the inquiry were Representatives Brown, Cox, Gibbs, Pace, Peterson, Tarver, Vinson and Whelchel.

Boiled Tongue Sliced Cold Is a Delicacy

Boiled tongue is considered by many as a delicacy. It can be sliced cold, or served with a sauce of olives, as above.

TONGUE TIPS.

Any meat or fowl which can be cooked in quantity, served once hot and later cold or in other easy dishes is the right choice for week end buying. Roasts of beef or lamb, chicken, meat loaf, veal, ham, tongue and other things come to mind. If a larger amount than is needed for one meal is bought and cooked at one time, it greatly cuts down on the time and heat expenditure for the week's cooking.

Pictured today is a boiled tongue, covered with an olive sauce. A raisin sauce would be equally good; or Sauce Espagnole, which is made of browned flour blended with butter or margarine, meat stock or water added to make a smooth mixture, seasonings of salt and pepper and lemon juice and minced parsley.

To boil a tongue, if it is a cured one (fresh ones do not need soaking), soak it overnight, pour off the water, add fresh water and boil slowly until tender; allowing about 25 minutes a pound. A bay leaf added to the cooking water makes pleasant seasoning. Remove from water, when tongue is tender, and cool.

Prize Winning Recipes For This Week

Lemon Ice Cream

Submitted by Mrs. Frank McCormack, 509 Angier Avenue, N. E., Atlanta.

Ingredients—Slice 2 good-sized lemons very thin. Cover with 1 cup sugar and let stand at least 2 hours. Pour off the juice; squeeze the lemon rinds, and rinse off with 1 cup sweet milk.

Method—Whip ½ pint cream, fold into the lemon juice mixture and freeze. Stir once or twice during freezing.

Baked Squash

Submitted by Mrs. John McCarley, 37 Doyle Street, S. E., Atlanta.

Ingredients—2 lbs. yellow squash, 1 small onion, 1 cup medium white sauce, 3-4 cup grated American cheese, buttered bread crumbs.

Method — Wash, peel and dice squash and onion. Boil together in small amount of water until tender. Drain. Fold in white sauce and add grated cheese. Pour in large greased baking dish or in individual baking dishes, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake in moderate oven for 15 minutes or until crumbs are browned.

Cocoanut Ice Box Cookies

Submitted by Miss Lucile Blalock, Rabun Gap, Ga.

Ingredients—5½ cups flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, ½ cup brown sugar, 1½ cups melted butter, 4 cups coconut, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 3 eggs slightly beaten, 1 cup white sugar.

Method — Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Combine remaining ingredients. Mix with flour. When well combined, roll up in one or more rolls, wrap in wax paper and place in refrigerator to chill. Cook whenever desired. (Slice about 1-8 inch thick).

Summer Notes.

Spaghetti ring, filled with creamed fish, chicken, beef or mushrooms, gives a summer hot dish, just heavy enough. With this pass a crispy green salad, some Graham bread and fresh fruit sauce such as berry, peach or apple. Honeydew slices with tiny wedges of lime or lemon give the proper climax to this meal.

One and a half cups of broken macaroni or spaghetti will cook into about three and a half cupsful.

Stuffed Melon Halves.

3 small cantaloupes
1 cup fresh pineapple balls
1 cup watermelon balls
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1-2 cup orange juice.

Cut cantaloupe into halves. Discard seeds and pulp. Stuff with rest of ingredients which have been combined and chilled for one hour or longer. Garnish with mint.

Glaze for Carrots .

To give carrots a quick glaze and new flavor, mix four tablespoons of mint jelly with two cups of sliced cooked carrots. Bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven, stirring several times with a fork.

Corn-Stuffed Peppers.

6 green peppers
1 1-2 cups cooked corn
1-2 cup of soft bread
1 egg, beaten.
3 tablespoons butter, melted.
1 teaspoon minced onions.
2 teaspoons minced parsley.
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon paprika.

Wash peppers. Remove tops and discard seeds and pulp. Stuff with rest of the ingredients, combined. Cover with tops. Set upright in shallow pan. Add half an inch of water and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Escalloped Tomatoes.

3 cups tomatoes
1-4 cup chopped green peppers
2 tablespoons chopped onions
1 1-2 cups boiled rice
1-3 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons butter, melted

Mix the ingredients and bake in buttered dish for 25 minutes in a moderately slow oven.

Summer Salad Accompaniments.

Bread sticks and melba toast are a crisply flavorsome pair with which to give taste and texture contrast to a salad luncheon.

Thinly sliced bread, spread with cheese and rolled, makes dainty tidbits to serve with fruit or vegetable salads. Toast the tiny rolls just before serving and bring them to the table hot.

Poppy seed sticks are good with tossed vegetable salad. Brush strips of bread with melted butter, sprinkle with poppy seeds, and toast. Serve hot.

Crusty French rolls cut diagonally into slices a fourth of an inch thick, brushed with butter and toasted, make a delightful salad accompaniment.

Toast fingers, brushed with butter and sprinkled with cheese before they go into the broiler to toast, are good with fruit salads.

WILLIAM PATTERSON NOMINATED TO ICC

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP) President Roosevelt nominated William J. Patterson, of North Dakota, today to become a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission for a term expiring December 31, 1945.

Patterson was chosen to fill a position for which the President originally selected Thomas R. Amlie.

A powerful senate bloc made clear its intention to prevent A lie's confirmation. His name withdrawn.

Mr. Roosevelt also nomina Francis M. Shea, of New Yo to be assistant attorney gene in charge of the Justice Depa ment's claims division.

Frozen Desserts Are Delight of Young and Old

Who says it isn't time for ice creams, ices and sherbets? Serving a twofold purpose—that of nourishing and cooling—frozen desserts are hot weather favorites. Many fresh fruits make appealing accompaniments, and if you want out-of-season fruits, they may be bought frozen.

Thoughts Turn to Frozen Dishes As the Heat Becomes More Vicious

Cold Desserts Add Pleasure to Meals During These Days; Recipes for Ices, Creams and Fruit Salad Are Given.

By SALLY SAVER.

Hot days linger and as summer progresses the heat seems to get more vicious. Our thoughts turn most naturally to frozen dishes, particularly frozen desserts. A dinner or luncheon finished off with an ice, a sherbet or ice cream is finished most pleasingly. For nothing is met with more cheering from young and old than these perennial favorites.

In summer I have found it practical to make ice cubes very fast (using mechanical refrigerator) for some hours, store them in the pan made for that purpose and then to use one tray for making ices, and other frozen dainties. This provides against a shortage of ice cubes which are such a necessity for drinks these hot days, and yet frees one tray for the welcome frozen foods.

Here are some recipes for making ices, creams and frozen fruit salad.

Pineapple Ice Cream.

2 cups milk
4 whole eggs
2 egg yolks
1-2 cup sugar
1-8 teaspoon salt
2 cups canned, unsweetned pineapple juice

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Beat eggs and yolks. Add sugar and salt, and beat until fluffy. Add hot milk slowly, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook until a heavy coating forms on spoon. Cool, stirring occasionally. Add pineapple juice, turn into freezing tray and freeze. If stirred several times during freezing it will be smoother. This cream can be made in a hand freezer Serves 8.

Fresh Peach Sherbet.

2 cups granulated sugar.
1 teaspoon gelatin
2 oranges
1 quart water
2 quarts fresh peaches
1 lemon

Soak the gelatin in 1-2 cup cold water, then put with sugar into a bowl and pour over it the remaining water heated to boiling point. Add peach pulp, orange and lemon juice. Freeze.

Peach Ice Cream.
(Using Ice Cream Powder.)

2 cups milk
1 package vanilla ice cream powder
1 cup heavy cream
2 cups peach pulp

Add milk gradually to ice cream powder, stirring until dissolved. Then add cream. (Cream will be fluffier if cream is whipped.) Pour in freezing tray and when slightly thickened, fold in peach pulp. Continue freezing. Makes 1 1-2 quarts ice cream.

Lemon Sherbet.

2 cups granulated sugar
2 cups water
2 stiffly beaten egg whites
1 cup lemon juice

Boil sugar and 1 cup water together 5 minutes. Beat slowly into egg whites. Add lemon juice and second cup of water. Pour into freezing tray and set at fast freezing. Stir thoroughly after first 1-2 hour, and finish freezing. Makes about 1 quart.

Frozen Fruit Salad.

1 can moist, sweetened coconut
1 cup grated pineapple
1 cup seeded white cherries
1 cup diced peaches
2 oranges, cut in small pieces
12 marshmallows, quartered
1 cup cream, whipped
1-2 cup mayonnaise

Toss coconut, fruits and marshmallows together lightly. Chill. Combine cream and mayonnaise. Fold into fruit mixture. Turn into freezing tray. This salad may be molded in baking powder cans, filled to overflowing, covered with waxed paper and lids pressed on carefully. Cans may then be packed in equal parts of ice and salt, for 4 hours. May be cut in slices and served on lettuce leaves, with additional mayonnaise or mayonnaise-cream dressing.

Grape Ice.

1 1-2 cups sugar
3 cups water
1-4 teaspoon salt
2 cups bottled grape juice
1-4 cup lemon juice

Boil sugar and water together five minutes. Add grapejuice and salt. Cool. Add lemon juice. Freeze.

GEORGE AIDS BOYS ON CAPITOL TOUR

Future Farmers' Group To Go On to Fair Today.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Senator Walter F. George personally conducted around the capitol today 22 Future Farmers of America, who motored here from their homes in Rhine, Dodge county, Georgia, to see the sights.

Headed by T. K. Carroll, the young Georgia farmers saw both senate and house in session, took a ride in the capitol's subway train, and had the time of their lives.

Tomorrow they will point their jalopies toward New York, where they will visit the World's Fair. From Manhattan they will motor back to Philadelphia, where they will view the historic Liberty Bell and other old Revolutionary sites in the Pennsylvania metropolis.

The party will return to Georgia in about two weeks, journeying through West Virginia and North Carolina on their way south.

ARMY ORDERS

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Army orders today included:

Colonel John Millikin, G.S.C., Boston, Mass., to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Majors:

T. A. HOWARD SR. DIES IN 77TH YEAR

Services Will Be Conducted Today for Veteran Atlanta Railroad Man.

Thomas A. Howard Sr., 76, veteran Atlanta railroad man, died yesterday morning at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Clarence Belle Isle, 688 Erin street, S. W.

Mr. Howard was a native of Tuskegee, Ala., and began his railroad career at the age of 17 with the L. & N. He came to Atlanta in 1882 to accept a position with the Atlanta & West Point and later was connected with the Terminal station. He retired about five years ago.

He was one of the principal organizers of the first chapter of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and also helped with the establishment of the West End Baptist church here.

In addition to his daughter he is survived by five sons, J. H., H. A., S. B., W. J. and Thomas A. Howard Jr., nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Howard L. Carmichael by the Rev. A. Julian Warner and the Rev. Lee Cutts. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

BAD WEATHER MARS CORRIGAN HONEYMOON

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—(AP) Adverse weather conditions scowled upon Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan and his bride on their aerial honeymoon trip here today.

The ceiling was "low" for several hours and a heavy rain swept the airport while the flier was waiting for conditions to clear up.

Mr. and Mrs. Corrigan stopped here en route from Texas, reportedly to Jacksonville, Fla.

Might Be 'Beginning of the End,' Attorney General Declares.

By The Associated Press.

Attorney General Frank Murphy struck another administration blow at the WPA protest walkouts yesterday by asserting that to tolerate strikes against the government would build up a "Fascist psychology" and might be "the beginning of the end."

Murphy's stand against the WPA walkouts, which he previously had denounced as a strike against government, was taken at a press conference while thousands of WPA employes were participating in a one-day work stoppage and demonstration sponsored by the Workers' Alliance, union of the unemployed.

Other WPA developments included:

Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, disclosed that he had asked the Justice Department for a ruling on the question whether the "prevailing wage" could be paid on WPA projects started before the new relief act became effective July 1.

WPA officials said they considered the strike over. Harrington said the "backbone" was broken by the agreement reached Wednesday on terms for reopening the Minneapolis projects. He had received no further word on the number of strikers since a check-up, as of Monday, showed 26,500 still out, but said he believed there had been a material reduction since then.

Workers' Alliance officials emphasized that yesterday's demonstrations were not a strike, but a protest against the new WPA regulations which require many WPA employes to work longer hours.

How many joined in the protest was disputed. In New York, for instance, the alliance had said more than 40,000 would take part. On the other hand, WPA officials estimated the number at no more than 4,000.

From other sections of the country there were reports of some participation, but most state administrators said the work on projects was going forward normally.

Marking the New York demonstration was an attempt to hang in effigy two congress members, Representatives Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia, and Taber, Republican, New York, of the house committee which investigated WPA. Police prevented the mock hanging in Columbus circle because, they said, it was "liable to cause trouble."

In Washington, David Lasser, president of the Workers' Alliance, made public a letter to Woodrum in which he asserted that agents for the WPA investigating committee were trying to learn the names of workers who took part in the alliance-sponsored demonstrations.

Sentence Looms for WPA Engineer Today

Greene Declares He Will Not Reveal Bartow Lists Unless Permission Is Given; Judge Adamant.

The letter of the law and indignation against the secrecy with which the Works Projects Administration shrouds its affairs, will, according to all indications, come into open conflict again this morning when W. J. Greene, Marietta WPA engineer, appears before Judge John C. Mitchell of the Cherokee circuit at Cartersville.

Judge Mitchell, as a result of a Bartow grand jury investigation of the relief situation, last week cited Greene for contempt of court when he refused to produce county relief rolls. He gave him until 11 o'clock (Atlanta time) this morning to give the list to the grand jury or go to jail.

Last night Greene said he was not going to disclose the list without official permission of his superiors. State WPA office has reported that such permission must come from Colonel F. C. Harrington, national WPA administrator. Washington has been kept informed of the development of the case, but so far his not indicated that permission to make the list public will be given.

20-Day Sentence.

Judge Mitchell said yesterday that he still intends to sentence Greene to jail for 20 days unless the list is forthcoming.

Persons well informed on federal law said that the case is not without precedent, and that since 1789, congress has conferred discretionary powers on heads of government to withhold their records and departmental information.

WPA has been embroiled in similar cases before, it was pointed out. The state senate of Pennsylvania was once enjoined from obtaining WPA records by a federal court that ruled the investigation "interference with the proper governmental functions of the United States," and that the immunity of a federal agency from the state interference was "well established."

Florida Ruling.

A Florida state court in April, 1938, decided that W. J. Dill, state WPA administrator, correctly refused to divulge agency information to a grand jury, ruling that he was "immune" and that the court was "without power or authority to compel the witness to testify."

Meanwhile, it was understood that if Mitchell does sentence Greene to jail, the United States attorney's office plans to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus before United States District Judge E. Marvin Underwood. It is expected that the sheriff of Bartow county will be served as soon as possible, and that Greene will be brought to Atlanta immediately for the hearing.

Yesterday, an official communication from the office of Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, announced the dismissal of two Atlanta supervisory employes, whose names were not revealed, as a result of an investigation of irregularities in the warehouse here. The men were let go on July 10.

Shepperson Statement.

Her statement read:

"One employe was released on a charge that he falsified WPA records. The other employe was released on charges that he collaborated in the falsification of records, that he appropriated to his own use an automobile battery belonging to WPA, and that he used for private purposes an automobile which was the property of the WPA."

As regards the complaints of two other warehouse workers that they were transferred to a labor project because they gave the state office information that led to the warehouse investigation, Miss Shepperson's statement explained:

"The records show that they were transferred from the warehouse to another project July 17 for the reason that the new 130-hour-work regulation permitted full-time work by mechanics employed at the warehouse and reduced the number of mechanics needed."

Columbus Dismissals.

Miss Shepperson had previously announced the dismissal of five administrative and supervisory employes at Columbus, after an investigation into alleged misappropriation of WPA labor and materials to private use. As usual, the employes' names were withheld.

Miss Shepperson's office also announced yesterday that it had received no reports at a late hour last night of work stoppages in the state in compliance with a request of the Workers' Alliance, a union of WPA workers, for a nation-wide one-day demonstration against restrictions of the new relief law.

FISHER LEAVES $40,000.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., July 20. (AP)—Carl G. Fisher, developer of Miami Beach, whose holdings once were estimated to be worth $20,000,000, left an estate of $40,000 to his widow, Mrs. Margaret C. Fisher. Fisher died here Saturday.

Baby, Playing Under Truck, Accidentally Killed by Dad

A Fulton county father, Hoyt Parker, accidentally ran over and killed his one-year-old son, Daniel, with a truck about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the backyard of their home at 45 Ruth street, N. W., near the Capitol City Gun Club, county police reported.

Parker, an ice deliveryman, said his truck was parked in the rear of the house. Apparently the child, who was just beginning to walk, toddled under the truck while playing and was run over when the father got in and drove around to the front to get an automobile tire.

Two daughters were helping Parker unload his ice books and some roasting ears in the back yard, he said. When he drove off, the two girls noticed the child sprawled on the ground. Parker did not know about the accident until he reached the front of the house.

Parker said the right rear wheel of the truck apparently ran over the child's head. The boy was rushed to the West Side hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Surviving besides his parents are four sisters, Helen, Elsie, Mary Jo and Marilyn; one brother, Russell; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Parker, and grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Aiken.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Allen Couch Funeral Home.

INQUIRY INTO NLRB ORDERED BY HOUSE

vision for funds, it was expected that the members, when named, would apply to the accounts committee for an appropriation.

Ramspeck Protests.

Almost the entire Republican membership and a sizable bloc of Democrats pushed the resolution across over the protests of Chairman Norton, Representative Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia, and other members of the labor committee.

Replying to contentions of Smith that "good work can be done for labor, industry and the government if the matter is looked into calmly by men of this house," Chairman Norton rose to declare that the matter should not be taken out of the jurisdiction of her committee.

"You can can count on your committee," she asserted. "Your committee will be fair and just and if it is just and necessary to amend the law, it'll do just that. We are just as anxious as any of you to do the right thing and we feel that we are doing it."

Ramspeck, who declared at the start that he was not opposed to an investigation of the board, asserted the forthcoming one "would make worthless the work of the committee." He added that he had differed with the board on questions of jurisdiction and on other issues, but said "why throw away the efforts of the committee which has been working for 10 weeks?" Ramspeck said he personally favored abolition of the present board and substitution of a five-man board.

As the debate was brought to a close Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, told the house that it would "be here until Gabriel blows his horn" if it waited for the Norton, group to bring out amendments.

Cox said the NLRB had done a "terrible thing" to the country in administering the Wagner act.

The law itself, he added, is "a vicious law wrapped up in high-sounding language intended to conceal its wicked intent." It is a "one-sided law administered in a one-sided way," he contended.

"The labor board has interpreted it to unionize industry and serve labor leaders," he said. "The board has moved steadily toward compulsory unionization in unions chosen by the board."

The board, too, he said, had prevented collective bargaining and "democratic management of the affairs of the workers."

Cox then asked whether the members knew that the American Federation of Labor was supporting the investigation resolution. Representative Keller, Democrat, Illinois, immediately challenged that statement but Cox would permit no interruptions in his statement.

ATLANTAN TESTIFIES ON LABOR LAW

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP) A southern labor leader, opposing amendments to the national labor relations act, told the senate labor committee today the law "is a dead letter" in some sections of the south.

The witness, Robert R. Tisdale, Atlanta, Ga., testified as chairman of Labor's Non-Partisan League of Georgia. He told of his experiences in the south and southwest as an organizer for the Textile Workers Organizing Committee (CIO).

"There are millions of unorganized workers who look to this law as their hope," Tisdale said. "Labor in the south needs the protection of this law more than any other group of workers anywhere else in the country."

Although a member of an AFL union, the International Typographical, Tisdale said he served as TWOC organizer in Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

In New Orleans, Tisdale said he signed up 1,300 out of 1,600 workers in a plant only to encounter a prolonged battle with the employer against union recognition.

Says Organizers Killed.

Tisdale said this employer told him: 'There are loopholes in the Wagner act as there are in all laws. We see to that. If they fine me, that is all right because I can get the money back. The only thing that would worry me would be if they put me in jail."

He said this employer eventually was "found guilty of violating every section of the Wagner labor relations act."

Tisdale testified that at Houston, Texas, he organized workers of a bagging company who were paid "50 cents to $1.50 for a work week of 54 hours. The highest pay envelope I found was $4.50."

When this dispute resulted in a strike, Tisdale said "two of the strikers were killed when one of the company officials ran them down with his automobile while they were on the picket line.'

He said that union organizers had been "run out of town, flogged, even murdered," and that recently when AFL organizers tried to "organize a Georgia aluminum plant, the sheriff of the town ordered them out."

"Within six miles of Atlanta hooded bands of men recently have taken union members out of their homes at night in the mill village of Scottdale, Ga., and flogged them," he continued.

MILL SPOKESMAN ISSUES STATEMENT.

DECATUR, Ga., July 20.—(AP)—Murphy Candler, attorney for the Scottdale mills, at Scottdale, Ga., said tonight testimony given the senate labor committee in Washington today "misrepresented" the situation with respect to the Scottdale mills.

Robert R. Tisdale, labor leader of Atlanta, told the committee hooded bands of men recently had taken union members from their homes at Scottdale and flogged them.

Candler said one mill worker was beaten recently by persons not connected with the mill.

The attorney said a labor board examiner conducted a hearing "and found there was no evidence the attack upon the worker was made by any one connected with the mill or that it was instigated by mill officials or employes."

New Zealand will celebrate next year the centenary of the British occupation of that country.

Lawyer Weds to Complete Swap Of Wives Between Him and Actor

Whitney Marries Actress Adrianne Allen, Who Was Divorced From Raymond Massey, Whose Bride of 10 Days Is Whitney's Former Wife.

STORRINGTON, England, July 20.—(AP)—A change of wives by Actor Raymond Massey and William Dwight Whitney, New York lawyer, was completed today with Whitney's marriage to Actress Adrianne Allen.

The bride was divorced from Massey two weeks ago, while Massey's bride of 10 days is the former wife of Whitney.

Dorothy Ludington Whitney (the present Mrs. Massey) prominent in New York society, and her lawyer husband were divorced July 15, 1937.

Massey, star of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," and Miss Allen, his second wife, were divorced July 6. The actor and Mrs. Whitney were married four days later.

Miss Allen, British stage actress, and Whitney were married in the rose-garlanded register office of this Sussex town.

The couple left immediately after the ceremony for London, from where they planned to go to Paris tomorrow.

Miss Allen's two children by her marriage to Massey, Daniel, 5, and Anna, 2, and her mother, Mrs. Ethel Allen, attended the ceremony.

"Our honeymoon will be spent in France," Miss Allen said. "I am not going to leave the stage and my husband and I will spend part of each year in England and part in the United States."

HARTSFIELD SIGNS LIQUOR ORDINANCE

Whisky Stores May Stay Open Until 11:45 P. M.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday signed an ordinance permitting liquor stores to remain open until 11:45 o'clock at night. The previous curfew was 11 o'clock. City council passed the new ordinance Monday.

Awarding of contracts totaling $163,549 for two boilers at the Chattahoochee river and Hemphill stations to Burford, Hall & Smith also was approved by the mayor. Installation of the boilers will be another improvement in the city's water system, the mayor pointed out.

ANDREWS REVERSES STAND ON EXEMPTIONS

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP) Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, reversed his stand today on the exemption of so-called "white collar" workers from the wage-hour law, and announced he was opposed to any change which would exempt persons receiving a guaranteed monthly income of $200 or more.

At the same time he told a press conference that because of "impassable differences" between groups seeking to revise the wage-hour law, he saw no hope at this time "for carefully considered amendment of the act in the interests of wage earners, employers and the public interest."

Youth Hurt Painfully As Truck Pins Him

Pinned between a boxcar and the rear of a truck, John Yates, 19, of Red Oak, truck driver for the Sewell Hat Manufacturing Company, Red Oak, which is four miles from College Park, was painfully injured last night.

The youth was admitted to Georgia Baptist hospital. His condition was described as good.

Fulton county police reported Yates went to the rear of the truck, preparatory to transferring its contents to the car which was on a siding at the hat plant. Brakes slipped and the truck backed against the car, pinning the youth.

A century ago, it was computed that the Great Lakes contain more than half the fresh water of the earth.

O. R. STRAUSS SR., OFFICIAL OF RICH'S, DIES; RITES TODAY

Atlanta Merchant, Native of Austria, Was One of Outstanding Business Leaders of the South.

Oscar R. Strauss Sr., merchandising manager and a member of the board of directors of Rich's, Inc., died unexpectedly yesterday morning at his home, 1372 Fairview road. He was in his 62nd year.

A native of Marienbad, Austria, he had made his home in this country for nearly 50 years and was well-known in business circles throughout the south.

At one time he was head of the Capital City Chair Company which was liquidated on account of his forced retirement due to ill health. After his recovery he became associated with Rich's and had been with the company for about 10 years.

Active in civic and religious work, he was a member of the Temple and the Gate City Lodge No. 144, B'nai B'rith.

Mr. Strauss formerly was chairman of the local board of the Hebrew Orphans' home and recently resigned to become a member of the general board. Members of both groups have been invited to act as escorts of honor at the funeral.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Rubye Rich Strauss; a son, Oscar R. Strauss Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. Pettus Kauffman; a sister, Mrs. Erna S. Eiseman, and a brother, Emil Strauss, all of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill by Dr. David Marx. Burial will be in West View cemetery under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Pallbearers will be Edwin Haas Sr., Arthur I. Harris, Jack Eiseman, Paul DeMoulpied, Joseph H. Hirsch, Sinclair S. Jacobs Sr., Rudolph S. Adler, Richard H. Rich, Frank H. Neely and Dr. Charles Giddings. Rabbi Samuel Sandmel will serve as honorary pallbearer.

gaged in cleaning off vacant lots and destroying ragweed but added if all the ragweed in Atlanta were destroyed there would still be enough coming in from the outside to make life unpleasant for the hay fever sufferers.

Dry, hot, windy days cause pollen to spread rapidly, thus adding to the discomfort of the sufferers, while rainy, calm days tend to keep it at home.

Ancestry has a noticeable effect in causing hay fever. The more of your ancestors who had to muffle their kachoos in a handkerchief, the greater is the likelihood that you some day will be a victim.

And hay fever is certainly no snob. You may be a dignified member of the "400" but you are just as susceptible to the disease as the man in the street. Some of history's greatest men have dampened many a handkerchief.

Now what to do with those who come wheezing in and asking for help?

Dr. Kennedy frankly admits the best remedy he knows is to go to the mountains—seek a higher altitude. He explained there are numerous serums and other treatments, most of which are only temporarily effective.

The doctor said he was unfamiliar with the nasal filter, a device for air-conditioning the patient. The trouble here, however, is that the eyes are not protected.

But if you can afford it, Dr. Kennedy suggests that you shut up the house and flee to the mountains until the hay fever season is over.

HATCH BILL GIVEN HOUSE APPROVAL

cized it as badly drawn and the house judiciary committee altered it in such a way that its sponsors raised the cry that it had been "emasculated."

A number of administration legislators fought doggedly tonight for the house committee's version. They insisted that the senate bill was so loose and so broad that it would prevent members of congress, for example, from running for re-election.

To meet the latter objection, Representative Dempsey wrote into his section approved tonight a clause specifically exempting members of congress from the bill's provisions.

Kitchen Floor Full of Ants?

Here's how to get rid of them. First, keep floor, pantry shelves, cupboards, etc., free from food particles, sugar, etc. That's what attracts ants. Second, get a can of Bee Brand Insect Powder. Sprinkle it in corners and along the back edges of shelves, back of and under the sink, refrigerator and stove. Blow it into cracks and crevices, back of and under wall boards. Build powder barriers between the ants' nests and places where they feed. Outside the house, sprinkle Bee Brand Powder around ant holes, wherever they are found. Repeat these treatments regularly, and you'll soon be free of ants.

Bee Brand Insect Powder really kills ants, roaches and other crawling insects quick—yet it's entirely safe to use around the house. Insist on the genuine Bee Brand Insect Powder—in the red and yellow can. It's sold with a guarantee of satisfaction or your money back. Three sizes: 10¢, 25¢, 50¢.

NOTE: You can also kill ants and roaches, as well as flies and mosquitoes, with Bee Brand Insect Spray. Read directions on can.

MISS EUNICE BALL FINAL RITES TODAY

Services for Widely Known Teacher Will Be Held at Trinity Chapel.

Final rites for Miss Eunice Ball, well-known school teacher and church worker who died Wednesday night at a private hospital, will be conducted at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at Trinity chapel.

The Rev. Fred L. Glisson and the Rev. Peter Manning will officiate and burial will be in Decatur cemetery under direction of A. S. Turner & Sons. Pallbearers will be John Austin, Kendrick Kelley, J. T. McEntire, Crayton Meixwell, Earl B. Sanders, and John L. Harper.

A native of Newport News, Va., Miss Ball spent most of her life in Decatur and Atlanta. A graduate of Agnes Scott College, she had done graduate work both at Emory and the University of Georgia and had taught at private and public schools here. She was superintendent of the junior department at the Pattillo Memorial church and a member of the Inman Park Methodist church.

'GONE WITH WIND' PROPS REQUESTED

Mayor Asks Costumes Used in Filming Be Sent Here for Premiere.

A request that some of the props and costumes used in the filming of "Gone With the Wind" be sent to Atlanta was contained in a letter Mayor Hartsfield dispatched yesterday to David O Selznick, president of Selznick International Pictures, Inc.

Replying to a letter in which the producer gave assurance that the world premiere of the movie would be held in Atlanta, Mayor Hartsfield said all Atlanta was waiting to join the movie organization in making the premiere the greatest event of its kind in the world.

Rumors a few days ago that the world premiere was to be switched from Atlanta to New York sent the mayor into action and he immitely conveyed his protest in a telegram. Selznick then wrote there was no foundation for the rumors.

"We sincerely hope that it will be possible to send the principals of the cast to Atlanta, and for your further information the Junior League of Atlanta desires to have a great costume ball at the Atlanta auditorium on that night, and we would like also to plan other events which would bring into the city thousands of people from the outlying area," the mayor said in his letter.

RAILWAY WORKERS TO MEET TONIGHT

Job Insurance, Retirement To Be Discussed.

Unemployment insurance and railroad retirement will be discussed at a meeting of railroad workers at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the assembly room of the Southern Railway building on Mitchell street. The meeting was called by Arthur R. Harrison, of the Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C., who will be one of the speakers.

The principal address will be delivered by Leon Wheeless, regional director, who will speak on unemployment insurance.

It's No Use, Old Chap, Prison Just Wasn't Meant for You

Sorry that he could not spend the rest of his years peacefully in a comfortable jail, sure of his three meals a day, weary old William Vance Hannis was trying to catch a ride back to Jacksonville last night.

The 72-year-old hotel detective traveled to Atlanta to write threatening letters to friends of his in Florida hoping that he would get at least 15 years in the federal penitentiary.

But United States Commissioner David J. Meyerhardt found the evidence against him "insufficient to show criminal intent," and did not hold him for the federal grand jury. Instead, he advised him to return to Jacksonville, apologize to his friends, and try to get his old job back.

Hannis came here after a job in a New Jersey hotel failed to materialize and he found that he would have to wait "too long" to get his old-age pension check. So he wrote threatening letters to three Jacksonville hotel men, demanding $50 from each of them and surrendered himself to agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. But there wasn't sufficient evidence to show criminal intent, and it was reported that neither the United States attorneys in Atlanta or Jacksonville wished to prosecute. So yesterday, Hannis was job hunting again.

3 HURT AS TOWER TRUCK OVERTURNS

Workmen Decorating Streets for Baptists Injured.

Three men were slightly injured yesterday when a tower truck on which they were at work decorating downton streets for the coming Baptist World Alliance overturned at Peachtree and Baker streets.

They were treated at Grady hospital, where they were listed as W. D. Melton, 25, of 1950 Boulevard drive, N. E.; Theodore Cunnard, 31, of 619 Hill street, and H. J. Cartledge, 37, of Clarkston.

INJUNCTION ASKED ON ELECTRIC RULE

Examining Board Qualification Under Fire in Fulton Court.

An injunction seeking to restrain enforcement of a city ordinance affecting electricians was filed yesterday in Fulton superior court by C. N. Coker.

The ordinance provides that persons engaged in electrical construction shall have proper qualifications which are determined by an examining board.

Dewey Johnson, city superintendent of electrical affairs, said this was the first case filed against the new ordinance. Certain provisions of a similar ordinance had been termed "unreasonable" by the Georgia supreme court, and the ordinance was redrafted, Johnson said. He added it was designed to protect individuals and property.

George Finch, attorney for Coker, said a hearing on the petition had been set for August 8.

DEVICES TO BLEND WITH LABOR SOUGHT

Puerto Rican Engineer On Visit Here Explains Aims.

Machinery that will "blend" with labor rather than replace it is being sought by a Puerto Rican engineer, who yesterday was a visitor in Atlanta.

The engineer is Senor Rudolfo del Valle Jr., of San Juan, Puerto Rico, chief engineer of the Caribbean National Forest.

Senor Valle expressed surprise at the quality and quantity of machinery used in the United States as compared with Puerto Rico, but explained that the problem of his country was not the inability to procure machinery but to find employment for the people on an island which has 500 persons to the square mile.

The Puerto Rican engineer, who graduated from the University of Michigan in 1924, considers Atlanta a wonderful city. He said Atlanta was well known to the people of Puerto Rico, as all federal prisoners from the island were sent to this city to serve their sentences.

"In Puerto Rico," he explained, "we don't have federal prisoners. Those who commit federal offenses are sent to Atlanta, so that the city stands for the place where Puerto Ricans go and remain awhile."

Senor Valle said he had not visited the penitentiary here.

Noisy Auto Is His Own—On Fire With Horn Blowing

SCITUATE, Mass., July 20.—(AP) John S. Hill, awakened by the continued sounding of an automobile horn, was exasperated.

He stuck his head out the window to give somebody a good bawling out.

He took one look and ran for the telephone because his own automobile was on fire and a short had caused the horn to sound. The car burned up before firemen arrived.

No Neutrality

Inasmuch as all hope for any amendment to the neutrality law seems to have been abandoned, for this session of congress at least, it might be pertinent to ask those on both sides of the recent issue on just what grounds they base belief that neutrality is possible in the event of a general war, for any nation?

The modern world is a far different place than was the world of a scant half century ago. Today, communication and transportation have achieved such miracles of rapidity that the world, in actual time measurement, has shrunk to less than one-tenth of its erstwhile size. Today, international commerce and international contacts of every sort have so bound any nation to all the others that sympathy, self-interest and links of individual friendship inevitably involve the people of one country in the problems, the woes and the triumphs of another.

The only possible hope for neutrality today might be found on some strange island of the distant oceans, without communication with the outside world and untouched by the hand of business.

It may be, since logic seems to favor him, that President Roosevelt is right when he says the embargo on arms in the present neutrality law hamstrings this country in any diplomatic efforts looking to maintenance of the peace of the world; that this clause aids and encourages the totalitarian states and handicaps the democratic nations to which, in event of war, American sympathy preponderantly would turn.

It may be, on the other hand, the rabid isolationists and pacifists are right when they contend that same embargo safeguards this country from involvement in any future foreign war. It does seem illogical, however, to forbid shipments of arms and to allow shipments of foodstuffs, material and other supplies equally essential in modern war.

However, it is doubtful if the action of the senate in refusing the administration-requested amendments, had so much effect upon the diplomatic chess board of Europe as many have contended. The United States, truly, is a powerful nation, an important factor to be considered when the scales of war probability are to be weighed. Yet, whether a technical clause in an American law would have much influence upon the policies of the leaders of modern Europe is to be doubted. Adolf Hitler, according to all accounts, is not sufficiently well posted in world conditions and affairs outside of Germany for any alien considerations to affect his decisions in decisive manner. And, regardless of Nazi protests, it cannot be denied that the spark which may set the world aflame is carried by this same man, Hitler.

Latest reports from Europe are encouraging to the lovers of peace. Tension over Danzig seems to have lessened and there is a greater disposition to leave subjects of dispute to the arbitrament of the peaceful conference table.

And there may, after all, be time for the President to submit this issue of neutrality and how best to maintain it—if there be such a thing—to the people for their decision. As he is reported planning following his failure with the senate.

Homes and Health.

If you are planning a home, see a health expert. That is sound and sensible advice to all persons planning to build a home beyond a community water supply or sewer system. The advice comes from Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, director of the State Department of Public Health. Pointing out the necessity for exercising great care in the proper planning and executing of home water supply and disposal systems, Dr. Abercrombie urges prospective home builders to consult with sanitation experts and local public health officers.

Dr. Abercrombie emphasized that this service is for the asking. "State, county and district public health departments have employes who are technically trained and experienced in safeguarding public health," said Dr. Abercrombie. "These officials can furnish the home builder with plans for properly designed and constructed wells and septic tanks which will obviate the nuisance and menace to health which improperly designed systems represent."

This advice is appropriate at all times, especially so at present, when so many new homes are going up in areas beyond community water supply and sewer systems. Builders of new homes will do well to heed the words of the state director of public health, for their own sake as well as for the community as a whole.

Splending!

From time immemorial, a congressional prerogative has been a final dip into the "pork barrel" at the end of a session of congress. In some administrations, tight purse-strings prevented a wholesale and whole-hearted raid upon the treasury. In others, open safe doors invited the huntsman.

Today, however, one can find in the new "splending" bill an extension of the principles of the "pork barrel" from congressional halls to every county courthouse and city hall in the nation and to various and sundry private individuals heretofore kept from the public trough.

Wrapped up in beautiful phrases, the actual operation of the bill will add up to this: "here it is, boys, come an' get it—the barrel is open, but remember who opened the game to all comers when the election rolls around." It adds up to $2,560,000,000, gets around the debt limit of $45,000,000,000 in beautiful fashion and is an invitation to civic bankruptcy—financially and morally—never before equalled.

There are many self-liquidating civic ventures. There are many more that can be made ostensibly self-liquidating, but should fool no intelligent citizen. Those in the first category do not require government financing. Private capital will privide, quickly and cheaply, all the money necessary. Those in the second category are the ones which will be used to open the public trough to the courthouse and city hall politicians of the land.

It may be expected cities will sprout with new construction of public buildings and projects and become green as an April field. For several years. Then the drouth, and the worst collapse of local governments in the history of the country. Left then would be but one course. Federal control of cities and counties. Is that the real goal of the splenders?

Pilots in America.

The increase of interest in aviation in this country is reflected in a report of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, made last week, in which it was said that 26,144 pilots and 11,160 aircraft were holding active certificates on July 1. This represents an increase of more than 6,000 pilots and 1,400 aircraft from the preceding year.

It is striking to note, however, that the number of civilian pilots and civilian planes is vastly less than the military air strength of any two European powers, and that public participation in civilian flying in this country is far less than that of European nations.

It is difficult to believe that in a nation of approximately 130,000,000 persons, only 26,144 are licensed to fly in civilian pursuits, and that military flying personnel adds only a few thousand to this list. It is all the more remarkable in a nation producing and developing the world's best and safest aircraft.

Next year the total should be much higher, since this fall will see the development of the civilian training program beyond anything heretofore attempted.

Cheaper and safer planes for the transport of amateur pilots also will have a great effect on the number of pilots, since training in this country has chiefly been financed by private funds, while in Europe vast sums of government money have been poured into the development of pilots. While it is inevitable this government will spend more and more on civilian pilot training, the real development of the aviation industry will come when training and planes have been brought within the reach of the average citizen. This goal is not far off.

Not all the torso cases happen in Cleveland. There are those congressional bills that go to conference.

If Japan said to China, "this hurts me more than it does you," it could be from the heart.

CONSUMERS NEED NO NURSEMAIDS

(From Collier's.)

We're glad to see the Advertising Federation of America start a backfire against the various "consumers' protective" groups—meaning outfits that profess to be able to give you the inside lowdown on whether almost any product you name is as advertised.

These people have been asking for a kickback for some time . . . but before we go on, we'll ask you please to bear in mind that we depend on advertising for most of our revenues, believe in advertising, and will take all the reputable advertising we can carry alongside a generous amount of fiction, articles and pictures. So please discount our remarks accordingly, and see if you can pick any flaws in them.

In a going and highly complex society, there have to be ways of spreading news to great masses of buyers regarding who has was goods to exchange for money or other goods. Advertising is the natural and the fastest way yet invented. It happens to have been raised to the level of an art in the United States—the verve and inventiveness of the American mind, we suppose.

There have been and are abuses in American advertising. In so far as these consumers' protective groups aim at those abuses with real, scientifically gathered information, they render a genuine service, and more power to them.

Our chief complaint is that they try to take in too much territory. Actually they are against advertising and really are hostile to private business enterprise. They are long on propaganda and short on facts. So they pass along prejudiced gossip.

Here are a few truths that seem self-evident to us:

A business concern that hopes to survive cannot risk antagonizing the buying public by printing fraudulent or exaggerated advertising—which, like any other class of lie, will eventually out.

Every reputable publication nowadays exercises careful supervision over the advertising it prints. Slips occur, but not many.

The Federal Trade Commission has ample power (some people think too ample) to make a firm in interstate commerce stop making excessive or baseless claims for its products.

People themselves, as a rule, aren't so dumb as the self-appointed consumers' guardians appear to believe. A surprising number of us common clucks, while we enjoy a handsomely gotten-up and well-written ad, can spot any lies or half-lies it may contain—the ultimate loser being none other than the advertiser himself.

Well, what it all adds up to, we believe, is that periodical advertising as conducted in the present-day United States is conducted more and more ethically all the time; that most advertised goods sold today are as represented by their makers in their advertising; and that the self-appointed consumers' nursemaids are offering consumers a lot of information that isn't real information.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

MEMORABLE CONFERENCE WASHINGTON, July 20.—The hurrying headlines did meager justice to the recent White House conference on the neutrality act. The evening meeting will be remembered as the occasion when action on the vital arms embargo problem was finally deferred. Yet the details of the scene—the curious interplays of personality between the bland, masterful President, the worried, haggard secretary of state, and the puzzled or captious legislative leaders—were also memorable.

BRIGHT NEW LIGHT The prelude to the meeting was grimly illuminating. Convinced that repeal of the neutrality act's arms embargo would be the best deterrent to the war-making nations, the White House and the State Department hoped for action even after the adverse vote of the senate foreign relations committee. Urged by the President, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley asked for an appointment toward the end of last week with the minority chieftain, Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon.

The shrewd McNary and the bumbling Barkley met in Barkley's dingy office in the bowels of the Capitol. Barkley said that he wanted McNary and other influential Republicans to talk over the neutrality matter with the President. The request initiated negotiations, in which the Republican view was stated as being that neutrality was a partisan issue. It was said that, if war should come this summer, the Republicans would be damaged by their refusal to listen to the President's warnings, whereas, if war should not come, the shoe would be on the other foot, with the President seeming an alarmist.

For these pretty cynical reasons, which put the recent story of neutrality in a bright new light, the Republicans were reluctant to participate in the conference. Nevertheless, they gave in, and, in the end, the party was made up to include McNary, Barkley; the chairman of foreign relations committee and senior Republican member, Key Pittman, and William E. Borah; McNary's assistant leader, Warren R. Austin, of Vermont; Vice President John N. Garner, and, of course, Hull.

RELATION OF GREAT MATTERS The meeting took place after dinner, in the President's comfortable, littered upstairs study in the White House. The first ten minutes were occupied in technical discussion of the proper composition of gin highballs, after which the real business began. The President opened the discussion by outlining the situation in Europe in the darkest terms, emphasizing the "probability" of war, and describing repeal of the arms embargo primarily as a war deterrent.

Thereupon, Borah, the old lion of the League fight, tossed in a question. Did the President mean that war was really "probable," or merely "possible"? The President softened his language a trifle, but still insisted on his main point, that prompt repeal of the arms embargo was desirable. He then turned the meeting over to Cordell Hull, whose intense seriousness, obvious anxiety, and almost pleading tone contrasted sharply with the President's genial self-containment. In every account of the meeting, this striking contrast between the manners of the two men is prominently mentioned.

Hull said the same things as the President, only in much stronger terms. His estimate of the foreign situation was quickly disputed by Borah, who said flatly that he also had information on affairs abroad, that he regarded it as more reliable than the information of the State Department, and that it contradicted the disturbing picture painted by Hull. He supported this remarkable statement with reminiscence of the League fight, as a previous occasion when the State Department was misinformed. For a moment, the discussion threatened to become really acrimonious, but at length the President suggested that argument served no good purpose, and requested a decision.

Barkley then asked McNary how the Republicans would meet another attempt at neutrality revision. McNary replied that they would vote unanimously against it. Barkley glumly added that he himself had polled the senate, and had to report that, without Republican help, the votes for action were lacking. Garner made his little remark about the impossibility of doing anything when "you haven't got the votes," and everyone else agreed. The President assented, with the remark that the "responsibility was the senate's" and that this fact must be made plain, to which Borah and McNary replied that they would be happy to accept the responsibility. The President himself wrote the statements for the press, both his own and that of McNary and Barkley, and the meeting broke up.

Throughout the meeting, except for the brief Hull-Borah interlude, the tone was friendly, and sometimes even jolly. At one point, the President teased the rebellious Garner, talking of what "friends" he and Garner were, and how well they "understood each other." And at the meeting s close, he actually invited McNary to go to Alaska with him. Thus are great matters consummated in the seventh year of the second Roosevelt.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Dream clouds float in the azure sky,
High roads beckon, my dear,
Roads where the eagles and swallows fly,
Lanes uncharted and clear.

Sun shines bright in untainted air,
There's freedom and space, above,
Let's take wing, I don't care where,
Hop in my plane, my love.

Untrumpeted, But Real Help.

There is an organization in Atlanta which, strangely enough, few people have ever heard anything at all about. Strange, because included in the membership are some of the most go-getting publicity hounds in the city. For this one cause, however, they muzzle their noses for the blurb and curb their appetites for printers' ink.

It is the Jolly Club, with a membership found among the executives and employes and workers of all types for Atlanta's theaters and motion picture exchanges, theatrical supply houses, etc. In fact, any business primarily engaged in the amusement field.

They don't seek publicity because the principal reason for their existence, as a club, is to extend a quiet, genuine and timely helping hand to any of their group, or the families of any of their group, who are in dire need of such help.

There are stories that could be told, if they'd only permit. Stories of widows and orphans left penniless when the breadwinner of the family passed out of the picture. Of those widows and orphans cared for, of jobs provided and of children decently fed and sent properly to school.

There are stories of help during extended periods of sickness. Of medical supplies, food, clothing provided for those desperately in need.

And, back of those stories, is the Jolly Club. Don't you think it is well named? For what could be jollier than the knowledge of a good deed done at the right time, without blare of trumpets?

Not For Others Alone.

Occasionally the Jolly Club breaks loose in unusual manner and, when it does, the prejudice against publicity disappears. One of these rare events is to take place at Lithia Springs tomorrow. The annual picnic and outing. When big shot executives will vie at horseshoe pitching with their office boys and the girls from the front offices will see if they can beat their sisters of the testing rooms at swimming, diving or bathing suit adornment.

A big time, of course, will be had by all.

Incidentally, the Jolly Club is engaged, at the moment, in a membership drive. They have heavy calls on the club treasury, naturally, and more dues are needed. They want everyone in Atlanta connected with amusements, direct or remote, to come in and be one of the gang.

Hence the permission for this publicity.

Naturally, the publicity they asked was all about the annual picnic and the membership drive. That material about the quiet helpfulness they extend is published without knowledge of the club or its officers. They may be a little mad when they read it. But, what the odds? I happen to know it's true and nothing true need fear the light of publicity.

And, just for your information, the Jolly Club has recently elected new officers. They are: George Jones, of Republic Pictures Corporation, president; Riley Davis, of the Theatrical Printing Company, vice president; M. Savini, treasurer, and Bill James, secretary.

Accidental Vegetation.

They are neighbor families in beautiful homes, with large garden areas, in the outskirts of Atlanta. Both go in much for decorative shrubbery, rose bushes, gladiolus culture, the growing of many varieties of flowers.

In the middle of a large flower bed at one home, this summer, there has grown a single stalk of corn. Undoubtedly sprung from some stray kernel, in fertilizer perhaps.

On the other place, there is a watermelon vine, equally as accidental in origin.

Both families are cultivating, one the stalk of corn and the other the watermelon vine, with assiduous care. It is a sort of competition and centers more interest than all the flowers and shrubs legitimately growing.

On the stalk are six ears of corn, good sized and healthy.

On the vine are two medium-sized, and four embryonic melons.

Now they're beginning to argue as to which has done best with the "crop."

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, July 21, 1914:

"City officials of Atlanta are preparing to entertain today Mayor James H. Preston, of Baltimore, who will arrive with a party of officials of that city in Atlanta at an early hour this morning."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Sunday, July 21, 1889:

"Patrolman John Abbott happened to the misfortune to lose his police badge, "No. 4." He has no idea where or how it was lost, and anyone finding it will do him a great favor to return it."

Bees Delay Mail.

The mail must go through even when it takes a beekeeper to see that it does. A swarm of bees landed on a tree by the post office at Moberly, Mo., and most of the noon-day post office customers fled. A beekeeper finally coaxed the colony away and folks went back after their letters.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Previous Immunity NEW YORK, July 20.—Seymour Weiss, innkeeper and politician, who has been indicted on a federal charge in connection with the current Louisiana corruption, has enjoyed an interesting immunity up to now. He was indicted once before on income tax charges, but a settlement was accepted after the death of Huey Long in a political reconciliation between the heirs of the Long gang and the New Deal which has become famous, or infamous, as the second Louisiana purchase. At the time of the compromise it was announced in explanation of the federal government's action that there had been "a change of atmosphere" in Louisiana and Homer Cummings had to take the fall. He didn't peep.

Now the same department, under a new and younger attorney general, Mr. Murphy, who has political ambitions of his own and a mission from the New Deal to belittle Tom Dewey's record in New York, has indicted Mr. Weiss because certain documents were sent through the mails in the perpetration of a deal which is alleged to have been fraudulent. The income tax case was much more serious and much more plainly the business of the federal government, but neither one involved such flagrant defiance of the United States as Mr. Weiss's conduct in a previous affair, the investigation of the election by fraud of United States Senator John W. Overton.

Defiant At Hearing In that investigation Mr. Weiss defied a subcommittee of the United States senate in hearings in New Orleans and taunted General Ansell, the senate's counsel, to step outside the room, the suggestion being that he would punch the general's ears off. Huey Long was present, interrupting the proceedings and leading a packed gallery of political hoodlums, some of whom were armed, in disorderly demonstrations around the door. Huey was riding high at the time, and Weiss, who was his treasurer, had confidence that Huey's resourcefulness would pull him through any embarrassment with the senate.

Long afterward, probably to this day, it has been Mr. Weiss' boast that he practically ran the United States senate out of town, although now that there has been another "change of atmosphere" in New Orleans he may be somewhat more demure about his defiance of a body which has been known to defend its dignity with a terribly swift sword when challenged by less troublesome men than Huey Long.

Overton was elected as a Long stooge by the aid of a system of dummy candidates and fraud in the ballot boxes.

Weiss On The Stand On the stand Mr. Weiss replied, "None of your business," "Yes, I refuse to answer," and "You are ridiculous," to General Ansell as the senate's legal counsel attempted to obtain information as to the source of campaign funds and their expenditure. When, he said, "You are ridiculous," Huey interrupted to say, "He might invite you outside." At this suggestion Weiss, who sometimes acted as Huey's physical protector in small scuffles, challenged, "No, he has much better sense than to do that."

Somewhat later Senator Logan, of Kentucky, threatened contempt proceedings against Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, of New Orleans, and other Louisiana women for insisting that Overton be thrown out of the senate according to the law and several precedents. But Mr. Weiss' contempt was overlooked, and in the course of time he became again an intimate political friend of James A. Farley and a toiler for the Louisiana department of the New Deal under President Roosevelt. His conduct and the conduct of the Long machine in the Overton election were condoned, if not indorsed, even though Senator Connally, of Texas, said in a report on the inquiry, "such a device"—meaning the dummy candidate system used by Long to elect Overton—"is a fraud on the rights of any free people, because it is absolutely impossible for the public to know whether all the ballots were put there by voters or by hand-picked political bushwhackers. We find that in New Orleans there was fraud."

Senator Connally also said that the Long system of assessment and extortion of political funds, administered by Weiss, was "a vicious system under which helpless victims can be made the victims of extortion."

With such experiences in his past Mr. Weiss may feel little disturbed by the fluttering activities of Mr. Murphy in the new disturbance to date. The atmosphere of Louisiana, and particularly that of New Orleans, is subject to sharp, unpredictable changes.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

WPA STRIKES, THEIR RAMIFICATIONS Nothing in all the history of relief has been so ill-advised as the WPA strikes. It is impossible now to determine their ramifications. Certain it is, however, they will reach into all forms of relief and will make more difficult administration of county and city relief agencies. It will work to the detriment of community chests or funds, whatever they may be called.

The immediate consequences are many. One is that congressmen who were supporters of the WPA in their protest, have all but withdrawn. Bills introduced to restore the pay cuts will not be pressed.

Some 20,000 persons who presumably could not have afforded it, have received dismissal notices because they quit work. All projects in Minneapolis have been closed, throwing out of work, thousands who wanted to work. Minneapolis saw riots and murders occasioned because sewing-room women would not leave work and were protected by police. The sewing-room women were not involved.

Many people who believed in WPA, and this includes some in high official positions, already had reached the conclusion the entire system of WPA was wrong. This adds to their conviction.

The strikes shocked thousands because the strikes indicated those on strike believed WPA to be a permanent institution. It was never so designed or intended. The strikers have jeopardized all work relief by their actions.

People are angry. People are weary of violence in strikes of any nature. Especially did they resent strikes and violence against a nation which has gone to such lengths to relieve distress.

PUBLIC RECORDS While WPA officials have had a difficult task of administration, there seems to be no reason for the "public opinion be damned" attitude of the officials.

This might be a time for an airing of all WPA linen. WPA officials are hanging some of it on the line but do not wish to embarrass those guilty of thieving. The public may wonder why a WPA thief has any less reason to escape embarrassment than any thief hauled to jail in the black maria. The WPA rolls ought to be public property in so far as grand juries and courts are concerned. They are supported by public funds. It cannot be that WPA thieves are of a higher and more sensitive nature than other thieves.

Whether they intend it or not, the "public opinion be damned" attitude is injuring the administration in Washington, and working to the detriment of relief generally.

Not many people would be willing to depart from the chief objectives as announced by the original New Deal. Yet WPA strikes and dictatorial WPA officials are alienating public opinion at a rate faster than they imagine.

COUNTY WELFARE The county welfare work has been handicapped by what appears to have been a tempest in a teapot. But if it were not such a tempest, and if the charges are yet to be proved, the fact remains there are thousands of people in desperate need and that not enough money is available to care for them.

No one has disputed the fact the staff workers have more cases than they adequately may inspect. If there has been such a denial I have not seen it. No one denies there are thousands in desperate need and that many of them are old people and young people who cannot take any measures to care for themselves.

The cause of these people has been harmed by the WPA strikes and by WPA attitudes which make people believe that those in charge of relief are not doing a proper job.

Undoubtedly there have been instances of improper administration in relief. Yet to correct it by reducing the funds instead of correcting the administration, does not seem quite humane. The many Atlantans who live on the verge of starvation, excluding those found able to work, are numerous enough to require more money than is available. Yet the inclination has been to cast out the entire lot.

For this apathetic attitude of the public the WPA strikers and officials who deliberately antagonize public opinion, must bear a part of the blame.

Everybody Cheers One of the Fighters, But Only Wild Morons Climb Through the Ropes

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Ours is an English country. Our language, religion, literature and history, our background and system of law, our standards and our heritage of liberty, fair play and good sportsmanship are English.

With the possible exception of those who treasure old political or racial grudges against England, all informed citizens realize that our destiny, for good or ill, is now bound up with that of other members of the English-speaking family. Together we shall dominate the earth, or together we shall take second place.

We have fought England twice—once to gain freedom and again to preserve it—and narrowly missed fighting her again for the same reason.

But conditions and attitudes have changed, and our two nations, aware of their common interests, seem naturally inclined to pull together. When there is a free-for-all fight in some tough foreign port, English and American sailors automatically join forces. When the Germans threatened to interfere with Dewey at Manila, the commander of an English warship dared him to try it. And when that orgy of hate and murder began in 1914, English-speaking boys from many lands fought together as sons of the same house.

Of even greater significance is the fact, now generally recognized, that England's mighty fleet is our "first line of defense." Its very existence has held other nations in Europe and thus made easier our job of maintaining the Monroe Doctrine. The fleet wasn't built to serve us, but for purely selfish reasons; yet it has worked to our benefit, for we are safer when the seas are controlled by a friendly power rather than a combination of hungry powers on the make.

All of this we may concede. But that tells the story in full, and to go further and consider ourselves bound by honor or interest to help fight England's battles is sentimental imbecility.

As wise old Washington told his generation, there is no such thing as one nation doing a favor for another. Whatever the English people may think, those who rule England have no love for us. In their extremity they got all they could from us and then welched on the debt. They let us pay for their war and saved their own money. And they would use us and betray us without hesitation to serve their own interests.

Now once more they are engaged in the age-old struggle for power. Whatever isms cloud the issue, their one concern is to keep control of their subjects, save their investments and maintain their class in its place of social superiority.

Why in the name of common sense should we let them use us again? They are strong enough to fight their own battles. If they lose, which isn't likely, their enemies will be too badly crippled to bother us for another generation. We have nothing to gain and everything to lose by letting England use our blood and treasure in order to save her own.

Douglas Puckett Wins His Heat, So His $2 Has To Last Another Day

'Housing Problem' of Soap-Box Entrant Solved by Race Director.

By BETTY MATHIS.

Douglas Puckett, 12, came over om his home in Buford yesterday r the Soap Box Derby elimina- ons, fully expecting to see the reamlined models outrun his llopy.

His surprise and delight, there- re, at winning his heat and ining a place in the finals today as great, but Douglas had a se- ous problem on his hands. He d made no arrangements to stay ernight.

Douglas had promoted himself ride back home last night but at was no good to him any more, he resigned himself to seeking t a place where he could stretch s two dollars to cover both food d lodging.

H. M. Van Devender, The Con- itution's director of the derby, pon hearing of one so young out his own in a strange big city, ok the lad in hand and enter- ined him overnight.

Van Devender to young Doug, a most important man, for it is e who signs acknowledgments of ntries. The pride, therefore, which is youngster radiated at being the uest of the "big man" of the show as overwhelming.

Douglas, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Puckett, came into the offices f The Constitution yesterday, face overed with a grin, clutching his teel helmet and willing to talk to nyone about his double good for- une.

He was proud of his orchid and rown car which "doesn't look ery good but runs swell." And he as predicting that he would come n no worse than tenth in today's ield of 30.

The youngster is typical of the American boy, enthusiastic about what he is doing, and pretty level- eaded about his plans for the fu- ure.

Started Nailing.

Blond, blue-eyed, and barefoot- d, he hopped around in his chair s he described building the car which carried him to victory yes- erday as a process in which he 'took a 12-inch plank and started nailing."

Construction of the car took a month of working in secret, after which the finished product emerg- ed for test runs which were clock- ed by the local police of Buford at nearly 40 miles an hour.

In his zeal, however, to prove his car, the youthful designer and builder used poor judgment in taking a few curves and had to straighten the rear axle of his masterpiece. That repair, however, was the only change made other than a second paint job.

Douglas already has intricate plans drawn for a super-streamliner which he will enter in the race next year.

Wants to Fly.

As for the more distant future, this lad plans to become a commercial aviator and fly the biggest plane that is made.

Of course, there is the more immediate consideration of school which begins soon (he enters the seventh grade in the fall), and which will take up his time except on Saturdays when he will work out further details of his new car and the cars which he will enter in the races the two years following.

It is a pretty full schedule, but not too much for this enthusiastic youngster who completely captured the fancy of everyone at The Constitution.

This lad might even grow up to be President some day.

MUSSOLINI TO DIVIDE ESTATES OF SICILIANS

ROME, July 20.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today announced a 10-year plan to break up large landed estates in Sicily and to substitute small farms cultivated by the families living upon them.

The plan contemplates construction of 20,000 individual farms in an area of about 1,250,000 acres at a private and public cost of 4,000,000,000 lire ($208,000,000). The large landowners are expected to co-operate voluntarily and receive compensation for their land.

LIONS' CONVENTION LAUNCHED IN RAIN

Georgian Named Vice Chairman of Board of Governors.

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—(AP)—More than 10,000 members of Lions International turned to business of their 23rd convention today after finally getting in a rain-delayed parade with a blaze of colors and enthusiasm.

Nominations for new officers and next year's convention city, highlighted a packed program. Delegates from Cuba and Detroit are fighting to take the 1940 gathering to their localities.

The 89 district governors of Lions International elected Dr. C. L. Kennedy, Montgomery, W. Va., chairman of the board of governors for the next year, with Dr. H. L. Barker, Carrollton, Ga., vice chairman.

Other officers will move up automatically at the elections tomorrow. They are Alexander T. Wells, of Long Island City Club, of New York, present first vice president, who will become president; Karl M. Sorrick, of Springport, Mich., who will be first vice president; and George R. Jordan, of Dallas, Tex., who will be named second vice president.

Melvin Jones, of Chicago, club founder, will continue as secretary-general.

Wells, an attorney and former district governor of New York state, will succeed Walter F. Dexter, of Sacramento, California's superintendent of public instruction.

Seven nominees for five vacancies on the board of directors are: Fred H. Gabbi, of Portland, Me.; George (Skeet) Johnson, of LaGrange, Ga.; J. W. Aayfer, of Chickasha, Okla.; Harry W. Lindenan, of Orange, N. J.; L. E. Morris, of Collinsville, Ill.; Henry W. Sweet, of Bessemer, Ala.; and Carbis A. Walker, of Winston-Salem, N. C.

PRESTON MAULDIN SHAKES DERBY JINX

finals and he lost again, this time to Lamar McDaniel.

Preston goes up against the pick of nearly 200 cars which entered the first eliminations Thursday in the races Friday.

The Thursday eliminations were a succession of thrills. Along the track were many of the winners from other Georgia cities, there to observe the competition they must face in the North Georgia championship finals Saturday.

The Atlanta preliminaries are to choose the one car and driver most worthy to represent Atlanta in the North Georgia finals against Barney Whitaker, of Augusta; Tommy Barksdale, of Conyers; Bill Ennis, of West Point; Robert Glore, of Newnan; J. E. Garrett Jr., of Gainesville; Tom Chick, of Monroe; Bob Blackwell, of Homer; Fred Knox Jr., of Fair Oaks, near Marietta, winners in the zone championships.

Preston Mauldin was not the only one of the Atlanta contenders who had his own gallery to cheer him and who gave the other city champions something to think about.

Sailed to Fame.

There was George LaFitte Jr., whose great-great-grandfather, Jean, made quite a record for speed in sailing ships around New Orleans early in the 1800's and whose heroic service to Andrew Jackson and American liberty has been immortalized in the motion picture, "The Buccaneer."

George raced a swift model, "The Mercury," last year. But in his eagerness to give his car every advantage, he lubricated its wheels too heavily with graphite, and the lubricant itself slowed him down and he lost. This year he has a faster car, the "Tallyho," which breezed in first in George's preliminary heat, No. 41.

And the "Mercury," painted blue instead of white and with quite a bit of remodeling by George's buddy, Rodney Browning, justified George's original hopes for her when she, too, breezed out front by several lengths to win in Heat No. 44 with Browning at the wheel.

The Tenhundfeld brothers, George and Donald, both came through the first eliminations to qualify for Friday's trials, when they raced their twin bullet cars to place, Donald first in Heat No. 31 and George second in Heat No. 40. Both cars are identical in every detail, both shaped like shells to fit a 12-inch naval gun, and in practice heats both cars have delivered the same speed over identical courses.

Dreamed For Weeks.

The brothers Tenhundfeld have dreamed for weeks of going through all the eliminations together, to go into a tie in the finals, and then decide between them who shall go to Akron. It is just a boyish dream of two brothers fixed by the spirit of competition.

But every car in the race is the symbol of a boyish dream and a boyish ambition. That is why 15,000 people thronged the 1,200-foot derby downs to see the preliminaries Thursday morning. And as many more will be there, cheering, thrilled, inspired, for the preliminaries Friday and for the Atlanta and north Georgia finals Saturday.

Mickey Baker, who failed to place one-two in his trial heat when an opponent's accident forced him into a tailspin and he crossed the finish line a la Corrigan, tail first, was ruled eligible for the second round of preliminaries to be run Friday.

Other boys who qualified for Friday's preliminaries are listed below, as winners or runners-up in their respective elimination heats.

Heat No. 1—A 13, Preston Mauldin, first; A 81, Bob Carter, second.
Heat No. 2— A 80, Paul Trammell, first; A 67, Jason Smith, second.
Heat No. 3—A 2, Bobby Matheson, first; A 39, Howell Sewell, second.

MARY LEWIS PLANS RETURN TO STAGE

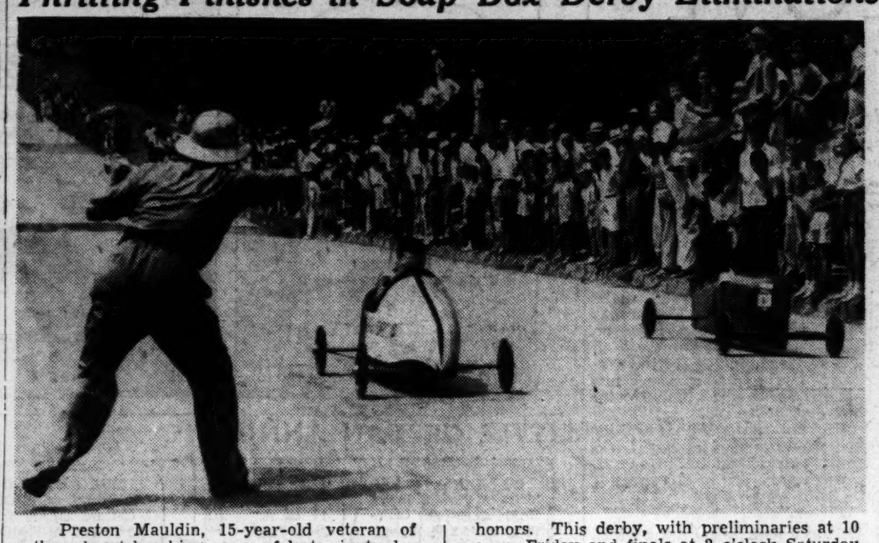

Former Opera Star Begins South American Tour.

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP)—Mary Lewis will sing again. The Arkansas girl who became a Metropolitan opera star 13 years ago will return to the concert stage July 26 in out-of-the-way San Juan, Puerto Rico.

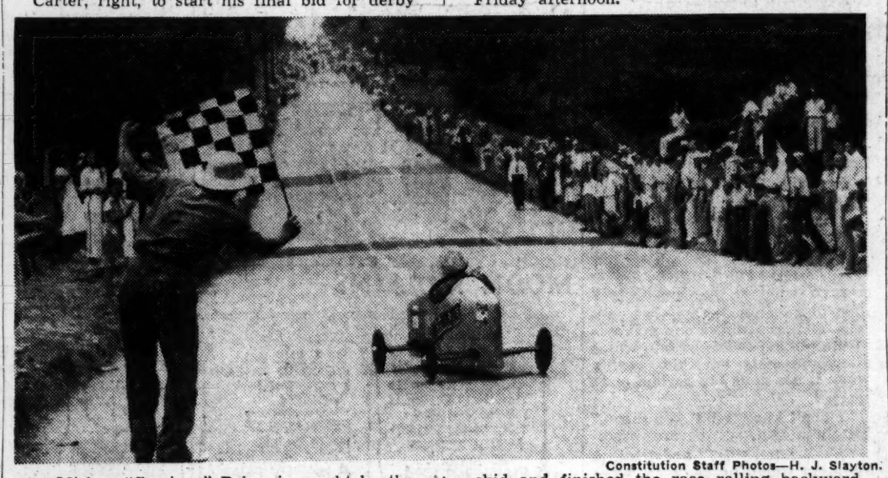

Today, reporters found her—a widow since the death early this year of her husband, Robert Hague, wealthy Standard Oil executive—in a modest stateroom aboard the Puerto Rico liner Borinquen.

Elmer Zoller, accompanist for the singer who rose from the Ziegfeld Follies to opera, said she was undertaking the West Indian and South American tour "because she is an artist," not because she needed money.

Thrilling Finishes in Soap Box Derby Eliminations

Preston Mauldin, 15-year-old veteran of three heart-breaking years of last-minute defeats in Soap Box Derby racing, is shown at the left as he breezes across the Northside drive derby downs finish line ahead of Bob Carter, right, to start his final bid for derby honors. This derby, with preliminaries at 10 a. m. Friday and finals at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, is his last chance for long-sought honors. Next year he will be 16, over the age for entering the derby. He will race again Friday afternoon.

Mickey "Corrigan" Baker is caught by the camera in the thrilling "wrong way" finish in his Soap Box Derby elimination heat on Northside drive Thursday. Thousands watching gasped as Mickey went into a swooping skid when an opponent's steering gear broke and threatened a wreck. With steel nerve worthy of a track veteran, Mickey rode out the skid and finished the race rolling backward down the steep hill. He gets another chance in the eliminations Friday morning which will pick the finalists who will race for the city championship at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The north Georgia championships will be run with nine zone winners competing after the Atlanta city championship is settled Saturday.

JEWS ARE ACCUSED OF ILLEGAL ENTRY

MacDonald Urges Co-operation With Quota Scheme of Palestine Immigration.

LONDON, July 20.—(AP)—Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald charged Jewish organizations today with deliberately encouraging illegal immigration to Palestine to wreck the new British policy.

He urged them to co-operate with the quota scheme of immigration since "Britain is a friend of the Jewish people."

Illegal entry of Jews has proceeded on a "carefully organized and regularized" scale, MacDonald said in house of commons debate.

Between April 1 and May 24, 1,300 Jews entered the country legally and 9,050 illegally, he said, and aded that the 10,350 total was larger than for any six months in the last three years.

Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the admiralty, suggested that Britain reverse her policy and "make a real home for the Jews in Palestine."

"Having made up our minds to support the Jews, we should tell the Arabs' government and kings of their countries frankly that you have vast spaces in Syria and Arabia to expand in," he said.

STRAWBRIDGE UNIT TO DANCE TONIGHT

Eleven Numbers Will Be Given on Program at Dunaway Gardens.

Georgia has acquired its first cultural colony in the work of Edwin Strawbridge, famous American dancer, who established his headquarters at the Hettie Jane Dunaway Gardens at Newnan during July.

Each Friday at 8:30, Atlanta time, Strawbridge is offering a dance program, featuring Virginia Miller, his partner for several years, and Estelle Best, pianist. Fred Spires and Henry Omand have come from New York to assist with the weekly recitals.

Tonight Strawbridge will present a series of 11 numbers, including his "Orestes Pursued by the Furies," and "Valse Triste," the latter a dance depicting the consciousness of the dying dancer filled with memories of his past. Miss Best will continue her piano demonstrations, offering selected music which will be punctuated with brief explanations of interesting points of the compositions. Strawbridge and Miss Miller will close the program with a polka from "The Bartered Bride," the complete dance of which he will offer later in the month.

FIRST AID STATION.

NEWNAN, Ga., July 20.—A new Red Cross first aid station, the second of its kind in the county, has been installed in a service station on the Greenville highway, according to Mrs. C. B. Smith, chairman of the Coweta chapter of the Red Cross. Robert Arnold and Arthur Hanson Arnold, both of whom have secured first aid certificates, will operate the station.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE DAY BEFORE.

'Twas the day before congress,
When all through the town . . .

With due acknowledgements to Clement C. Moore, I dare to paraphrase the above famous couplet, adding this interpretation—it is not of Christmas we are thinking today, but of the Baptist Alliance in its sixth world congress, opening tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at Ponce de Leon Park. And whereas the poet was dreaming of St. Nicholas coming shyyly down the chimneys to leave dainties in the uphung stockings, we are joyously thinking of the friends from many lands who today and tonight and tomorrow will come through the widely swinging gates of our city to bring gifts of fellowship and understanding.

On this Friday morning before the congress opens, I am happy to say that, insofar as I can see, the situation is okey. I wouldn't say our work has been perfectly done for the reason that we just happen to be a group of human beings, we trust with divine blessing, but still human beings, which is to say that our work could not be perfect; but I do believe a good job has been done.

And how? By the everlasting co-operation of everyone. And my faith is firm in the belief we are going right through to the end of the congress in good shape. The faint hearts who couldn't see it at first have been reassured, and it seems to me we may fairly say we are together in one place in one accord. That's grand.

All one needs to do is to watch the newspapers and radio for all the answers to all the questions. Every policeman, every fireman, every operator of street cars, buses, taxicabs, every hotel employee, every boy scout, every salesman and saleswoman, every elevator operator,—every citizen of 9tlanta—is a committee of one to extend Atlanta's joyous welcome to every person who comes to the Alliance. If someone asks you a question you can't answer, find somebody who can answer it before you let the stranger get away.

Which reminds me of a story. Three of us from the south, had gone to Stockholm for the third world congress in 1923, were walking in one of the parks, and when we thought we had started back toward our hotel, we discovered we were somewhere else. We asked a policeman if he could direct us to the Continental hotel. With a smile, he beckoned us to go with him, walking fully a mile till he brought us within full view of the hotel. And did we like Sweden and Stockholm? That alone would have been sufficient to win us completely.

JOURNALIST CHARGED AS SPY FOR GERMANY

LONDON, July 20.—(AP)—Donald Adams, 56-year-old racing journalist, was ordered held for trial on a charge of spying for Germany at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing today.

When he was brought before a police magistrate June 30 Adams said he was innocent of "giving away anything that is not in the public press."

WEEP FOR LOVE

While Their Car Is Delayed by Fog, Kim Tells Betty He Loves Her

By RUBY M. AYRES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

When Derek Challoner, stodgy English landowner, sees dainty Stella Dawson playing a small part in a suburban theater, he forgets his vow not to marry again and is a persistent suitor. Imposing Narrow Lane Hall dep sses his young bride, but he ignores her request to live in his small house in London. She is happy after her baby is born until the Challoner tradition puts little Elizabeth in charge of nurse, then governess. After seven unhappy years she welcomes the open adoration of impecunious Pip Hulbert. When divorce looms she pleads with Derek for Betty. He refuses and after she marries Pip, Betty pines and Derek's doctor says she will die if not permitted to go to her mother. When Elizabeth is 16 Pip is killed in an accident and Stella is inconsolable. While on a bus trip a year later Elizabeth meets Kim Lawless after disregarding a warning to trespassers and picking primroses in his wood. She likes him and he says he hopes she will come again. Derek dies, leaving half his wealth to Elizabeth if she quits her mother and lives with her Aunt Thornley. Her stepsister Penelope brings this news and can't understand her decision to remain with her mother. Penelope tells her she was to marry Lawless but Kim broke the engagement. Stella dies and Elizabeth lives with Miss Thornley. She meets Lawless at the Selbys' dance and then at their place in Somerset. Miss Thornley phones that Penelope is ill in Paris and Kim starts to drive her to Dover to catch the night boat. A heavy fog delays them. Now go on with the story:

INSTALLMENT XIII.

"I am afraid that you will not," he answered. "I had no intention of catching it."

He spoke so hardly that the unwilling tears rushed to her eyes though her voice was steady enough when she said:

"Aunt Thornley will be anxious about us."

Once again he corrected her.

"Anxious about you, but if it is any consolation, the boat will not leave if the fog is as bad as this at Dover."

A sudden yellow gleam of blurred light split the greyness of the world and Lewless stopped the car.

"It's a house of some sort. I'll ask if they can help us."

He was gone a long time, and Elizabeth began to feel apprehensive. The fog made everything so still and silent—and again the feeling she had known when her mother died, of blindness and of being alone in a dark room, stole over her heart.

Loneliness—surely the most terrible of all things.

She had experienced it so many times during her short life that she dreaded it inexplicably; impulsively she had moved to open the door to go in search of Lawless, when she heard his returning steps along the road.

"The people were very decent," he said. "They let me ring up the A. A. and ask about the roads. Apparently this fog is pretty general and much thicker on the coast, so it is extremely unlikely the boat will leave tonight. Anyway, I am afraid we shall not be there in time. I rang the Selbys, too, and explained the fix we are in. The question is would you prefer to take a chance and go on? Or shall we try to find some place where we can stay? There is a village inn of sorts a few yards farther on."

"I think I would rather go on if you don't mind," Elizabeth said quickly.

"Very well. Have you got another coat with you? If so, you had better put it on or you may take cold. I think you will probably be more comfortable in the back seat. You might get some sleep. There's a rug and a cusion."

"I'd rather stay where I am, if you don't mind."

"Very well. Here's the rug."

He laid it on her knees.

"Will you have a cigarette?"

"Thank you."

In the flare of the match he saw the pale oval of her face, the lovely eyes which so determinedly avoided meeting his, and the sensitive lips which trembled a little as she leaned towards him.

"Don't quarrel with me, Elizabeth!" he said abruptly as he threw the match away. "You may never come back from Paris or, if you do, I may not be here."

"Are you going away?" she asked quickly, and she heard him laugh as he walked around to the other door of the car.

"No, I'm not going away," he said, "but life plays funny tricks with people sometimes. Generally when they are least expecting it. Shall we go on?"

"Please."

It was a long time, during which she traveled an even longer way in her troubled thoughts, before she spoke his name diffidently.

"Mr. Lawless, I'm sorry. I'm very grateful to you—really."

"Grateful? For this depressing ride through the fog?"

She had leaned a little towards him in her earnestness, but now she drew away again.

"You're laughing at me," she said painfully.

Laughing!" Lawless answered ironically. "If a man of my size was permitted the luxury of tears, I should be shedding them now."

"You're still laughing at me," she said again.

"No, at myself," he contradicted her. "Perhaps you haven't yet discovered what an inestimable gift it is to be able to laugh at oneself—at the mistakes one makes—at the unkind twists of fate which allow one only to find reality when it has gone far beyond one's reach."

"I don't know what you mean," Elizabeth said, and he answered.

"Shall I tell you?" and then, as she kept silent, he went on: "Yes, I will just in case we never meet again. I mean that I love you, 'Elizabeth. I'm not 'in love' with you, as I have been with half a dozen other girls at one time and another. I loved you when we first met and you were stealing my primroses—you stole my heart as well! There was never any doubt about it but, if there had been, I should have known for certain each time we have met When you came into the room that night in London at the Selby's house, I realized it all over again and, this afternoon, when I saw you at the window as I drove up to High Chimneys, it was as if I found the answer to every question there is in the world.

"I know you don't care for me—I know, even if you did, there is a barrier between us which your loyalty makes impassable; but, well, I've told you the truth and you can forget it or remember it as you please. Mind! You've dropped your cigaret!"

He stopped to recover it and threw it out of the window. For a moment there was profound silence, until he said more in his ordinary voice:

"The fog seems to be lifting at last," Elizabeth moved then, peering forward at the blurred glass with eyes that saw nothing. She was only conscious of the exquisite throbbing of every nerve in her body and of a wonderful feeling of exaltation as if she had been lifted high above the world with all its sorrows and disappointments and bitterness, so high above them that it was as if they did not exist.

NGLAND, FRANCE OTE U.S. FAVORITE OREIGN NATION

oosevelt Picked as Most Popular Statesman by rench; Nazis Least Liked by 3 Countries.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP. irector, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 20.—he United States is the favorite reign country of both England d France, while England is the untry best liked by Americans, cording to a survey conducted the three nations, respectively, the American Institute of Pub- Opinion, the British Institute Public Opinion and the recent-organized French Institute. The ation least liked by voters in the ree countries is Germany.

The American, British and rench surveys were all conduct- at the same time and by the me methods of sampling. In rance and England a representa- ve cross-section of the popula- on was asked: "What foreign ountry do you like best?" In the nited States voters were asked: What European country do you ke best?"

The results were:

British Voters Prefer:
U. S. A.	33%
France	22
Russia	12
Scandinavia	3
Germany	3
Switzerland	2
Holland	2
Belgium	1
Others	4
No opinion	19
French Voters Prefer:
U. S. A.	26.0%
England	23.0
Switzerland	15.0
Belgium	9.0
Russia	7.0
Italy	4.5
Sweden	2.5
Spain	1.5
Others	7.0
No opinion	5.5
American Voters Prefer:
England	43%
France	11
Finland	4
Switzerland	4
Sweden	4
Ireland	3
Germany	3
Italy	2
Norway	2
Russia	1
Others	7
No opinion	16

Two especially interesting facts stand out in these results. One is the relatively great popularity of Russia with the voters of Great Britain. Despite many years of strained relations between the British and the Soviets directly after the World War, and despite British abhorrence of Communism, Russia is the third most popular country. This may stem from the British desire for a military alliance to strengthen England's hand on the continent.

The other significant fact is the continued popularity of Finland among voters in the United States. The tiny republic has made a good showing in previous American Institute surveys on favorite foreign countries. The explanation is undoubtedly that Finland pays her American war debts.

A second question in the three surveys asked the voters of each country what nation they like least. In the United States the three least popular countries are Germany (58%), Italy (12%), Russia (8%). Among British voters the least liked are Germany (54%), Japan (11%) and Italy (9%), while in France an even higher percentage expressed a dislike for the Reich: Germany (70%), Italy (9%), Russia (5%).

In the French and American surveys additional questions brought out the fact that President Roosevelt is the foreign statesman best liked by the French people. He received more than twice as high a vote as Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, of England.

Among American voters the favorite statesman is Chamberlain, with Anthony Eden second, and Premier Daladier, of France, third.

The results follow. No question on foreign statesmen was asked in the British survey.

Favorite Foreign Statesmen.
American Voters Prefer:
Chamberlain	27%
Eden	13
Daladier	4
Mussolini	3
Hitler	2
Others	11
No opinion	40
French Voters Prefer:
Roosevelt	58%
Chamberlain	22
Stalin	4.5
Eden	3.5
Salazar (Portugal)	1.5
Others	7
No opinion	3.5

In answer to a final question regarding the foreign statesmen least liked, both American and French voters named Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin, in that order.

With the founding of the French Institute, whose reports will appear exclusively in France in Paris Soir, public opinion in the three democracies — England, France and the United States—will be measured and reported at regular intervals. The British Institute, whose reports are published by the London News Chronicle, was founded in 1936, and the American Institute, whose research is underwritten by 90 American newspapers, has been reporting American public opinion since 1935.

Department Stores Welcome Baptists

Department stores of Atlanta are prepared to welcome visitors to the congress of the Baptist World Alliance.

Interpreters are provided for foreign messengers.

One store arranged Baptist historical window displays, such as John Bunyan at work on "Pilgrim's Progress" and John Milton composing "Paradise Lost."

On display, too, will be the original manuscript of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Telephone directories of the principal cities of the United States are available.

MINIMUM PAY SET FOR DRUG INDUSTRY

37 1-2 Cents Per Hour Must Be Paid Employes Under Public Contract.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(UP) Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins tonight set 37 1-2 cents per hour as the minimum wage to be paid by members of the drug and medicine industry under the public contracts section of the Walsh-Healey act.

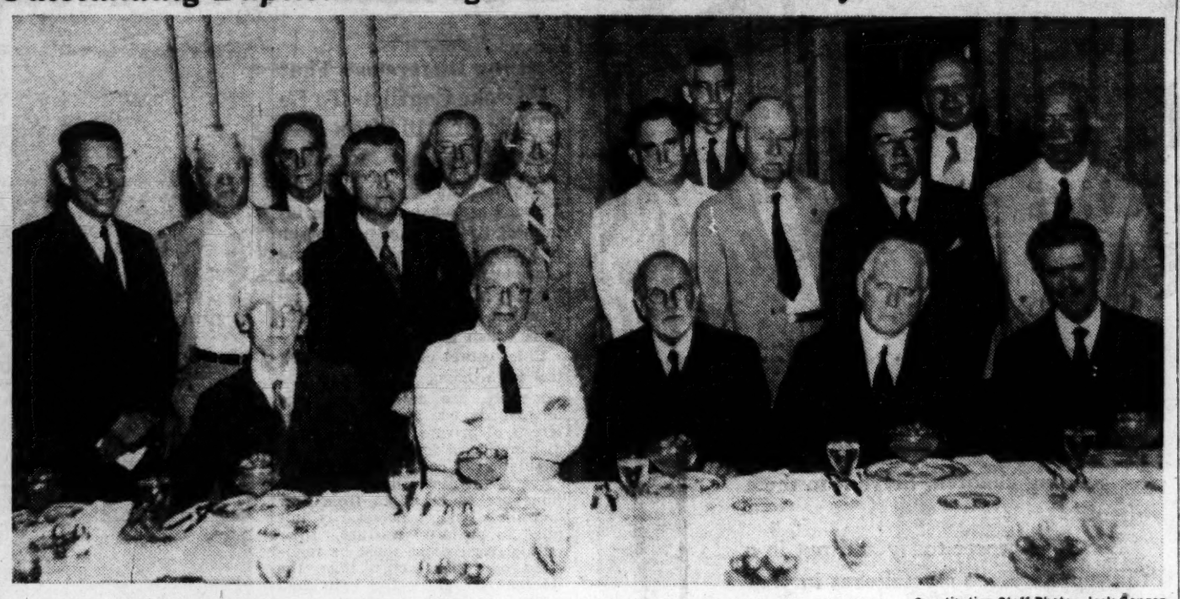

The proclamation means, in effect, that all drug or medicine producers holding contracts to supply government agencies with $10,000 or more of goods must pay their employes the 37 1-2 cents minimum. An alternative minimum of $15 per week for 40-hour work week was contained in the proclamation.

The proclamation included all manufacturers, processors and packagers of drugs, excluding industrial chemicals, and also covered handlers of medicinal specialties and pharmaceuticals. The minimum becomes effective August 3.

The population of Soviet Russia has more than doubled since 1926, the new census indicates.

BRITAIN MAY ASK 'SURE PEACE PLAN'

Measure for Disarmament Loan to Nazis Reported Under Way Now.

(Copyright, 1939, by United Press.)

LONDON, July 20.—(UP)—The British government was reported tonight to be preparing a "positive peace plan" for submission to Adolf Hitler in late summer if the "negative policy" of defensive alliances fails to assure the tranquillity of Europe.

Reports of the plan have been circulating for the past few days.

According to reports the plan may comprise the following points:

1. Germany would be asked to sacrifice some of her armaments. Britain and her allies would require guarantees that such unilateral disarmament actually is carrier out.

Secure Huge Loan.

2. Britain in return would secure for Germany a huge loan to enable Hitler to transform German industry from a war basis to a peace basis.

3. Further concessions to Germany, such as the granting of colonies, also would be considered once the reduction of German armaments actually is begun.

4. Britain would use every instrument of propaganda at her disposal to let the German people know about this offer, so that, if war comes, Germans would "know that their government is responsible."

The sources said a hint of this supposed plan already had been conveyed to Berlin and also mentioned to Dr. Helmuth Wohlthat, Nazi economic expert in London, but that it would not be put forward officially until late August or early September.

Seeks Better Methods.

Whatever form the plan finally takes, these quarters were convinced that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain definitely is seeking something "more constructive" than the system of alliances and guarantees being erected by Britain and France.

Diplomatic quarters, however, doubt that the scheme would succeed and believe that Hitler never would consent to disarmament, especially the unilateral disarmament of Germany. Nevertheless, some admit that the plan may have propaganda value in showing the German people and other nations how far Britain is willing to go to avert war.

While the supposed plan was being weighed, Britain was continuing negotiations to strengthen the European "security bloc" and to fend off trouble in the Far East.

HOWELL BACKERS MAP 1940 BATTLE

Camp was said to have been brought about by the former Governor's desire to carry on his political career while Young H. Fraser and Lindley W. Camp decided to cast their lot with the law, although all made it clear that Talmadge wishes Fraser and Camp success in the legal field and that if he enters the political arena they will be wishing him even greater success.

In this connection, it might be well to chronicle that Alex McLennan, a young lawyer, who has been in Hugh Howell's firm for a number of years and who took a leading part in the management of Howell's unsuccessful campaign for Governor last year, has parted company with Howell, legally at least. He has joined Carl N. Davie in the practice of law.

That both Talmadge and Howell, once the staunchest of friends, will oppose each other everyone believes. And there will be others—just how many no one seems to be able to determine at this early date. The only man certain not to run appears to be Governor Rivers, who is barred by the constitution under the section quoted above. The names of nearly a score of other prospective candidates have been printed and not one has denied that his "friends are importuning" him. Should one of the prospects issue a flat denial of any such intention at this time it would be hot news, so hot that it would relegate the WPA and the Baptist World Alliance back among the want ads.

Alleged Hit-Run Driver Caught, Fined a Few Hours After Accident

R. L. Bowman, Driver of Dairy Truck, Reported to Police He Chased and Stopped Car He Saw Strike Pedestrian at Intersection.

Georgia justice moved swiftly yesterday.

A few hours after capture by a passing truck driver of the alleged driver of a hit-run car which had struck and injured a young woman, fines totaling $96 were imposed upon the offender by Councilman Haire, sitting in recorder's court.

The victim was Miss Evelyn Wyatt, 26, of 433 Capitol avenue. According to police reports, she suffered cuts and bruises of the body when she was struck by a car at Fair and Washington streets. She was treated at Grady hospital.

R. L. Bowman, Decatur dairy truck driver, told police he chased the alleged hit-run car, forcing the driver to halt at Central avenue and Alice street. Police then arrested occupants of the car, listed as William G. Johnson, 68, and A. G. Beerman, 49.

Arraigned in recorder's court, Johnson was fined $50 on a charge of drunk and reckless driving; $25 on a speeding charge, $15 on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, plus costs.

He also was held to the county courts on a charge of disorderly conduct, lottery. Beerman was fined $25 on a charge of disorderly conduct, lottery. Police reported finding lottery slips in possession of both men.

Walther von Brauchitsch, German army chief of staff, said "we are not looking for a fight but do not fear it," and the Nazi press emphasized his speech as a warning to Poland when she is "being encouraged by foreign generals."

Great Britain's inspector-general of overseas forces is in Warsaw conferring with the Polish military staff.

At the scene of Hindenburg's great victory over Russia in 1914, von Brauchitsch told 2,500 army cadets that any claim Poland might make to East Prussian territory would be "a mistake which a soldier does not want to refute in mere words."

A crucial stage in British-Japanese negotiations at Tokyo on the Tientsin blockade was indicated when the British ambassador, Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, conferred with American and French diplomats. Observers expressed the belief that he had told them today's conference would determine whether the conversations would be continued.

Fear of Force.

Tokyo sources thought Sir Robert might have sought to learn the United States and French attitude in case Japan should resort to force against third powers in China if the present negotiations were broken off.

Moscow officials were silent on reports in Manchoukuo that Japan was ready to negotiate with Soviet Russia for settlement of the Mongolian frontier conflict.

In London, United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy had a long talk with Prime Minister Chamberlain and then announced that the Kennedy family would leave on a "short" vacation in southern France. This led observers to believe the prime minister had not been pessimistic about the course of European affairs in the next few weeks.

PASSPORTS RESTRICTED.

BUCHAREST, July 20.—(AP)—The Rumanian army general staff announced today that all male citizens leaving the country must have its written permission to obtain passports.

FOREIGN BAPTISTS POUR INTO ATLANTA

is in charge of foreign mission work of the Baptists in Canada.

With her husband, lieutenant governor of the province of Canada, Mrs. Matthews is outstanding in civic as well as religious circles in Canada.

They arrived last night at the Terminal station and were met by a member of the Governor's Horse Guard who escorted them to the Governor's mansion where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rivers during their stay in Atlanta.

The Honorable Mr. Matthews is western treasurer of the Baptist World Alliance and chairman of the board of McMasters College, Hamilton, Ontario, Baptist institution in Canada.

Cites Congress Value.

Dr. Ohrn expressed the opinion that the congress was of greatest value to nations like his own where Baptists are a small minority.

"The feeling that people in 70 nations are thinking and working for the same ideals as yourself makes us of the small countries far more active forces in our national life," he said.

Many members of the international executive committee arrived yesterday with the remainder of the group of nearly 40 scheduled for early this morning in time for the 10 o'clock meeting of that body at Druid Hills Baptist church.

This group will determine the nature of the business meeting set for next Thursday, and will discuss the election of officers who will serve the Alliance for the next five years. Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, the present general secretary, is prominently mentioned as the new president.

The important question of where the next congress will meet also probably will be taken up.

American Messengers.

Dr. George W. Truett, president of the Alliance, describing the congress as "preeminently designed to magnify fraternity and inspiration," yesterday expressed the need for the world to reaffirm the separation of church and state.

As these and other messengers prepared for a busy day sightseeing and visiting with their Baptist friends, many of whom they have not seen in five years, the mechanical business of registrations went on at the offices in the auditorium under the direction of the Rev. W. A. Duncan, chairman of registrations, who announced receipt of more than 10,000 credentials and fees which include virtually all foreign members of the congress already recorded and classified.

Influx of American messengers is expected to be heavy today, with 24 assistants enlisted to aid Rev. Mr. Duncan in his registrations.

Every visitor not only must send his credentials and registration fee, but must call at the registration offices to receive his badge, tickets, hymn book, etc.

Anticipated total attendance is now estimated at 55,000, 5,000 over the original figure, with more than 10,000 expected to be housed in the city. An additional 40,000 from Atlanta and other Georgia communities are anticipated. This does not include the 5,000 negroes who are expected to be quartered here also.

Other outstanding personalities who arrived yesterday included Dr. E. A. Payne, editorial secretary of the British Baptist Missionary Society, who is author of the pageant of the world Baptist history which is to be presented on Monday night; B. Gray Griffith, president of the British missionary body; Saw San Po Thin, messenger from Burma, who will take part in the colorful roll call of the nations on Saturday, and Dr. Clifton D. Gray, president of Bates College, Lewiston, Maine, and American secretary of the B. W. A.

Atlantans will begin an extensive series of entertainments for visiting dignitaries today. Outstanding among these is the lawn party, which will assemble nearly 150 guests, to be given by Dr. Ellis A. Fuller at his home tonight. Members of the executive committee, who also are included on Dr. Fuller's guest list, will be entertained at luncheon at the Druid Hills Baptist church today following their meeting this morning.

2,000 GUARDSMEN OF GEORGIA ENCAMP

Begin Intensive Two-Week Training Period at Fort McClellan.

Georgia National Guardsmen encamped at Fort McClellan, Anniston, Ala., yesterday began intensive training after completing preliminary routines of medical examinations, pitching tents and receiving supplies for the two-week stay.

More than 2,000 officers and men comprise the Georgia regiments in three units which reported at the Alabama camp Monday. The units are the 179th field artillery, of Atlanta, under command of Colonel T. A. Alexander, coach and instructor at Tech High; the 121st infantry, commanded by Colonel Lewis C. Pope, of Macon, and the "Lost Battalion," a battalion from the 122d Georgia infantry, left unattached when two battalions of the 122d were converted July 1 into the 179th field artillery. This battalion is commanded by Major A. N. Drake, of Elberton, and is expected to be converted into an anti-aircraft and coast artillery unit September 1.

The Atlanta artillery company is specializing in instruction in the use of 155 mm. howitzers, six of which were recently donated to the artillery unit by the army. The guns, little more than six inches in diameter, fire a shell weighing 95 pounds which experts say can kill every exposed person within a radius of 70 yards.

TALMADGE HINTS RACE FOR GOVERNOR

economic prosperity in this country, he said, is for the people to quit kidding themselves and get down to fundamental principles.

"The only happiness in the world is what we get out of our daily work," Talmadge declared. "When the people get to realizing that, we won't have to worry about economic prosperity."

Other speakers on the program were H. H. Durrence, and Lester C. Anderson, Metter attorney. R. E. L. Majors, editor of the Claxton Enterprise, was master of ceremonies.

TEN CLUB HONORS BAPTIST LEADERS

Ralph McGill Is Host at Dinner; Tribute Paid Late Colonel Paxon.

Several outstanding messengers of the Baptist World Alliance were honored by members of the Ten Club, organization of prominent business, professional and civic leaders, at the monthly meeting last night at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Brief talks were given by Dr. George W. Truett, president of the alliance; Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, of London, general secretary of the alliance, and Dr. C. J. Tinsley, president of the Australian Baptist convention.

An impressive tribute to the memory of Colonel Frederic J. Paxon, Atlanta business and civic leader, who served as scribe of the club for 40 years, and who had died since the last meeting, was a feature. Dr. Truett participated in this tribute by offering a prayer.

Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, was host at the dinner in connection with the meeting. Among out - of - town guests were Dr. W. F. Patterson, president of Acadia University, Nova Scotia; Dr. Clifton D. Gray, of Lewiston, Maine; Dr. N. J. Nordstrom, of Sweden, and Dr. W. Holms Coats, of Scotland.

BAPTIST NOTABLES TO AID DEDICATION

Alliance Officials Will Participate in Ceremonies at Wheat Street Church.

Notables of the Baptist World Alliance will participate in ceremonies at 8 o'clock tonight dedicating the new auditorium of the Wheat Street Baptist church, Auburn avenue and Yonge street, one of the largest negro Baptist churches in the United States.

The Baptist leaders include Dr. George W. Truett, of Dallas, Texas, president of the Baptist World Alliance; Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, of London, Eng., general secretary, and Dr. L. K. Williams, of Chicago, vice president.

Completion of the auditorium July 9 marked years of effort to have the structure in readiness for the Alliance gathering. Dr. William Holmes Borders is pastor of the church.

More vessels were launched in the Netherlands last year than in any previous twelvemonth.

ARMOUR REJECTS UNION PARLEY PLAN

CIO Chiefs Decide to Submit Meat-Packers' Issue to Roosevelt.

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP)—Armour & Company, confronted by threats of strikes at 17 of its plants, rejected proposals for a peace parley with representatives of the CIO today while union chiefs decided to submit the issue to President Roosevelt.

Spokesmen for the huge meat-packing firm refused to heed the demand of the Packinghouse Workers Organizing Committee for negotiations for a contract. At the same time they declined to consider suggestions of the city council labor subcommittee that they agree to confer with the unionists or submit the dispute to mediation.

Armour officials insisted the major issue—a national contract—should be placed before the National Labor Relations Board.

After discussing the stalemate with the aldermen, Henry Johnson, assistant national director of the PWOC, stated:

"The only thing left for us at the moment is to carry out the instructions of the delegates to the national policy convention of the PWOC held here last Sunday to lay the entire matter before President Roosevelt for his opinion on whether or not Armour & Company officials shall meet with officials of the PWOC and negotiate a contract in an effort to carry out the letter and spirit of the Wagner act."

The convention empowered PWOC chieftains to order strikes in 17 of Armour's 29 plants and to sponsor walkouts in other packing houses if they failed to arrange conferences on working agreements after carrying their case to Mr. Roosevelt.

SENATE GROUP OKAYS COAL MINE INSPECTION

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP)—Federal inspection of all coal mines to improve safety practices was approved today by the senate committee on mines and mining.

The measure, by Senator Neely, Democrat, West Virginia, and Representative Keller, Democrat, Illinois, has been indorsed by the United Mines Workers of America, and opposed as "unnecessary duplication of state mine bureau activities" by many coal operators.

Baptists Will Hear Anti-War Report

Settling Differences That Provoke Conflicts To Be Topic of Alliance's Session Tuesday Morning.

Baptists of the world, at their Tuesday session here, will be informed, by a commission set up to study how to avert war and promote peace, that the way lies through genuine international cooperation in the solution of problems which provoke hostilities.

Chief causes of war, a digest of the forthcoming report revealed yesterday, are nationalism, race inequalities, war industries, the interests of private capitalism, maldistribution of resources and overpopulation of certain countries.

"It is manifest that if the nations are to be freed from fear and the disasters necessarily implied in modern warfare, their mutual regulations must be regulated by other factors than the military power of the individual states," declared the digest.

"Generally accepted principles of right, based on the ethical views of Christianity and formulated in an international code, must be decisive in international disputes. Right must be made the leading and governing principle instead of violence and might."

Sweeping Effect.

The report, prepared by Commission No. 1 of the Baptist World Alliance under the chairmanship of Dr. N. J. Nordstrom, of Stockholm, Sweden, also struck with sweeping effect at egotiscal states, declaring:

"Might . . . can be misused. Whenever the exercise of might by the state takes place for the promotion of purely selfish aims, or in a way that encroaches upon the rights of other nations or states(it is ethically indefensible."

Digests were made public of two other reports, one by Commission No. 2, headed by Dr. H. Wheeler Robinson, of Oxford, England, and dealing with "The Baptist Contribution to Christian Unity," and the other by Commission No. 3, discussing reports and findings of the Oxford and Edinburgh conferences. Commission No. 3 was headed by Dr. W. O. Carver, of Louisville, Ky.

Commission No. 1 declared:

"War is organized violence on the part of states or nationalities. . . . There can be no doubt about war being in principle and essence incompatible with the ideal of Jesus for human community life. It is an outgrowth of human sin and, in consequence, something from which Christ wants to save us."

Opinions Differ.

The opinions of Christians differ on the justification of defensive was in certain cases, said the report. Some think that the position taken by pacifists, refraining from any partcipation in war or preparation for war, is the only one which agrees with the teachings of Christianity.

In considering war from the practical standpoint, the commission maintained the view that right, not violence or power, must determine not only the relations between individuals, but also between nations and states. In consequence, international disputes should be settled, not by war and violence, but by legal procedure and arbitration.

The commission cited three factors that might contribute to the creation of international jurisdiction: 1. "What is created by violence will never endure for long." 2. "The most important pre-supposition for an international judicial instiution is to be found in the common judicial consciousness of the different nations of the world." 3. "The love of peace in the nations is an important factor in all efforts for peace."

Complicated Situation.

The complicated situation in which the world is now placed, especially in regard to the questions here dealt with, should indeed rouse the whole Christian church in the world to new and deepened consideration of its calling and task," it was declared. "We, therefore, wish to address an earnest appeal to all Baptists of the world to give to these questions, which are of such immense importance to the future of the nations, the greatest attention and the most earnest study."

Dr. Robinson's commission, devoted to the Baptist contribution to Christian unity, was intended to bring out the distinctive beliefs and practices of Baptists as compared with those of other Christians; to indicate the principal points on which internal differences of opinion are found amongst Baptists, and to ascertain how far Baptists are prepared to go in the achievement of larger Christian "unity."

". . . Baptists may claim fairly that their contribution to the work and witness of the whole Christian church has been a notable one. Their cause can stand the pragmatic test, 'by their fruits ye shall know them.'"

The Oxford conferences emphasized the seriousness of the chaotic conditions of human society in the present world, it was reported. It brought into relief the difficulty of leading the Christian life and of establishing lorship of Christianity over every aspect of human life, individual and corporate, in community, civil state, economic order, and cultural spheres.

Dr. A. E. Payne (left), editorial secretary of the British Baptist Missionary Society and author of the pageant of Baptist world history which will be presented before the Baptist World Alliance Monday night, arrived yesterday at Candler field, accompanied by Dr. B. Dr. Payne will make two addresses before the congress. Dr. Griffith will speak on "Recent Progress in Foreign Missions."

Baptist Leader Describes Battle For Religious Freedom in Rumania

Dr. Rushbrooke, General Secretary of World Congress, States That Many Restrictions Against Freedom of Worship Have Been Lifted Recently.

The partly successful battle waged by Baptists for religious liberty in Rumania was described yesterday by the Rev. Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, of London, general secretary of the Baptist World Congress and its probable next president.

Rumania exercised repressive restrictions at one period, the official pointed out, and he described how these were partly overcome. The present situation is as follows, he said:

"M. Calineseu, who in recent months has come to be regarded as the 'Iron Man' of Rumania, as minister of the interior, resented the use of the police against honest and law-abiding citizens who happen to be dissenters.

Stops Police Action.

"It is significant that, amid the terrific pressure of affairs of state in these difficult days, this statesman has taken the decisive step of stopping police action against Baptist churches. We are justified in hoping that he will go further and . . . will exercise his authority in the interests of a just and lasting settlement.

"In Rumania the Baptists are not a foreign communion. The Rumania of today comprises three sections—the pre-war 'Old Kingdom,' the territory formerly under Russian rule, and the territory formerly under Hungarian rule. In all three sections Baptists were found before the boundaries of the present Greater Rumania were fixed.

Religious Freedom.

"The Rumanian constitution provides for religious freedom to all citizens. Any limitation of the exercise of this right could be justified only by infringement of public morals or danger to the state. Such considerations have no application to Baptists. Their high standard of character is known and respected. Neither Communists nor Iron Guards are found in their ranks, nor even objectors to military service; nor have they been at any time responsible for disorder. They are loyal and law-abiding citizens.

"The rights the Rumanian Baptists claim, with the sympathy and support of lovers of religious freedom throughout the world, are expressly acknowledged in Rumania as belonging to Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Calvinists, Unitarians, Jews, and Mohammedans, all of whom possess the legal status of 'recognized communions' (cults).

"Propaganda" Charged.

"The crucial issue is freedom of preaching. Baptists are blamed by the ecclesiastics for claiming this. It is asserted that they carry on 'propaganda.' The word has unhappy political associations; but after all, evangelization is propaganda for Jesus Christ. Another hard-used word is 'proselytism,' but in this connection it really means no more than that Baptist preaching has been successful in winning to living faith thousands who had no real religion before.

"Rumanian law itself admits the right of the individual to join the church to which he feels called. There are methods of proselytism which deserves condemnation—attempting to gain adherents by bribes or menaces. It is not even alleged that these are adopted by Baptists.

"Freedom to proclaim the Gospel and to carry on home mission work was unanimously approved and asserted by the Oxford Conference; and the 'Ecumenical Movement' would be tainted by unreality if its promoters allowed it to become an instrument for the suppression of the liberty of minority churches in any land."

PENTECOSTAL REVIVAL CONTINUES IN WEST END

Revival services at West End Pentecostal Church, Assemblies of God, continue to draw in interest and record congregations are in attendance nightly, according to Rev. T. F. Reed, pastor.

The services are being conducted by the DuBose-Courtney Trio, of Greenville, S. C., and are expected to continue for the next two weeks. Preaching at the meetings is Mary DuBose, while music is supplied by Melba Courtney and Geraldine Courtney. The three are the daughters of preachers,

GRAY BACKS F. D. R. ON NEUTRALITY BILL

Maine Savant, Here for Baptist Alliance, Warns U. S. of Repercussions.

Europe's troubles spring from an idealogical conflict between the democratic and fascist powers and the conditions there soon will have repercussions in the United States according to Dr. Clifton D. Gray, of Lewiston, Me., who is in Atlanta to attend the Baptist World Alliance.

Dr. Gray, who has served as president of Bates College for the last 20 years, termed refusal of congress to undertake immediate changes in the neutrality laws of the United States "an unfortunate mistake."

"I am in agreement with Franklin D. Roosevelt on one point," Dr. Gray, who is a staunch Republican, as are the majority of the residents of his native state, declared. "That's his foreign policy as demonstrated in an effort to modify the so-called neutrality law, which was very much misnamed. It is unfortunate the matter has been postponed.

"My reason is that the cultural background of America is the same as that of England, particularly in our ideas of freedom. We have absolutely nothing in common with the totalitarian states."

BIBLE DISTRIBUTION LAUDED BY HARDIN

Gideon President, Atlantan, Describes Work of Organization at Convention.

Distribution of Bibles in "the proper channels" is the best method of driving sin out of the world, in the opinion of Will L. Hardin, of 1407 Beecher street, S. W., independent building contractor of Atlanta, and president of the Gideons, religious fraternal organization.

Speaking at the opening of the 17th annual international convention of the Gideons at Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday, Hardin declared that "the devil is God today. Only by providing the layman with a means to accept Christ as a personal savior can we make this a better world.

"I feel that the best way to drive sin out of the world is through the distribution of Bibles in proper channels," the Gideon president added.

Hardin was elected head of the Gideons last year. He has been a building contractor in West End for the last eight or 10 years and has taken an active part in the development of that section of the city, especially the Beecher street residential area.

In commenting on the work of the Gideons, Hardin explained that the organization has distributed more than 1,570,000 Bibles in the last 32 years.

'UNION' DEPENDS ON PHOENIX PARL

Rivers in Accord With A zona Governor's Plan t Call Conference.

Possibility of a union of sou ern and western states "b political and economic in natu appeared yesterday as hing upon a proposed meeting in Ph nix, Ariz., early this fall.

Governor Rivers, chairman the Southern Governors' Con ence, said he was pleased to h Governor Bob Jones, of Arizo was considering calling such a s sion in Phoenix, possibly in S tember.

The Arizona executive s Tuesday he thought such a me ing should discuss abolition trade barriers between states, l islation for mutual benefit common problems of taxation.

Rivers suggested the joint me ing. He recently sent a group western governors a book wh he said "so plainly explains problem of trade barriers" asked them for comment.

Replying, Governor Jones s the book "certainly opens my e to the necessity for concerted tion on the part of the south west to effect a union both pol cal and economical in nature."

He asserted "the economic do ination of the south by the no is one of the most tragic episo in the history of our nation.

"Our interests are obviously great deal similar, both sectio having an abundance of raw m terial, cheap labor and che power," Jones' letter continu "There is necessary to put th resources to use an acquirement outside capital; but as the auth (of the book) pointed out we m guard against allowing our sources, both human and natur to be expended for the profit northern capitalists and industri ists."

DICKINSON DUPED, MURPHY ASSERTS

Michigan Governor Denie He Was Influenced by Any Politician.

LANSING, Mich., July 20.—(AP Luren D. Dickinson, who is both Governor of Michigan and presi dent of the state's Anti-Saloon League, shrugged off all criticism of his attacks on the evils of liquor today.

With a slight movement of his shoulders, the frail, 80-year-old executive expressed his unconcern over a statement by United States Attorney General Frank Murphy that Dickinson was being "used" by "a combination of reactionary politicians and bigots."

"No politician has influenced me on this," Dickinson said.

His lone-handed fight against "high life" customs and drinking began after Dickinson returned from the national conference of governors and was based on his observations at New York parties.

His statement that women he saw drinking liquor without becoming intoxicated at a New York party may have "learned the formula advised by a prominent lady of our nation," whom he identified to newsmen as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, was what drew the especial criticism of Murphy, a Democrat, who was Governor of Michigan in 1937-38.

Murphy, calling Dickinson's remarks "indefensible," at the same time told a press conference at Washington that the Michigan executive was "earnest and honest" and that a movement to recall him as Governor would be "very unfortunate."

Such a movement, started by John B. Corliss Jr., of Detroit, a Republican as is Dickinson, collapsed today. Corliss wrote the Governor he would withdraw the recall petitions, and State Attorney General Thomas Read released an opinion that the petitions "fail to set up any statement of facts whatever" and "would not justify the calling of a special recall election."

...NES CLAIMS RFC ...OULD FINANCE ...ENDING FOR YEAR

...WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP)—...se Jones, federal lending ad...nistrator, was reported tonight ...have told a senate committee ...t his Reconstruction Finance ...rporation could finance the ...esident's new lending program ... at least a year out of its avail...e funds.

The President's program calls ... loans of $770,000,000 the first ...ar to stimulate recovery and ...800,000,000 eventually. Accord... to members of the senate ...nking committee, Jones said in ...sponse to questions that the ...C had more than $1,300,000,000 ... available funds.

This aroused the interest of ...tics. Some indicated they were ...dy to argue that if the RFC has ... money already, congress does ...t need to take any further ac...n.

Legislation Needed.

However, Jones was reported to ...ve said that new legislation ...uld be necessary to give the ...C authority to lend money for ...me of the purposes of the bill, ...ch as toll roads. He indorsed ... President's program.

Concerning a proposal of Sena... Mead, Democrat, New York, ... RFC insurance of loans to ...all business, Jones said that ex...ing RFC authority was ample ... assure that such loans will be ...ade. He pointed out that the ...C has authority to participate ... the loans up to 90 per cent.

Earlier in the day, the Presi...nt's lending bill ran into diffi...lties, forcing leaders of both ...rties to revise their estimates of ...hen congress may adjourn.

It became apparent that neither ...e house nor senate committee ...udying the legislation would be ...le to finish before Monday or ...uesday, instead of tomorrow or ...aturday, as had been expected.

At the same time, senate Re...ublicans held a party conference ...d later made it clear that de...ite amendments offered by the ...dministration to eliminate con...oversies they were still opposed ... the measure and would have ...endments of their own to pro...ose—and discuss.

This combination of circum...ances made it apparent that ad...urnment on July 29 was ex...remely unlikely and that August ... was the more probable date. ...rior to the day's developments, ...uly 29 was the date generally ...entioned.

Senator Barkley, Democrat, ...entucky, said he had not joined ...thers in abandoning the idea of ...etting the bill out of the senate ...ommittee by the close of the ...eek.

The senate committee, which ...ad closed its hearings on the ...ending bill, met in executive se...ion today to consider changes, ...nly to find that Republican mem...ers were demanding that addi...ional witnesses be heard.

Senator Townsend, Republican, ...elaware, foe of the Treasury's ...oreign silver purchase program, ...roposed an amendment to pro...ibit such transactions, and asked ...hat Treasury and State Depart...ent officials be called in to tes...ify on it. 138 BILLS INTRODUCED IN ALABAMA SENATE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 20. (AP)—The administration won a one-sided victory before the senate today in a brief session of the Alabama legislature in which 138 new bills, many of them far-reaching and embodying potentialities of heated controversy, were introduced.

By a 25-to-7 vote the senate sustained Governor Dixon's veto of a measure which would have repealed a requirement that taxpayers disclose the amount of insurance carried on their property when such is requested of assessing authorities.

Wholesome Entertainment for All Features Atlanta Films This Week

'Mikado' Is Paramount Show; Hardy Family at Grand; 'Daughters Courageous' at Fox; 'Ex-Champ' at Capitol; Comedy Stays at Rialto.

By LEE ROGERS,
Motion Picture Editor.

Good, wholesome entertainment to please all members of the family will be found in the motion pictures opening today at Atlanta's theaters.

For the lovers of Gilbert and Sullivan's music the Paramount is bringing the all-color movie version of "The Mikado," starring Kenny Baker. Though other things have been changed by Hollywood, careful consideration to keep the operetta intact has preserved it as a faithful production of a favorite musical.

(Incidentally, "Million-Dollar Legs," with Bette Grable, was the original booking at the Paramount for this week. The change to the world-acclaimed "Mikado" was made with the "discovery" the Baptist World Alliance is meeting here this week.)

The seventh in the Hardy series is playing at Loew's Grand. This time Andy Hardy (Mickey Rooney) falls in love with a school teacher. It's called "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever."

After a successful "Four Daughters" with the Lane Sisters, Warner Brothers made "Daughters Courageous" with practically the same cast. It's proving a second hit for the Lane girls, John Garfield and Jeffrey Lynn at the Fox.

The Capitol is abandoning stage shows for the summer, beginning Sunday. Pictures only will be shown at reduced prices. "Ex-Champ" is the film moving in Sunday.

"On Borrowed Time," with Lionel Barrymore and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, has moved to the Rhodes for another week. "Good Girls Go to Paris," with Melvyn Douglas and Joan Blondell, is entering its fourth and final week at the Rialto. This is the second straight Rialto attraction to have a four-week run. "Only Angels Have Wings" was the predecessor, if you can't remember back that far.

Paramount

Practically everything has changed since the horse and buggy age, except Gilbert and Sullivan.

The past 50 years have witnessed more changes than any similar period in world history. Transportation has advanced from covered wagons to streamlined planes. Radio has replaced the parlod organ. Art, medicine, politics and economics have been revolutionized. The map of the world has refused to stay put for more than a few weeks at a time. But the ritual of producing Gilbert and Sullivan's musical shows has remained as changeless . . . and as charming . . . as the painted court etiquette on an old Chinese porcelain.

Their biggest hit, "The Mikado," is the most popular show of any kind ever written. It has played in all countries, save one, and been presented through every entertainment medium. It now makes its screen debut in a technicolor production at the Paramount theater with Kenny Baker, Jean Colin, Martyn Green, John Barclay and Constance Willis in the principal roles. Yet in making this film in an ultra-modern medium, Director Victor Schertzinger followed exactly the instructions laid down by W. S. Gilbert for the first show, performed in London on March 14, 1885. Perhaps that accounts for the fact that critics have compared it to the fantastic "Snow White."

For instance, on that opening night 54 years ago, Comedian Grossmith, playing Ko-Ko, accidentally fell flat on his back at the end of his song, "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring." Everybody laughed immoderately, including the audience. Gilbert, canniest of showmen, therefore ordained that the fall should be part of Ko-Ko's role forever and ever. So for the next five and a half decades, all subsequent Ko-Kos have been executing this fall. Martyn Green, star Ko-Ko of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, most orthodox of Gilbertian troupes, does it on the screen for the first time in his initial film role.

Loew's

The Hardy Family takes a fling at life, both romantic and dramatic, in the seventh of the popular series, "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever," arriving today at Loew's Grand theater.

All the familiar faces are back. However, Lewis as the judge, Mickey Rooney as Andy, Cecilia Parker as Marian, fall victims to a spirit of caprice and it is up to Fay Holden, Mother Hardy and Sara Haden, Aunt Milly, to remain the stabilizing members. Newcomers to the cast are Helen Gilbert, a new discovery who plays Andy's latest love, and Terry Kilburn, who recently scored in "Good-bye, Mr. Chips."

The adventurous spirit strikes the Hardys like a cyclone. In this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, the judge discards his usual conservativeness and almost loses everything he owns in a crooked promotion stunt. At the finish, however, his good sense prevails and he turns a "gold brick" into pay dirt. Then Andy quarrels with his sweetheart, Polly Benedict, played by Ann Rutherford, and falls crazily in love with a beautiful school teacher. To win her esteem, he turns playwright-actor, and despite his father's advice, even proposes marriage to the older girl. Marian decides to forsake social life for a career, and in return gets mixed up with the swindling promoters. In the end, however, the judge has emerged victorious; Andy gets a rude awakening and realizes that his first love, Polly, is still the best; Marian decides she is not a career-girl. In brief, the Hardy Family returns to normal.

Capitol

Earle M. Holden, manager of the Capitol, announces that effective Sunday his theater will operate for the remainder of the summer on a policy of presenting a screen program exclusively consisting of first choice variety features and special short subjects. Seats will be 25 cents at all times.

This means the elimination of stage shows at the Capitol for the time being, but it is thought that a new stage policy will be inaugurated this fall. The Capitol holds the unique record here of having offered stage presentations continuously for five and one-half years.

To inaugurate the new screen policy, the Capitol management has selected "Ex-Champ," a special picture offering a great human interest story of the prize ring, which will start Sunday and which will star Victor McLaglen, Academy award winner, and includes a cast of Tom Brown, Nan Grey and William Frawley.

In conjunction with "Ex-Champ," a hilarious cartoon, "Frozen Feet;" a comedy, "Home Boner," starring Leon Errol, the rubber-legged comedian, and newsreel will be presented.

Fox

"Daughters Courageous," latest Warner Brothers hit, opened at the Lucas & Jenkins' Fox theater yesterday. In the cast are John Garfield, Claude Rains, Jeffery Lynn, Fay Bainter, Donald Crisp, May Robson, Frank McHugh and the memorable four daughters played by Priscilla Lane, Rosemary Lane, Lola Lane and Gale Page.

The problems of a modern family will both interest and hold the attention of any audience that is fortunate enough to see "Daughters Courageous." It is the sudden and unexpected return of a father who left odd years before to have a date with the world, on the eve of their mother's marriage to her safe and sane suitor that is the explosion which sets in motion an alternately amusing, exciting and tender tale. For the errant father is penitent and tired of traveling, and he wants nothing so much as to win the affection of the daughters that he so scarcely knows.

With everything against him but the fact that he still possesses the disarming charm which first attracted the girls' mother to him, the father succeeds nevertheless in winning the affection of the children he deserted and he soon has an important place in the household. In fact, it is so evident to the girls' mother that her former husband's presence threatens not only her coming marriage but also the secure future that has been assured for each girl.

Rialto

"Good Girls Go to Paris" opens its fourth and final week at the Rialto theater today.

In addition to this romantic comedy, the pictures of the Louis-Galento fight will be held for one more week. The combined attractions offer an entertainment program of remarkable value.

"Good Girls Go to Paris" is one of the cleverest comedies to hit a local screen in quite a while. Joan Blondell is the leading star, and the blonde was never cleverer nor funnier. Playing opposite is Melvyn Douglas, as co-star, and he is his always delightful suave self. Others in the cast include Walter Connolly—who steals the show—Joan Perry, Alan Curtis, etc., etc.

Rhodes

One of the outstanding stage successes of last season comes to the screen of the Rhodes theater today after a week at Loew's in the picturization of "On Borrowed Time."

The simple story of an old grandfather who fights death in order to prevent the young grandson whom he adores from falling into the clutches of a scheming and unscrupulous aunt, "On Borrowed Time" presents Lionel Barrymore in one of the finest characterizations as Gramp. The mysterious stranger, Mr. Brink, personification of death, is enacted by the British stage and screen star, Sir Cedric Hardwiche, with 8-year-old Bobs Watson, most talked-of youngster of the year, as the grandson, Pud.

Beulah Bondi appears as the devoted Granny, Eily Malyon is the hypocritical Aunt Demetria, and Una Merkel enacts Marcia, the warmly human maid. Also appearing in prominent roles are Nat Pendleton as Grimes, the asylum guard, Henry Travers as Dr. Evans, and Charles Waldron as the Rev. Mr. Murdock.

The Children's Hospital of Buffalo, N. Y., has organized a Boy Scout troop among its patients.

THIRD TERM FOR F. D. R. APPROVED BY BILBO

SARDIS, Miss., July 20.—(AP)—Mississippi's junior United States senator, Theodore Bilbo, told a homecoming crowd of 4,000 persons here today that he "couldn't see how anyone" could oppose a third term for President Roosevelt.

"During the past six and one-half years," the senator declared, "the state of Mississippi has received approximately $725,000,000 from the Roosevelt administration to bolster its industry, agriculture and for public works."

OPPOSE OFFICERS DOING STRIKE DUTY

10 Councilmen Ask Withdrawal of Police.

Chief Hornsby yesterday took under advisement a petition from 10 city councilmen asking that policemen doing extra duty in the Rogers food stores strike be withdrawn.

The councilmen urged that employes of the police department take no part in the controversy. Chief Hornsby said several officers had been acting as watchmen at warehouses and garages.

The chief said he had not decided definitely whether the men should be withdrawn.

Members of council who signed the petition were Aldermen G. Dan Bridges, Raleigh Drennon and Lester Brewer and Councilmen J. Allen Couch, George Lyle, John T. Marler, Cecil Hester, Howard Haire, John A. White, and W. T. Knight.

Rome and the Rome exhibition grounds will be connected by a new motor road.

H. L. ROSENFELD SR. DIES IN 72D YEAR

Former Atlanta Insurance Executive Succumbs in Paris, France.

Henry L. Rosenfeld Sr., 71, son of the late Abraham and Emalie Rosenfeld, of Atlanta, died Monday, July 17, in Paris, France, according to word received here yesterday.

Mr. Rosenfeld was educated in the city schools and began his career as an agent for the Equitable Life Assurance Company. He was promoted to second vice-president and became its European representative in charge of foreign business during the war. He resigned from the Equitable company and opened an agency for the Prudential Life Insurance Company in Newark, N. J.

A few years ago Mr. Rosenfeld went to Paris to establish a residence.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, James Rosenfeld and Henry L. Rosenfeld Jr., both of New York; three sisters, Mrs. David Marx, of Atlanta; Mrs. Samuel Jonson, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Mrs. Julius E. Sommerfield, also of Atlanta, and two brothers, Simon Rosenfeld, of Los Angeles, and Jesse Rosenfeld, of New Orleans, La.

POSSE HUNTS YOUTH ON HIGH MOUNTAIN

Footprints Ending at Brink of 400-Foot Precipice Last Clue to Fate.

MILLINOCKET, Me., July 20.—(AP)—Footprints ending ominously at the brink of a 400-foot precipice remained for scores of searchers tonight the last clue to the fate of 12-year-old Don Fendler, missing since Monday on chilly, mile-high Mt. Katahdin.

Veteran timber cruisers, expert woodsmen and 62 National Guardsmen formed the core of the posses searching the bounder-strewn and bush-covered terrain today as hope waned for the safety of the Rye, N. Y., youth.

The attack on the mountain's forbidding off-trail areas was carried from several directions, with bloodhounds brought in from New York seeking continuance of a trail picked up yesterday by two Maine hounds and ending at the top of 400-foot Saddle Slide.

Footprints believed to be the boy's were found at the edge of the drop to a rocky base.

Those familiar with the mountain area feared that if the boy were alive he would have suffered severely from exposure during the cold nights, for he was dressed in light summer clothing.

The boy disappeared from the trail Monday in fog and rain when he went a short distance ahead of several companions, including his father, Donald Fendler, New York clothing merchant.

Klan's Fiery Cross Marks Naturalizing of 400 'Aliens'

Huge Fiery Cross Burns Brightly As Ku Klux Klan Initiates 400

Hooded Order Gives Public Demonstration at Stone Mountain in Play for National Publicity as Camera Shutters Click and Members Strut.

A super-colossal fiery cross, 185 feet by 130 feet, burned brightly halfway up the sloping side of Stone Mountain last night to insure a proper setting for a Ku Klux Klan initiation—and also plenty of national publicity.

Reputedly held in honor of James A. Colescott, newly elected imperial wizard, the event was photographed from every angle by three local cameramen—one of whom was said to be representing a nationally known picture magazine, by arrangement of the wizard.

It was a public demonstration like only the Klan can stage and apparently was planned to show the world that the dethroning of Hiram W. Evans as head man did not mean the organization was folding up.

Five smaller crosses blazed at the base of the mountain—the scene of the actual initiation ceremonies—and a hollow square of Klansmen surrounded the site to keep Mr. and Mrs. Public from getting too close. But outside the square they were welcome.

An anonymous voice announced that "upwards of 400 aliens" would be "naturalized" to make it one of the largest classes in Fulton county's history. This was said to prove the confidence of Klansmen in their new leader who was described as "a man of sterling worth and proven ability."

American Astronomer Finds New Evidence of Plant Life on Mars

Dr. Earl C. Slipher, Observing in Africa, Reports Apparent Change in Planet's Surface; Great Eye Different Than Ever Before.

BLOEMFONTEIN, Union of South Africa, July 20.—(AP)—Strong evidence that plant life exists on Mars was advanced today by Dr. Earl C. Slipher, American astronomer, after observation of the planet which is closer to the earth this month than at any time since 1924.

Slipher, brother of the director of the Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., reported he was able last night to take the first successful color pictures of mars.

His theory is founded on an apparent change in the planet's surface, regarded as his most important discovery.

The huge dark spot (solis lacus) or great eye of Mars, seems to have assumed a shape not observed for 50 years, if ever. Slipher indicated this was strong evidence plant life exists on the planet and suggested the change was due to fresh vegetation over an area roughly the size of the United States.

On July 27, Mars will swing the closest it has been to the earth in 15 years—only 36,000,000 miles away.

BRITISH EXPERT LAUDS U. S. SCIENTIST'S FINDINGS

LONDON, July 20.—(AP)—Dr. William Herbert Steavenson, Martian expert of the Royal Astronomical Society, today declared greater knowledge concerning possible vegetation on Mars undoubtedly would result from observations by Dr. Earl C. Slipher in South Africa.

He said the studies should remove any remaining doubts that the theory of man-made canals on Mars is anything but "sheer poppycock."

Nevertheless, he said it could not be stated definitely that human life does not exist there.

CARSWELL GIVEN NEW ROTARY POST

Georgian To Be Member of Extension Group.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

WAYNESBORO, Ga., July 20.—Because of his achievements in the extension of Rotary within the past two years, during which time he has organized 15 new clubs, Porter W. Carswell, immediate past governor of Rotary in Georgia, has been appointed a member of the international extension committee by Walter D. Head, president of Rotary International.

The committee, which will have charge of the organization of new Rotary clubs throughout the world, consists of three members from the United States, three from continental Europe, one from Great Britain, one from India and one from South America.

Mr. Carswell's field of activity will be the United States, Canada, Newfoundland and Bermuda. His duties also may carry him to Rio De Janeiro, where the next international convention of Rotary will be held

Man Steals Chairs, Cash From Hospital

Add strange loot:

Three chairs, stolen from an office of the Henrietta Egleston Hospital for Children. 640 Forrest road, N. E.

Besides the chairs, the burglar took $24 from a purse belonging to Dr. E. V. Anderson, resident physician, who reported the theft to police last night.

SUNDAY MOVIE BAN IS UPHELD IN COURT

Thomasville Legion Loses Charity Show Fight.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 20.—(AP)—A Thomas county superior court jury today turned thumbs down on Sunday movies for Thomasville.

Sustaining an injunction action of two years ago, the jury held that movies cannot be operated on the Sabbath day even for charity.

The injunction was brought against Nat M. Williams, the Rose Theater, Inc., Interstate Enterprises, Inc., and the T. L. Spence Jr. Post of the American Legion.

The jury received the case at 8 o'clock last night but did not return its verdict until 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. No indication was given by the defendants whether an appeal was planned.

The case grew from opposition to Sunday movies as expressed by ministers and others.

THEY HIRE PLANE INSTEAD OF HALL FOR A 'HIGH TIME'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 20.—(AP) Two attractive young women, whose sober pilot told police a story of "high life" in an airplane, were grounded today at municipal airport.

Police detained them without charge after one said she was from St. Louis and the other gave New Orleans as her home. They gave their ages as 21 and 23.

Farley Vincent, a New Orleans pilot, said one of the girls chartered his plane at 1:30 a. m. in New Orleans for a trip to St. Louis. They picked up the other girl at Baton Rouge.

"When we left Baton Rouge they were sober, but after I got into the air the two women pulled out a bottle, started drinking and then went to sleep," Vincent said. "When I landed in Memphis for gas the women got out, staggered around and made a lot of noise."

Airport Manager G. D. Albrecht grounded the plane when things got a bit hilarious on the runways. Nobody seemed to know how police got wise, but officers arrived and hauled the two away to headquarters.

13 DISCLAIM GUILT IN 'MASS MURDERS'

Defendants Plead Not Guilty to Philadelphia 'Syndicate' Charges.

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(UP)—Thirteen defendants pleaded not guilty today to charges of complicity in connection with the Philadelphia mass murder syndicate which allegedly claimed more than 100 victims.

All but one of the defendants signed continuances. Mrs. Providenza Miccichi, 51, a South Philadelphia fortune teller, refused on advice of counsel to sign.

Judge Raymond Macneille set Monday for the start of Mrs. Miccichi's trial. She is charged with the arsenic murder in 1938 of Mrs. Jennie Cassetti.

Herman Petrillo, dapper former spaghetti salesman who pleaded not guilty in today's arraignment, already has been sentenced to die in the slaying of Ferdinand Alfonsi, WPA worker.

Judge Macneille continued for a week a motion to quash an indictment against Mrs. Millie Giacobbe in connection with the death of her husband, Antonio, in 1933. Mrs. Giacobbe's attorney argued that insufficient evidence had been presented to justify an indictment.

EX-FIRE CAPTAIN DIES IN FLORIDA

Thomas W. Haney Succumbs in 79th Year.

Thomas William Haney, former fire captain in the Atlanta fire department, and for the last 34 years chief of the Jacksonville (Fla.) fire department, died yesterday at his home in Jacksonville after an extended illness.

Chief Haney was a native of Atlanta, where he was born 78 years ago. He served with the local fire department until 1892, when he went to Jacksonville, and retired from the fire department there in 1926.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bessie M. Haney; a son, Henry Haney, of Jacksonville; a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Kelly, of Montgomery, Ala., and a sister, Miss Jane E. E. Haney, of Savannah, Ga.

When a Reducing Diet Improves the Disposition, It's Really News

Tried and true is the hip-slimming bicycle exercise shown by shapely Jane Wyman, Warner Brothers star. This exercise not only slims the hips, but streamlines the thighs and strengthens the diaphragm muscles.

Swing in, Swing Out—For Shapely Thighs

By Ida Jean Kain.

In a figure program, you constantly go from good to better and before the finish you won't be content with anything but the best. As soon as you trim your weight down you begin to see what a nice figure you could have with an inch or two off the waistline . . . maybe you realize that you could make yourself into a very good-looking woman!

As an illustration, two years ago one reducer thought she would be quite happy if she could get her weight down from 230 pounds to normal. But now she writes:

"I weigh 154 pounds and have these measurements: bust, 36 inches; waist, 29 inches; hips, 37 inches. But although when dressed my figure seems perfect, I know that it isn't. I still have heavy thighs—and nothing I do seems to reduce them. Perhaps you can help me."

You see how it goes? Nothing short of perfection will do for the woman who has really seen what an improvement can be made in her figure. With the right technique, nothing is impossible. And improvement of the thighs is easy . . . what it takes to mold the thighs beautifully is the in-and-out swing of the legs, as given in the new leaflet, "Exercise for Shapely Thighs," for which you may send, enclosing a stamped envelope.

When a reducing diet improves the disposition, it's really news! Perhaps the main reason the housewife's family tries so hard to dissuade her from going on a diet is that some of these diets are very hard on the disposition. If something of the kind has been holding you back, read this:

"On March 27 of this year, I went on your Twenty-One Day diet. I have lost 58 pounds. On Saturday I went for my regular two weeks' check-up with the doctor and find that in the last two weeks I have lost only one pound. I guess this must be the weight standstill! But the doctor thinks your diet is so wonderful—" (I usually leave out the compliments, but not this time!) "—that I am going to stay on it and reduce to between 110 pounds and 125 pounds.

"The nice part of it is that I have never once felt hungry—and it is the first diet I have ever been on that I haven't gotten so cross and crabby that no one could live with me. I feel just swell! And, amazingly enough, since being on the diet, I've grown the most beautiful fingernails!"

For those who cannot face a long-term figure program, there is a letter from a reducer who made a quick change in her weight. She writes:

"I just have to tell you how thrilled I am. Three months ago, I weighed 172 pounds, and now I am down to 147 pounds and I feel fine. I did wear a size 40 dress and now I wear an 18."

Send a large stamped return envelope to Miss Kain, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, for the "Summer Slimming Menus" and the "Protective Diet Chart."

Quickly-Made Tailored Two-Piecer

By LILLIAN MAE.

For fun-in-the-country or working-in-town, could anything be trimmer and neater than this cock-sure young two-piecer by Lillian Mae, Pattern 4195! And think how useful each piece will be, worn with other outfits in striking combinations. Choose a checked cotton or linen fabric—so new and smart! Make the blouse with a hug-me fit, and cut the bottom edge with rounded corners to slim your hips. The sweetheart neckline is sweet, but if you prefer, you can stitch on a schoolgirl collar, with tiny cuffs on the short puffed sleeves for balance. The bias skirt has a swish flare and is just two pieces. A quickly-made frock you'll live in!

Pattern 4195 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16, skirt, takes 2 3-8 yards 39-inch fabric and 1 7-8 yards contrast for blouse.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to Lillian Mae Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Every Baby's Eyes Will Misbehave

By Dr. William Brady.

It seems as though (please credit me something for not saying "like") most amateur mothers discover with more or less dismay that the baby is somewhat cross-eyed some time in the first two or three months. This is one of a good many observations which should not upset the young mother who has had a fair deal in common school education — but that's the irony of it—you might count on the fingers of one hand the common schools in Yankeeland that offer future mothers of the race any sort of practical instruction or training which is likely to help them in the noblest of all careers open to women. That reminds me—one of my secret ambitions is to conduct a stealthy course of training for girls in the graduating class of grade school or high school, and prepare them to rise in a body at the conclusion of the main address, at the time of the graduation exercises, give a hearty Bronx cheer, and take over the proceedings, outlining succinctly, for the benefit of educators and parents, the things Young Girls Ought to Learn at School instead of wherever they may. At least when a girl lays aside her doll she should be taught the rudiments of the baby business if life is not as indecent as the attitude of the public schools towards human reproduction implies.

Every baby is, if not cross-eyed precisely, more or less shifty-eyed until about the age of three months. That is, the baby does not develop the capacity of focusing the eyes or directing them attentively upon a definite point until that age. So it is natural and normal for the young baby's eyes to misbehave in that way, and incidentally it is not advisable to attempt to make the baby look straight at anything close at hand —for instance toys should not be dangled within the baby's reach and folk should not be permitted to try to make the baby smile at their antics.

Another observation young mothers make, which worries them needlessly, is that sometimes the baby's eyes shine in the dark just like a cat's eyes. This is normal or natural, too. The pupils, or central dark dots in the eyes, enlarge in the dark (to admit more light) and contract in bright light (to protect against too much light entering the eyes). When the pupils dilate or enlarge (like the shutter of a camera) in the dark more light enters the eye, and some of the light may be reflected from the retina or sensitive film in the back of the eyeball. It is this reflex from the retina that gives the effect of two globes or points of red-yellow glare out of the dark, to an observer close to the source of light.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Bladdery Old Gentleman.

I am 73, and for the past ten years or so have had increasing bladder trouble, have to get up three or four times a night. (A. G. T.)

Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for monograph on Prostatic Obstruction. Do not send clipping.

Wheat.

I thank you for your fine leaflet on whole wheat and would be pleased if you would donate a quantity of them to help my plea in behalf of starving populations. (L. P. H.)

Answer—Glad to send any reader who asks for it and provides a stamped envelope bearing his address, the monograph "Wheat to Eat," which describes the health food value of plain wheat, as you buy it from farmer, mill, elevator, feed store or seed store, and gives recipes and suggestions for its use in the daily dietary.

No Room to Repeat Here.

Kindly repeat the instructions you gave for the use of nitroglycerin for angina pectoris and vitamin B for weak heart. (W. R. S.)

Answer—Send ten cents coin and 1-cent-stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet CVD. Do not send a clipping in lieu of your request.

Woman's Quiz

Q. What exposure is considered best for a sick room?

A. A south or east exposure is generally best. A south room may be undersirable in very hot weather, but sunshine during a part of the day is essential. The room should be quiet, near the bath room, and well removed from odors of the kitchen. It should be situated so that good ventilation is possible. It is desirable, though not necessary, for it to have more than one window without exposing the patient to a direct current of air, and a door that opens without placing the patient in full view of all who pass through the hall. (A screen can be used, if necessary). It is essential for the patient to have a room to himself and not even the person caring for him should sleep in the room.

Q. How may ice cream stains be removed from a dress?

A. If the material is washable, use lukewarm water and soap. For more delicate fabrics, sponge with warm water, dry, and sponge with carbon tetrachloride.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor of The Constitution's Washington Service Bureau, 1013 13th street, Washington, D. C., for a reply. Three of the most interesting answers will be printed here daily. Don't telephone; write as directed.

My Day: Rugged Characters Founded Community

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—We had a most interesting day yesterday. We arrived at Mrs. Charles Hayerweather's at New Lebanon, N. Y., soon after 11 o'clock in the morning, and enjoyed sitting on her porch and having lunch with her, after which she took us to the old Shaker village. I have seen these buildings in various stages of decay and to find them being rehabilitated in a most competent and loving fashion, was really a joy.

The two old Shaker sisters, Emma and Sadie Neale, still live in one of the old buildings. One of them is 90 and the other is 92, and they take a keen interest in the fact that their community is becoming an educational institution. These buildings have been taken over by Mr. Charles Lambert Heyniger and will be called the Darrow School, after the first settler in this valley.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Heyniger seem very well suited to the work which they have undertaken and are most delightful people. They have three children of their own, two of whom went about with us and seemed to take as much interest in the old furniture and old tools which had been found, as did their elders. Then we paid a visit to the old Shaker sisters, whom I had last seen in Sharon Springs, N. Y., where one of them presented me with a bottle of water.

They had forgotten me, of course, but were as keenly interested in the fact that I was President Roosevelt's wife as any young girl would be. In answer to my question, the older one told me that she had not always lived in the house she was now in, but had once lived farther up the hill. When, at the age of 12, they wanted her to go down and live in the valley, she had been very indignant and felt quite sure that her family could not get on without her. But she went to live in the valley, a distance certainly not more than a half mile away!

She has great respect for handwork and told me she remembered selling one of her Shaker capes to my mother-in-law. I told her I had one given me by my mother-in-law some 30-odd years ago. What extraordinary workmen these Shakers were! They felt they must show in their workmanship the kind of character and spirit which was theirs. So it is marvelous to see today the stone which they moved, the beams which they set, and the foundations and the framework of the buildings which stand as a monument not only to good workmansip, but to the character which made it possible.

We drove home through beautiful country, but I think the warmth and the sun made us both sleepy. I don't think I was a very talkative companion, but it was all I could do to stay awake and keep my car on the road.

I arrived safely, however, by 5:30, and found a message to come to New York city to meet some of my children.

Picture Morality Decrees That a Bad Girl Must Pay

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—Richard Rosson, the Metro cameraman who was jailed by the Nazis while photographing scenes of Austria as background shots for "Florian," received an unexpected welcome back to Hollywood. He was fired! . . . William Powell keeps a thermometer in his dressing room and takes his temperature several times a day—on doctor's orders. The new "Thin Man" picture is actually under way—for which many cheers. Powell, incidentally, is not using make-up—for the first time in his movie career. His deep tan makes it unnecessary.

Shirley Temple's mama is not worrying unduly over the mixed reception accorded the Moppet's recently released "Susannah of the Mounties." "We can wait," she says, referring to the increasing difficulty in finding the right stories for Shirley. And, while waiting, Shirley can always take up that radio offer of $10,000 per appearance, which is still open and which would help to keep the wolf from the door.

Jeanette MacDonald won every argument over that new contract with Metro. From now on, she gets three to six months off each year for concert touring. . . . Richard Greene will have to wear a brace on his leg while completing "Here I Am a Stranger," and an explanation for his limp must be written into the script . . . Alice Faye says she would dearly love to have children—but hasn't the time.

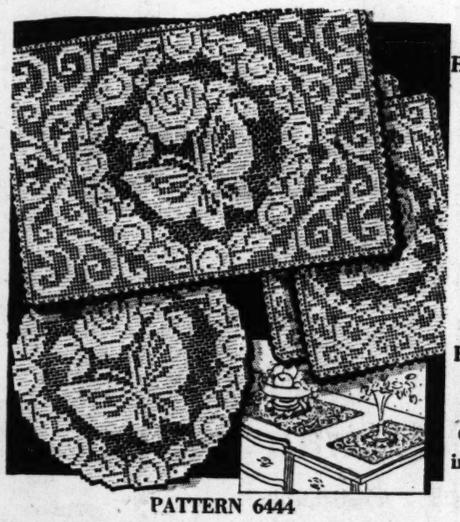

A Metro big shot had a bright idea for the fade-out of "The Women." The picture, as you know, is manless, but the story hinges on Norma Shearer's loss of her husband to Joan Crawford and of how she wins him back. "Why not have Clark Gable appear in the last shot as the husband?" The executive queried. What do you think? Personally, I have two arguments against the idea. One, that the sudden appearance of Gable would be too much of an anti-climax. Two, I somehow don't think Mr. Gable will do it.

Charles Laughton visited Paul Muni on the set of "We Are Not Alone," which so upset Muni he forgot his lines for rest of the day. Muni does not like to talk to visitors while he is making a picture —he says it throws him off his acting. The net result of the Laughton visit—visitors and the press are warned to avoid all conversation with Mr. Muni . . . Ronald Colman is currently going blind for "The Light That Failed" —which is the reason why the usually unself-conscious Englishman has also closed his set . . . Errol Flynn and David Niven plan a trip to South America in Flynn's yacht. There will be no women aboard—and this includes Mrs. Flynn . . . Joan Bennett says she is tired of wearing wigs—so, in her next picture for Walter Wanger, Miss Bennett will dye her hair dark brown. Until now, Joan has reserved the tinting brush for private life only.

Chalk up another victory for the Hays office. After the fan reaction to the death of Hedy Lamarr in "Lady of the Tropics" (most of the notes commanded, "Hedy must not die), Metro shot a new happy ending. But Hedy's role is that of a naughty vamp. Picture morality decrees that, when a girl is bad, she must pay—via death or disgrace. Hedy will die as per the first script. To make up for it, Metro is now reshooting Hedy's first meeting with Robert Taylor —it will be more torrid!

Joan Fontaine, who was induced to break her engagement with Conrad Nagel because he was too old for her, is now going places with Alec Steinert, who is as old as Nagel—and bald . . . The last time Mae West made a picture, she received $200,000 and 20 per cent of the takings. She has come down 50 per cent for her forthcoming film at Universal with W. C. Fields . . . The first step to escorting or marrying a Hollywood star is to be her agent. Vic Orsatti, agent for Sonja Henie, is currently visiting the lady in Norway. Dorothy Lamour's constant escort is Wynn Rocamora, and Shirley Ross and Lynn Bari both married 10 percenters.

Love That Lasts Built on Basis Of Friendship

By Caroline Chatfield.

My Dear Miss Chatfield:

I'd very much appreciate your help with a problem that I am finding quite difficult to solve. I am 29 years of age and I think fairly attractive. I have recently met a man in the late 40's whom I do not love but who wants to marry me. He is well-to-do and I am sure that I would have the material things of life, if not the spiritual. However, I am financially independent so that marrying for money is not a necessity nor an inducement. I do not know whether to keep on waiting for Mr. Right Man or to plunge into matrimony with this older man. I am getting along in years and all my romantic ideas and dreams have little by little "gone with the wind." I realize that if I do marry this man and if someone later did appear on the horizon I would be miserable and would never forgive myself.

JANE.

Answer: My dear girl, you can't find anybody that will advise you to leave a happy home where you are comfortable, happy and financially independent to marry a man you don't love. But—before you turn him down you should ask yourself some searching questions. For instance: "Does the courting beau contribute to my happy and contented state of mind? Would I be happy and contented after he had gone as the romantic dreams have gone?"

Neither can you find anybody that will advise you to turn down this courting beau because nobody can guarantee that another will be coming up and you admit you would be utterly miserable if the last matrimonial train left without you. So it would seem that your safest move is to stall for a little time. You know the line "I don't love you enough to marry you now; but I might come to love you if I were given time."

Some girls are struck by the lightning of love and thereafter cannot use their heads about the objects of their affection. They rush headlong into matrimony and discover that electricity is not nearly enough to keep them contented and happy. Other girls take their time, study their men, to see if they have qualities that are likely to make them good husbands and come to decision on this score. For the long pull their chances are much better than the chances of the lightning struck maidens; since the love that lasts is built on congenial friendship rather than on physical fascination.

A Golden Rule For Bridge Players

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Perhaps it does require something besides a hankering for high cards to be a consistent winner at bridge . . . but how often just a wee something else spells the difference between success and failure.

Spasmodic brilliance in bidding and play adds color and kick to the game, but the genuine test of proficiency is measured by consistent ability to avoid unnecessary losing chances.

The golden rule of every bridge player should be: "My first obligation to my partner is the contract." To fumble a makable contract, trying for extra tricks, is still baloney, no matter how thin you cut it.

DECLARER'S PROBLEM.

When the bid is three notrump, canvass the two hands for nine tricks, before touching dummy's cards. If the contract is game at spades or hearts, search for 10 tricks as soon as dummy is spread.

Thousands of makable hands are lost every day because of the unpardonable mistake by declarers who leap before they look.

AN EXTRA TRICK?

West's opening lead of the heart 5 against South's four-spade contract was routine for South . . . and a break at that . . . for South played low from dummy to let the trick come up to his own heart queen.

But East went up with the heart king and won the trick. East returned the diamond 10 up to dummy's weak suit. Regardless of how South elected to play diamonds from his own hand, West won three diamond tricks and defeated the contract before South could get in.

At the opening lead, the declarer who is called "lucky" because he is a consistent winner, would have paused long enough to count five sure spade tricks, four certain winners in clubs and the heart ace for the tenth trick to cinch game.

Simple? . . . As simple arithmetic.

'Til tomorrow. . . .

A dainty perfume for a dainty lady! Ann Rutherford, despite the stunning evening dress she wears, finds the costume not complete without a delicate, satisfying white lilac perfume. This lovely young star scores another hit in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever."

Any Season Can Be White Lilac Season

By LILLIAN MAE.

She smiled when she walked into my office, and the smile was immediately infectious. And I very soon learned the cause of her smile.

Opening a traveling bag, she revealed just oodles of the loveliest vials and bottles. I was intrigued —and curious. Then she started opening the vials and bottles, and my office lost its newspaper odor and smelled instead, like a Fifth avenue perfume shop.

Time slipped away. I forgot about all the stacks of papers on my desk and was completely lost in the contents of that traveling case. My hands, arms and face were dotted with this and that fragrance—each more pleasing than the previous ones. Then came the white lilac!

I had never quite realized before —not even from the fresh blossoms —just how grand and satisfying a scent that flower presents. The kind lady tried to interest me in others—but I still contended that of them all, white lilac was quite the daintiest, most delicate and altogether delightful odor in that bag.

Yes, it worked! She did leave me the attractive little vial, but what's more, a few days later there came from the Fifth avenue shop—beautiful pictures of which she had shown me—a large bottle, one of the most attractive I've seen in design, of the precious white lilac perfume.

On a cross-continent trip recently, I had any number of people inquire the name of the perfume and as people thrown together for days on a train will, a number of my traveling companions and I became quite chummy over our discussion of my white lilac perfume.

Perhaps you might prefer one of the other odors but I would be delighted to have you phone me for the name of this line of perfume and the Atlanta stores at which it may be purchased. Write if you do not live in the city, enclosing a stamped envelope.

DECREE COSTS FORTUNE.

Through a Nazi degree Hugo and Rudolf Raisner, of Kellogg, Idaho, formerly of Romerstadt, Czecho-Slovakia, have been deprived of an estate amounting to nearly $4,000. At the death of their father, the brothers were informed of the estate, to be divided equally. Nazi law, however, prohibits the shipment of money out of Germany.

Useful Design for All-Day Wear

By Barbara Bell.

With detailing that lifts it out of the ordinary, and makes it unusually becoming and pretty, this dress (1656-B) is the useful type you can wear all day long, for shopping, working 'round the house, and general runabout. It's designed to fit large women beautifully—plenty of fullness over the bust, beneath the smooth shoulder yoke, comfortable deep armholes, and a slim skirt, cut high at the waistline, to minimize your size. The pleated sleeves are so cool and free. The neckline is cut with a becoming dip in the front.

Make this of gingham, percale, calico, or linen, and use ricrac braid to emphasize the attractive lines of the shoulder pieces. There's nothing complicated about the making, and your pattern includes a helpful, step-by-step sew chart.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1656-B is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 1-4 yards of 35-inch material and 1 yard of braid.

Send for Barbara Bell's Spring and Summer Pattern Book! Make your own smart new frocks for street, daytime and afternoon, with these simple, carefully planned designs;

Miss Connally Weds James W. Stephens

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 20. The marriage of Miss Harriet Calhoun Connally and James Willis Stephens, of Washington, D. C., formerly of Fort Payne, Ala., took place on July 10, in Washington at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Barton. Rev. Frederick Brown Harris performed the ceremony in the presence on close friends.

The bride's brunette beauty was accentuated by a costume of fuchsia-colored chiffon worn with a large hat of white and white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

The bride comes of distinguished lineage. Her mother is the former Miss Lucile Trammell, of College Park. Her grandmother is Mrs. J. A. Trammell and her grandfather is the late James A. Trammell, of College Park and Atlanta.

Her father is the late Lowndes Calhoun Connally and her grandmother is Mrs. Emma Calhoun Connally, and the late Silas N. Connally is her grandfather.

The groom is the son of Philip Fred Stephens and the late Jeppie Mae Stephens, of Fort Payne, and is only sister is Miss Jeppie Fred Stephens. Mr. Stephens graduated from the Southeastern University in Washington.

After a wedding trip to North Carolina, Atlanta and Alabama, Mr. Stephens and his bride will reside in Kentucky, where Mr. Stephens holds a position with the Internal Revenue Service.

"Miss Nora" Northen To Celebrate Seventieth Birthday Next Sunday

By Sally Forth.

ALL Atlanta will join Sally Forth today in paying a heartfelt tribute to Mrs. Nora Earnest Northern, beloved Atlantan, who celebrates her seventieth birthday on Sunday. "Miss Nora," as she is known to countless thousands, is now enjoying a birthday cruise to Guatemala with her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Northern. She will return this week end, however, to spend Sunday with the Northens at their home in Alabama, where a mammoth birthday cake, illuminated with twinkling candles, will bring that familiar sparkle of appreciation to her eyes.

"Miss Nora" has always been a favorite among Atlanta's "young folk." Among the most radiant faces glimpsed at the annual Chi Phi dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving Club is that of the vivacious and cordial lady, who is always on hand to extend a warm greeting to youthful guests. "Miss Nora's" son, Charlie, you will recall, was a valued member of the fraternity during his enrollment at Tech. The beloved Atlanta matron might appropriately be dubbed "Mother" to all Tech students, so sincerely does she enjoy their company. And certainly no Tech dance—particularly the all-night Panhellenic dances—could get properly under way without her presence on the sidelines as chaperon.

Althoug' approaching 70, "Miss Nora" is still a sought-after figure at debutante parties. The season's buds and their escorts feel an evening incomplete unless they stop to greet "Miss Nora" before commencing to enjoy the festivities attendant upon a debut ball.

It goes without saying that the entire city extends greetings, and wishes "Miss Nora" many more happy birthdays.

WITH many fishermen as enthusiastic as Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ashcraft and their all-day fishing party of Tuesday, there's sure to be some close competition in the "fishing derby" now going on at Sea Island. Making an all-day trip of it, the Ashcrafts and their attractive guest, Mrs. W. M. Guckes, of Greensboro, N. C., with Louisa Robert, Steve Maxwell and John Horne, went out on the Hampton river in a covered boat and staged their own little fishing contest. Catfish were ruled out, and competition was keen between Steve and Louisa, the latter finally winning with 23 fish to Steve's 22.

On returning to shore, the group of ravenously hungry anglers enjoyed a fish fry under the trees on the bluff above the river.

The last of July will doubtless see a great increase in the interest in fishing at Sea Island, for a prize is being offered the lucky one bringing in the heaviest edible fish, and the one person bringing in the most edible fish of any one kind on a single tide from July 15 to August 1 at the Sea Island fishing camp. Only catfish and shark are excluded, and the fishing may be surf casting or from a bateau in the Hampton river.

Bouquets for the most clever solving of the summer problem for hair that's not too short should go to Mrs. James D. Robinson Jr., noted for her excellent taste and flawless grooming. At a recent Sea Island party, Mrs. Robinson appeared with her hair neatly parted in the back so that all of her dark curls were lifted off her neck and held at a becoming angle just behind each ear with a flower clip. Another time she substituted bright scarlet bows for the clips.

A GROUP of Atlanta Tri Deltas and their escorts and brothers were honored last evening at a gay supper party at which Miss Annabel Robinson was hostess at her attractive home in Covington. Miss Robinson, fondly called "Miss Annabel" by the sorority sisters, is housemother of the Tri Delta group enrolled at the University of Georgia, and is greatly beloved by her proteges. The party last evening was in the nature of a reunion, many of the guests not having seen each other since school closed in June.

Sally hears that the motorcade of belles and their dates who met yesterday at the fountain at Peachtree circle for the "take-off," were a bit nervous about the time. "Miss Annabel" had invited them for 7 o'clock, but a controversy as to whether central or eastern standard time prevailed in Covington arose and precipitated a mild panic. Sally has since been informed that the youthful guests reached their destination at the appointed hour, and enjoyed a gala evening.

Tri Deltas present were Rannie Geissler, Helen Mergandoller, Peggy Matthews, Anne Edge, Helen Clarke, Dorothy and Polly Harris, Louise and Katherine McKie, Jean Walker, Jessie Ruffin, Aline Cocke and Julia and Sarah Farmer.

FOR the past month, members of the Atlanta Theater Guild have been spending many hours in preparing the grounds of its castle at 87 Fifteenth street, N. E., for the annual carnival, which is scheduled for this evening. In the many years the place was unoccupied, what was once a very beautiful garden had become a veritable jungle, and bit by bit the guild members have cleared and pruned and trimmed.

One recent Saturday afternoon when Ed Peeples was wielding the pruning shears, he stepped into what was discovered to be a most romantic old stone well, which he and Vernon Williams, technical director of the guild, immediately reclaimed. Now this well is indeed a wishing well, and every day the guild members who are about the place solemnly visit it and wish for fair weather for this evening. For even though the carnival can proceed despite rain, a fair night will make it more gay and entrancing. 'Tis even said that the wishing well contains an oracle whose voice can be heard, if properly approached, and the carnival guests will be invited to try their luck at this historic spot.

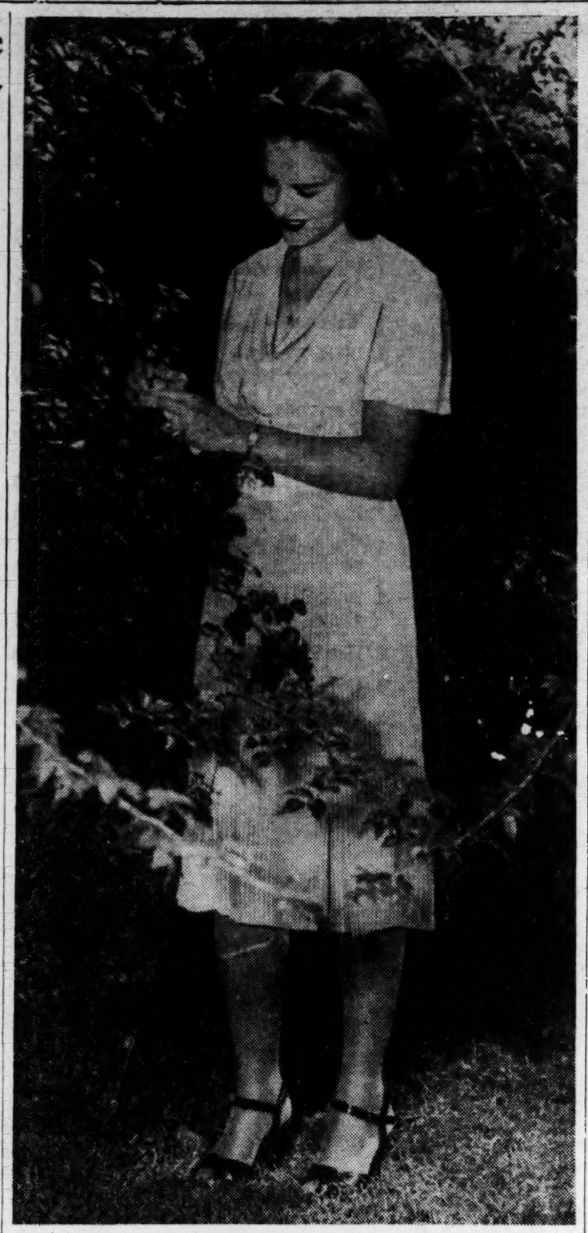

The proceeds from last year's carnival made possible the installation of the stage of the Castle Playhouse, which has meant much to the guild the past season. This year the proceeds are to insure an adequate budget.

Mr. and Mrs. Witham To Be Feted Saturday.

Among enjoyable affairs of the week end will be the swimming party and steak fry Saturday afternoon and evening at which Dr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Osborne will entertain at their country home near Roswell, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Witham Jr.

Mrs. Witham is the former Miss Eloise Gresham, and her marriage to Mr. Witham was a social event of last winter.

Twelve close friends of the honor guests will motor to Roswell at 5 o'clock. Swimming will be enjoyed in the hosts' pool, and steaks will be cooked over a barbecue pit.

Social Calendar Is Announced For Pharmaceutical Convention

Mrs. W. J. Gower and Mrs. D. W. Leary, co-chairmen for entertainment of the ladies attending the 87th annual of the American Pharmaceutical Association which convenes in Atlanta at the Biltmore hotel August 20-26, have appointed the following committee to assist them:

Mesdames A. H. Waldon, C. S. Connell, W. H. Owen, J. L. Vaught, E. D. Crane, T. M. McCleskey, R. M. Mitchell, of Griffin; R. C. Wilson, of Athens.

Many delightful affairs are being planned for the visitors, the first taking place on Sunday evening, August 20, at 8 o'clock, in the gardens of the Biltmore hotel, when negro spirituals will be sung.

On Monday a luncheon and fashion show will be given at a local department store for the ladies, and that evening the annual dinners of the boards of pharmacy and the Association of Colleges will be held at the Biltmore. The tea at the Governor's Mansion on Tuesday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock will compliment the women visitors.

Wednesday morning a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held, and that evening the entire convention will be entertained at an elaborate dinner at the Piedmont Driving Club.

A trip to the Cyclorama and a sight-seeing tour of the city, with luncheon at a local club, is the program for the ladies on Thursday. That evening an old-fashioned Georgia barbecue takes place in the gardens of the Biltmore honoring the convention visitors.

On Friday morning the feminine visitors will motor to Griffin to visit a large cotton mill. A delightful day, including a delicious luncheon, has been planned by Mrs. R. M. Mitchell. Climaxing the week's activities will be the cotton ball Friday evening in the ballroom of the Biltmore. The guests will wear cotton clothes, and the decorations, souvenirs and other appointments will carry out the cotton idea.

Miss Barbara Selman, a popular member of the Girls' Circle of the Tallulah Falls school, has arranged to have an exhibit of work done at the school on display in the lobby of the Biltmore during the week of the convention.

Peony Garden Club Holds Recent Meeting

Mrs. Gilmer Christian recently entertained the Peony Garden Club at her country home on Tilson road. The living room was decorated with gladiolus from the garden of Mrs. F. M. Hotsigner. Mesdames F. C. Rice and John D. Evans were co-hostesses.

Mrs. Claude McGinnis, second vice president, had charge of the meeting in absence of Mrs. W. W. Alexander, the president. Mrs. H. C. Uhl, recording secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and giving reports were Mesdames L. P. Taylor, S. C. Bowden and John Brickman. Mrs. Fredrick C. Rice, chairman of project on Ponce de Leon avenue, stated that water is running in the pool. Mrs. John T. Dennis reported the marker for the project will be installed at an early date.

There will be no meeting in August but in September "Soil" will be the subject, each member to give a five minute talk. It was voted to change the meeting day to the first Wednesday in each month and to meet at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. F. C. Rice and Mrs. John D. Evans were cohostesses. Present were Mesdames S. C. Bowden, A. A. Gunning, R. E. Rhodes, H. S. Davis, B. E. Walker, Ben Holtendorf, L. P. Taylor, Virgil Warren, Clara Stein, P. M. Gilbert, J. E. Brickman, Clarence W. Mills, Harry C. Uhl, Claude McGinnis, F. C. Rice, Miss Tullie Smith, Willis Dobbs, John T. Dennis, John D. Evans, Gilmer Christian, and Miss Tullie Smith.

Under the cowl is Paulette Goddard and over her is a silk field of daisies in yellow, black and white. They are outlined in black embroidery at the neckline and around the short sleeves. A narrow black leather belt matches her shoes.

Camp Civitania Offers Summer Program.

Three weeks, instead of the usual two weeks, will be offered to Jewish Girl Scouts and prospective Girl Scouts of the southeastern states at the summer camp of the Jewish Educational Alliance. For the twelfth consecutive season, the Alliance will provide at Camp Civitania an opportunity for girls to enjoy camp life.

Camp will open on August 9 for a seven-day period for girls from 7 to 10 years of age and for girls 16 years of age and over. Girls 10 to 16 years of age will go to camp from August 17 to August 31. A limited number of girls 10 to 16 years of age will be accepted for the first week.

A well-rounded program, scientifically adapted for each age group, will be offered, according to Mrs. Sol Marshall, social and educational director at the Alliance, who heads the camp for the second year.

The program includes swimming, life-saving, handcrafts, athletics, pioneering, nature study, folk dancing, singing and dramatics. The staff will be made up of young ladies of varied talents.

Registrations are being accepted by Mrs. Marshall at 318 Capitol avenue, S. E., or Main 2171.

Miss Lambert Weds Joseph E. Hannah.

GRANTVILLE, Ga., July 20—The marriage of Miss Evelyn Lambert to Joseph E. Hannah, of Newnan and Elberton, was solemnized recently by Dr. J. E. Hannah, father of the groom, in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride was gowned in a navy blue sheer with which she wore navy accessories and a shoulder bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lilies. Her only ornament was an antique bracelet.

Mrs. Hannah is the daughter of Mrs. W. P. Lambert and the late Mr. Lambert, of Grantville. She is a graduate of the Grantville High school and later attended the University of Georgia.

Mr. Hannah is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Hannah, of Newnan. After graduating from Newnan High school he attended Georgia Tech. He is now affiliated in business with the Georgia Power Company in Elberton, Ga.

After the ceremony the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to North Carolina and Kentucky.

Out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Hannah, Robert Hannah, of Newnan; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jackson, of Macon; Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Wright, and Mrs. Ben Rives Jr., of Roanoke, Ala.

Rowe—McLaughlin.

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 20.—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rowe, of Pell City, Ala., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Rene Rowe, to William Hynd McLaughlin, of LaGrange, the marriage having been solemnized July 1 at the home of Rev. A. E. Dallas, with Rev. Dallas officiating.

Mr. McLaughlin was graduated from A. P. I., in Auburn, and holds the position of overseer in the Valway plant of Callaway Mills. He and his bride are residing in LaGrange, following a trip to Louisiana.

For Miss Baggarly.

Honoring Miss Joyce Baggarly, whose marriage to James Gilbert Lamberson takes place August 12, will be the dinner party at which Mrs. W. C. DuLaney and Mrs. W. N. Lamberson will be hostesses July 27 at the Frances Virginia tea room.

Miss Baggarly was honored last evening at the shower given by Miss Virginia Reeds and Mrs. O. F. Reeds at their home on Mayland avenue.

Brodnax Reunion.

The Brodnax family reunion will be held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Brodnax near Stone Mountain, Ga. All relatives are invited to attend and bring a picnic luncheon.

WARREN IS NAMED TO POST IN WPA

College Park Man To Direct State Historical Survey.

Appointment of Phillip Warren, of College Park, as acting state director of the Work Projects Administration's historical records survey project was announced yesterday by the WPA.

Warren succeeded Raiford J. Wood, of Savannah, who was named state editor of the project.

The WPA gave no reason for the change. Warren was formerly assistant to Wood.

"A-AH! BEST TEA I EVER DRANK!"

FINER TEA—that was Sir Thomas Lipton's gift to the tea lovers of seven nations. Today—no other tea is as popular as Lipton's. Here are the reasons:

1. WORLD-FAMOUS FLAVOR—smooth, full, rich, delicious.
2. TENDER YOUNG LEAVES—and luscious, flavorful buds—give extra fragrance and bouquet.
3. SUPERB BLEND—of unvarying quality—praised by professional tea experts.
4. DISTINCTIVE CHARACTER—from choice teas grown in Lipton's own Ceylon gardens.
5. ECONOMICAL—you use less Lipton's per glass—it's so rich in flavor.

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP)—The stock market did its best to revive the rallying spirit today, but lost heart when a last-minute selling flurry cut down leaders fractions to more than 2 points.

In the morning buyers nibbled at selected aircrafts and specialties and, for a while, it looked as though the list might get back on the climbing track. At the best, prices were only moderately mixed with gains in the majority at one time. A handful of issues managed to edge into new high ground for the year when things were going fairly well.

Short sellers regained a little confidence as the forward push began to fade and this influence helped depress prices in the closing hour.

At the same time, profit taking on the recent upsurge seemed to have been about completed. Compared with the feverish pace of Monday and Tuesday, the turnover was rather slack. Transfers for the five hours totaled 806,230 shares against 1,022,300 the day before. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .5 of a point at 49.1, duplicating its recession of Wednesday.

Fractions to more than a point down in the curb were Lockheed, American Gas & Electric, Electric Bond & Share, Gulf Oil and Niles-Bement-Pond. Lake Shore and Standard Oil of Nebraska slanted higher. Turnover of 115,000 shares compared with 134,000 Wednesday.

SEARS, ROEBUCK SALES INCREASE 24 PER CENT

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP)—Sears, Roebuck & Company reported today sales for the sixth period, from June 19 to July 16, totaled $44,573,662, an increase of 24.2 per cent over the $35,901,536 total for the corresponding period last year.

It was the largest sixth period in the history of the company. Similarly, the total sales for the first six periods of 1939—$277,488,537—were the largest for that period. Sales for the first six periods of 1938 were $224,986,360, 23.3 per cent under this year's figure.

THOMASVILLE.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 20.—(United States Department of Agriculture.)—Combined receipts of hogs today at packing plants in Albany, Columbus, Moultrie, Thomasville and Tifton, Ga.; Dothan, Ala. and Jacksonville, Fla., 453 head. Prices generally steady but uneven.

The following quotations for today are based on composite prices paid at the plants for soft hogs delivered at seller's expense and on off-truck weights: Most 180 to 240 pounds around $6; medium to choice, 240 lbs. and up, $5.25 to $5.75; No. 1, 180 to 240 lbs. $5.75-$6.25; No. 2, 150 to 180 lbs. $5.25-$5.75; No. 3, 130 to 150 lbs. $5-$5.50; No. 4, 110 to 130 lbs. $4.75-$5.25; No. 5, 60 to 110 lbs. $4.50 to $5; medium and good sows 180-240 lbs. $4.75-$5.25. Hogs sold subject to post-mortem inspection and found hard or free of internal parasites command premiums over the above quotations.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Hogs lost 5 to 25 cents in a slow market today, top falling to $7.05. Sows and heavy butchers sold at the full decline. There was a fairly active demand for fed steers and yearlings at steady to 15-cent higher prices. Steers bulk selling from $8.50 to $9.75. Grassers were slow and weak. Spring lambs topped at $9.65 in a steady to weak trade.

Salable hogs 10,000, 3,000 direct; lighter weights sold mostly on early market weak to 10c lower than Wednesday's average; top $7.05; bulk 180-240 pounds early $6.80-$7.00; closing market unevenly 10-25c lower on all weights; most 240-270 pounds $6.20-$6.75; 270-300 pounds $5.60-$6.25; few 150-175 pounds $6.00-$6.65; light sows $5.10-$5.35; 330-400 pounds $4.30-4.895; 450-500 pounds $4.00-$4.15; shippers 2,000; estimated holdover 2,000.

Salable cattle 5,500; salable calves 1,000; fed steers and yearlings strong, instances 10-15c higher, especially on medium weight and weighty steers; heifers firm; cows steady to weak; shipper demand weighty steers broad; numerous loads $9.00-$10.00; extreme top $10.35; best light steers $10.25; yearlings $9.85; 850-pound heifer yearlings $9.75; plain and medium stock calves $7.50-$8.50; with good to choice offerings $9.50-$10.50; Monday's decline practically regained on all killing classes; steers closing strong with late last week after selling 25-50c lower on Monday; weighty sausage bulls up to $7.50 and better; but light kinds down to $5.75-$6.00; vealers $9.50-$10.25; few $10.50.

Salable sheep 6,000; 4,000 direct; spring lambs and yearlings steady to weak, spots easier; top native spring lambs $9.65; bulk $9.25-$9.50; westerns $9.25-$9.35; yearlings $7.25-$8.25; sheep about steady; native slaughter ewes $2.50-$3.50; good feeding lambs $8.50.

Money Market.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Netherlands guilder slanted sharply lower today after a recent run-up of nearly ½ cent in terms of the dollar.

Pressure on the guilder, which resulted in a dip of .09 of a cent, accompanied reports Dutch Prime Minister Colijn was having difficulties in forming a new cabinet.

The Shanghai dollar also suffered a severe drop as the official British-Chinese stabilization continued to withhold support from the market. The Chinese money lost nearly a cent. The British pound shaded lower, the belga was a trifle higher and the French franc and Swiss franc unchanged.

Closing rates follow:

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP)—Bonds slipped off fractions today after late selling upset a fairly stable market.

Some observers, looking at a succession of favorable business earnings reports, attributed the decline to "technical factors" including more profit selling.

Declining issues included American & Foreign Power 5s at 61½; Commonwealth Edison convertible 3½s at 120 1-8; Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 57 1-8; Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 4½ at 76 3-4; Southern Railway 4s at 55; and New York Central 5s at 55½.

U. S. governments were dealt in only lightly, closing in a range from 6-32 point down to 2-32 point up.

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP)—Selling orders poured into the grain pits today, tumbling corn prices to the lowest levels since 1933 and wheat to new lows for the year.

Corn lost as much as 3 cents a bushel, July contracts breaking to 39 3-4. Wheat dropped as much as 2 3-8 cents, with July at 63 7-8, lowest since early last winter.

There were no outstanding trade developments upon which pit brokers could blame liquidation of such volume. They pointed out the bearish domestic situation in corn and the bearish world wheat position had undermined confidence of buyers.

Early selling in wheat was associated with pronounced weakness at Liverpool, where prices closed 1 1-2 off. July wheat there touched 48 1-2, lowest on record. Selling at Liverpool was credited to Argentine shippers and to trade operations following disclosure that the British government already has taken advantage of low world prices to accumulate additional stocks for emergency reserve. In the past portions of this wheat have been released into normal trade channels.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Buying based on a firmer raw market helped the domestic sugar futures contract along today. Prices closed 2 points higher to 2 lower on sales of 8,450 tons.

A cargo of first half August shipment Cubas, regarded as the spot position, sold at 2 cents cost and freight, an advance of 5 points over the last sale.

Dealings in the world contract were again chilled by absence of quota news from London. Closing prices were ½ to 1 point lower on sales of only 1,250 tons. September closed 1.21½, December 1.20½.

Refined remained at 4.30@4.40 cents. Trade reports called attention to increasing competition from other than local areas, particularly the south.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Steadiness in Brazilian exchange and in coffee prices abroad provided the backdrop for an advance in coffee futures here today.

Santos closed 4 to 6 points higher on sales of 4,000 bags; July 5.81b, September 5.90, December 6.03, March 6.11b, May 6.16b. Both Rio contracts were inactive, the old 2 points higher and the new 4 to 5 points up. Old Rio, July 4.09b, September 4.14b, December 4.20b, March 4.20b. (b—Bid.)

Spot coffee held steady; Santos 4s at 7¼; Rio 7s at 5⅛. Cost and freight offerings included Santos bourbon 3s and 5s at 6.25@7.00.

Cottonseed Oil

Cottonseed Oil Products

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Trading in cottonseed oil futures broadened today as the market gave way to a new selling attack. Closing prices were 14 to 15 points down and at new 5-year low levels. Weakness of corn, hogs and lard stimulated pressure. Sales totaled 251 lots; September 5.71b, October 5.76b, December 5.90b, January 5.95b. (b—Bid). Crude oil was quoted nominally at 4¾ cents in the southeast and valley and 4½ in Texas.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.
Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling 9.70.

AVERAGE PRICE.
NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 15 points lower at 9.05 cents a pound. The average price for the past thirty market days was 9.46 cents a pound.

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP)—Cotton futures slid into new low ground for the current recession today. With buyers on the sidelines, prices dropped to net losses of 11 to 15 points.

Main price deterrents were continued favorable crop reports and no news from Washington regarding the export subsidy plan.

Some sold as they eyed sharp breaks in several other commodities, notably wheat and corn.

Cheerful news from Worth Street textile markets attracted demand from the trade early, but the market soon relapsed into a downward streak.

Exports today 8,609 bales; season so far 3,523,537. Port receipts 9,499; port stocks 1,938,532.

COTTON PRICES DIP UNDER LIQUIDATION

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—(AP)—Cotton futures weakened here today under liquidation and foreign selling induced by favorable weather conditions in the growing region. Last prices were steady at net declines of 10 to 13 points.

TEXTILE WAGE ORDER MAY BE ISSUED SOON

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, in response to a press conference question, estimated today that his order fixing a minimum wage for workers in the textile industry would be issued within a month after the filing of final briefs August 2. An industry committee recommended a minimum of 32 1-2 cents an hour.

Andrews said oral arguments would begin here July 25 on evidence gathered in hearings at Atlanta and elsewhere.

SOCIAL SECURITY LAW CHANGES DEADLOCKED

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP)—Members of the senate-house committee seeking a compromise on proposed changes in the social security law deadlocked today on the Connally amendment to increase the federal government's contribution to the old age assistance program.

Some of the conferees contended the cleavage was so sharp on the issue that no agreement was likely this week. They will meet again tomorrow.

SENATORS TO STUDY FLORIDA SHIP CANAL

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP)—The senate interoceanic canals committee authorized Chairman Clark, Democrat, Missouri, today to appoint a subcommittee to study a resolution by Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, seeking a new investigation of the Florida ship canal.

Members of the subcommittee had not been named this afternoon.

Pepper's resolution would direct the canal group to make an investigation of the $200,000,000 project with a view to determining its feasibility and the amount of money the government would be justified in spending on such a development.

A bill seeking outright authorization for the canal was rejected by the senate earlier this session.

Advised To Leave Louisiana, Dr. Smith Declares in Plea

Leche Brands Savant's Claim He Was Assured of Facing No Charges False.

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—(AP) Much-indicted Dr. James Monroe Smith told a court today he was advised to leave Louisiana after resigning the presidency of the state university and was assured he faced no threat of criminal action.

Although Smith did not name his advisors in a petition seeking bail on a federal charge, former Governor Richard Leche promptly called the educator's claim "absurd and obviously untrue."

Leche accepted and announced Smith's resignation nearly a month ago after a conference at the executive mansion. The nine-year head of L. S. U. dropped from sight immediately and was not heard from again until he surrendered six days later in Canada.

Leche Resigns.

In the interim, Leche had disclosed financial irregularities at the school and had withdrawn from the governorship, giving ill health as his reason.

Smith declared today he "was advised to leave the state of Louisiana" after his resignation and "was given to understand and was of the honest belief that there was no foundation for the institution of any criminal proceedings against me."

"On the contrary," he added, "I was informed that the only action that might be taken against me was a civil action."

Asks to Make Bond.

The bald doctor of philosophy and protege of the late Huey P. Long asked the right to make $10,000 bond on a federal mail fraud charge so he might be returned from federal jail here to a state cell at Baton Rouge to escape being "harassed" by federal agents he said were trying to force him to confess crimes he did not commit.

Simultaneously with the filing of this petition by Smith's counsel, 11 more charges were piled up against him in district court here, bringing to 36 the total number of charges he faces, and increasing his total bail to $189,500. Ten of today's charges were of forgery, one of operating a confidence game.

ALL NOT CROOKED, LONG DECLARES

HOMER, La., July 20.—(AP)—Governor Earl K. Long said today that because some Louisiana officials "have gone crooked" it does not mean that all "have become that way."

Speaking a dairy day observance here, he said:

"Contrary to what some newspapers and scandalmongers are saying, everybody in Louisiana is not crooked."

SENATE OPTIMISM SURPRISES EUROPE

Neutrality Action Alarms Britain, France; September Crisis Feared.

By PERTINAX.

Released by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

PARIS, July 20.—(By Wireless) The Franco-British system of resistance to the totalitarian states, to be fully efficient, must be able to rely, on one side, upon the willingness of the government of the United States to sell war material on the outbreak of hostilities to the predominant naval powers, and, on the other side, upon Russia's co-operation. Were Russia's co-operation to be withdrawn, the capacity of Poland and Rumania to withstand for long a German onslaught and maintain a lasting battle-front could perhaps be doubted.

As a consequence, the check suffered by President Roosevelt on neutrality legislation and the postponement to the beginning of next year of all congressional discussions of the subject are keenly deplored here.

Surprised at Optimism.

Surprise is expressed at the belief that is held, according to press cables, by a majority of senators that no major European crisis is likely to occur during the next six months. Most competent authorities, both military and diplomatic, would like, of course, to be able to share that optimistic forecast, but they are at a loss indeed to understand how it can be substantiated.

Anyone who wants to foretell the immediate future must keep in mind the following fact. Next October, the output of war material in Britain and France will, for the first time, balance the arms and ammunitions turned out in German and Italian factories, and even as regards military airplanes prove greater. The obvious inference to be drawn from that state of affairs is that the relative military power of Germany and Italy is bound to decline three months hence and that, if Hitler and Mussolini are determined to take their chance on the battlefield, they must realize that time will, before long, work against them and behave accordingly.

Dangerous Period.

Informed opinion is that the period most dangerous to peace will probably open toward the middle of September, because toward the end of that month snow already will have blocked all roads leading to Italy across the Alps and therefore the French higher command will be deprived of an offensive outlet which appears to loom fairly large in its plans.

I do not mean to suggest that war must be regarded as fatal before next fall, but to issue a warning on the strength of most authoritative opinion that the margin which separates Europe from catastrophe will never be thinner than during August and September.

Injury Pay Halved By Error in Printing

Nineteen years ago the Georgia legislature decreed a workman's compensation for loss of a thumb as half pay for 60 weeks.

When this law was publicly printed in the code it read "thirty weeks," and five years ago a code commission adopted the statute book as a whole as Georgia law. Came a man recently to the State Industrial Board seeking compensation for loss of his thumb and the board asked Attorney General Ellis Arnall which was law—30 or 60 weeks' pay.

Arnall's opinion said the adopted code was controlling—which means 30 weeks' pay instead of the 60 the legislature wrote into the act.

2 WITNESSES LINK BRIDGES AND REDS

CIO Leader's Admittance of Membership Claimed at Deportation Hearing.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—(AP) Two more witnesses linked Harry Bridges with alleged Communist activities at the CIO waterfront leader's deportation hearing today.

William Henry Howard, 49, Portland, Ore., testified Bridges told him in San Pedro, Cal., after the 1936 Maritime Federation convention there, "Well, maybe I am a commie (Communist) and if I am, maybe I'd be damned proud of it."

Joseph William Marcus, one-time waiter in a San Francisco restaurant which he identified as Communist headquarters, said the Australian-born Bridges frequently visited there.

The defense obtained a subpoena for Captain Charles Bakesy, Santa Monica, who, Defense Attorney Richard Gladstein told reporters, "has it within his power to reveal an interrelation between Thomas G. Plant (head of the waterfront employes during the 1936-37 maritime strike) and Stanley Morton (Larry) Doyle and the persecution of Bridges."

Howard, who said he was an ex-marine fireman who formerly held a district vice presidency of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific in Portland, said he did not like "Bridges' attitude in trying to grab control over every union on the coast in the maritime industry."

KUHN GETS $5 FINE ON DRUNK CHARGE

Bund Leader Pleads Guilty and Later Reverses Admission.

WEBSTER, Mass., July 20.—(AP) Fritz Kuhn, German-American Bund leader, pleaded guilty today to being drunk and profane, but reversed his field after paying a $5 fine and declared he was sober linguistically as well as personally during his recent argument with a Webster police officer.

"I at no time acted boisterously and directed no profanity at any person," insisted the Nazi leader in a formal statement issued not long after he left district court.

"In consideration of the decided hostility shown by the arresting officer and of the prejudicial atmosphere created before the trial I pleaded guilty to the charges of drunkenness and profanity as the best means of avoiding a theatrical performance."

Harris Bats in Winning Run in 8th To Win Own Game, 5-4

All in the GAME by Jack Troy

The Southern league, as some insist, may not be as fast as formerly, but it certainly is a lot more interesting. So what?

The league doesn't have any Sunkels—although Big Besse, of Memphis, would do in a pinch—or any Evanses, Riches, Crouches and others, in a pitching way.

There aren't a great many individual standouts in other departments of play. The graduating class to the majors may be very small. But again—so what?

Certainly, the race never has been tighter. And that's what the fans want to see. There are enough individuals around to provide the necessary color.

It may be argued, pro and con, that the pitching is away below standard and the hitting should be better, but John Fan doesn't care about that. He wants to know if the Crackers or the Chicks or the Lookouts or the Vols will win the pennant, depending, of course, where John Fan drapes the carcass in the grandstands or bleachers of Southern league parks.

As said, John Fan doesn't care if Joe Glutz is or is not a major league prospect. Just so long as his favorite team can hang in there and pitch with the leaders, he's satisfied.

As a matter of fact, the fans don't care particularly about seeing their favorites get so good that the majors place a demand on their services, because this simply means they won't be seeing them any more.

So the standard of individual brilliance, whether it be high or low, really doesn't matter. It's a red-hot race and that's what really counts.

DIMAG ON HITTING.

Joe DiMaggio, conceded to be the leading outfielder of the present day, has turned author and writes in Collier's his impressions of "Pitchers I Have Hit."

He makes one statement that is a bit surprising to this corner. He says: "I know I'm not afraid of Feller's fast ball, nor the fireball tossed by Emil Leonard, a Washington youngster who is nearly as fast."

The part about Leonard is a bit confusing. The Flying Dutchman is no youngster and during his stay in the Southern league he wasn't particularly noted for having a blinding fast ball. He was a standout with Atlanta through expert use of a knuckle ball.

Leonard has had so much success against the Yankees this season—he has beaten them three times—that it is just barely possible DiMaggio could be mistaken about his speed. That dancing butterfly pitch of Leonard's may have him confused.

COBB TIPPED HIM OFF.

DiMag, who relates that Mel Harder, of the Indians, is the hardest pitcher for him to hit because he is forever nicking the corners and giving him nothing soft to offer at, so to speak, goes on to say that Ty Cobb gave him the answer on hitting.

"I once visited the immortal Cobb in his home 30 miles from San Francisco. There are a lot of pictures on the wall of his den. Walter Johnson, Smoky Joe Wood and other titans. I said to Cobb, 'Gosh, Ty, that Johnson, Wood, Walsh and Bender must have been pretty tough with that nicked ball, huh?'

"Ty got up and put his finger on the framed photograph of the great Walter and said:

"'I've seen this guy when he was so fast the ball actually was a streak. And that goes for the smoke on Wood's swift one. Chief Bender here was a cool, cagey Indian, and he, like all the better pitchers, had his days when I wished I was back in Georgia whittling on a stick. But on other days I hit all of them. Joe, when a good hitter is going good, none of them are tough. Remember that.'"

Ferdinand's Corner: Eddie Moore told Morris Siegel, Atlanta boy working in the sports department of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, that "I've been knocking around for about 20 years now and am pretty well certain that this is my last year in the game. . . . Sure, I like to manage, but this business of making long, overnight jumps from one town to the other in stuffy, crowded buses detracts from some of the glamour that baseball holds. . . . I plan to finish out the year with Winston-Salem and unless I get a pretty good offer for 1940 to manage some club I'm afraid I'm going to say good-bye to baseball." . . . Moore, almost 40 years old, is still active as a player. . . . The Sporting News carries a story saying that the road slump of the Jersey City Giants bares friction between Bert Niehoff and his players. . . . Johnny Mize, born and raised in Demorest, Ga., is the foremost home-run hitter in the National league and is considered a real contender in the four-base derby. . . . On slow infield rollers, in considering what is a hit or an error, it is all-important to note where the base runner is in relation to first base. . . . For instance, Calvin Chapman was no more than four steps away from the bag Wednesday night when Peters, trying to make a fast play, let the ball get away. . . . A perfect throw would not have retired the flying Chapman. . . . Fred Russell (Nashville Banner) was bemoaning the lack of Vol pitching. . . . Then Martynick comes along and almost pitches a no-hitter against the Crackers. . . . Funny game, baseball. . . . Martynick had never given the Crackers a great deal of trouble, either as a Memphis Chick or a Vol. . . . Daytona Beach, Fla., which never sees top-flight college football, is to be host to an all-star coaching school August 21-26. . . . Frank Thomas, Bernie Bierman, Frank Leahy (Boston College) and Paul Hinkle (Butler) are on the coaching staff. . . . The major leagues are kicking on home broadcasting, claiming it is harmful to attendance. . . . Apparently it hasn't been harmful in Atlanta, however. . . . Whitlow Wyatt, of Buchanan, last year discovered a curve with Milwaukee which has made him a star with Brooklyn. . . . Greek George, who played end at Oglethorpe with John Patrick, now head coach and a former guard, plays his best ball for Larry Gilbert. . . . Tremendous crowds are witnessing elimination heats in The Constitution-Chevrolet Motor Company Soap Box Derby. . . . The big race will be held Saturday afternoon.

ONE-MINUTE INTERVIEW

Bill Terry: "I'd rather play the Reds any day in the week than the Cards—you can't dare relax a minute against them or they'll run away with the ball game right under your nose—gosh, how that speed of theirs helps."

POOR OLD BILL.

Bill McKechnie isn't arousing much sympathy with that sad face he is wearing around the National league. . . . As Arthur Sampson wrote in the Boston Herald, Bill's biggest problem is a scarcity of seats in the park.

Leonard, Bloodworth, Smith, Peek Advance; Fine Prizes Await Ultimate Winners.

By ROY WHITE.

Four 19-hole matches and 13 others which ended on the 18th green featured the quarter-final round of The Constitution's second annual two-club golf tournament on the James L. Key course. Three of the matches in the championship flight were decided on the last green, so keen was the competition, which set some sort of a Georgia record last week with more than 70 per cent of the first round ending on the last green.

Semi-final matches began Thursday afternoon, but most of the participants waited until today, Saturday and Sunday to complete their matches.

Bernard Leonard, Tarzan Bloodworth, Max Smith and Fain Peek have fought their way to the semi-finals in the championship flight. Leonard beat Jack Bothamley Jr. on the 18th green, 1 up, while Bloodworth won a default over Luke Barnes, who is leaving town today with Atlanta's municipal golf team for the National Public Links tournament next week at Baltimore.

Max Smith beat Charles Burnett, 2-1, and plays Peek, who eliminated Bill Johnson, 2-1.

Some fine prizes await the winners and runners-up in the final two matches. The prize list included donations from John Blick, Sears-Roebuck, Davison-Paxon, Reeder-McGaughey, Mackey Klein, Claude S. Bennett, Warren's Arena, Southeastern Fair, Atlanta Baseball Company, Harry Stevens (Tommy Armour putter), Park Liquor Store and Wofford Oil Company.

Atley Donald Doesn't Care About Streak

'When I Pitch, I Just Go After That Game,' Says Sensational Rookie.

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—(AP)—Atley Donald, the New York Yankees' star rookie hurler, has a firm lower jaw and doesn't worry, and those are two big reasons why he has just busted a 31-year-old record by starting his American league career with 11 consecutive triumphs.

"When it's my turn to pitch, I go out there to win, and I'm not satisfied with myself unless I turn in a victory," asserted the big 26-year-old right hander.

"But remember," he added, "you mustn't forget I've got the best team in baseball playing behind me."

ONE AHEAD.

In defeating the Browns during the current series which ended today, Donald went one game ahead of Harry Krause, of the Philadelphia Athletics, who won 10 decisions as a first-year man in 1908 before he tasted defeat.

Donald, who left Louisiana Tech for a baseball career, says he's not worried about his winning streak. It's not new to him.

"Why, in breaking into the International league with Newark in 1937, I won 14 games before I was defeated," he explained. That year he won 19 games against two losses during the regular season.

"When I pitch," he told a newspaperman who spied him in the lobby at his hotel, "I don't think of winning streaks. I just pitch that one game."

WORLD SERIES.

Next October, when the World's Series rolls around, you can almost bet the shirt off your back that the spotlight will be on young Atley—unless, of course, the Boston Red Sox keep repeating their succees with the Yankees (they recently swept a five game series) or if Donald breaks an arm.

"We're not thinking of the World's Series yet," declared the tan-faced hurler, "but if we win and I get a chance to pitch, it will certainly be the big day I've been looking for."

Donald has pitched against each of the seven other clubs in the American league, and, take his word for it, "they're all tough." He has decisions against all but Detroit and Boston.

YATES, DANNALS HUGHES, BARNES PLAY EXHIBITION

Match Arranged for Sunday as Feature of West End Tourney.

By ROY WHITE.

An Atlanta foursome with a fine record of championships behind it will play an exhibition, free to the public, at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon on the West End golf course.

Charlie Yates (he needs no introduction), Dr. Julius Hughes, president of the Atlanta Golf Association and the only player to win both the Georgia and Atlanta amateur titles the same year; Charles Dannals Jr., Atlanta's open champion, and Tommy Barnes, former southern intercollegiate champion, will make up the exhibition foursome.

The exhibition was arranged by Charlie Edwards, the West End pro, as a feature of the fourth round of the West End President's cup tournament, and to give Atlanta's golf fans a home-town championship exhibition.

FISH FRY.

Soon after the exhibition is over A. J. (Goat) Cochran, former pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds and the championship Buford team in the old "Million Dollar League," with serve one of his famous West End fish frys at the club.

Under the direction of Paul Ford, the president, Edwards, and a capable staff of officers, the West End Club is providing more golf and entertainment for its members than ever before.

The Sunday exihibition including only home-town boys who have won championships of importance, is just another step forward the officers are making to provide worthwhile entertainment for the West End members.

GREAT PROGRAM.

And with such a fine program arranged, the officers decided to throw the gates wide open, free to the public in a sort of "visitors" or "guests" day. There will be a small charges for the fish fry.

Tommy Barnes first came into prominence while a member of the West End club, so it's not a borrowed foursome entirely. Yates has been a member of the East Lake club since he first began to play golf. Charles Dannals Jr. has always been a member of the Capital City club, and Dr. Hughes is one of Druid Hills' hardest workers.

Each section of the city and four different clubs are represented in the Sunday foursome.

PICARD SCORES 68 IN PRACTICE

Guldahl Won at Medinah Four Years Ago to Start 'Comeback.'

By STEVE SNIDER.

CHICAGO, July 20.—(UP)—The 1939 edition of the tournament that convinced Ralph Guldahl he was a golfer and not an automobile salesman—the Western Open—begins at Medinah Country Club tomorrow with a record field of nearly 350 chasing the same Guldahl.

The big Texan was ready to quit the game four years ago, when he suddenly found his arms hugging the fat Western Open trophy. He hasn't let go of it since, winning three straight years from the best professionals in the business.

Dogging his heels from tomorrow until Sunday night will be more hot golfers than he yet has had to contend with.

United States Open Champion Byron Nelson and P. G. A. King Henry Picard are in the field and both still are on top of their game. Sam Snead and Dick Metz, running just behind the national champions in money winnings, and Johnny Bulla, second in the British open, were the other favorites.

Guldahl, however, has brought his game along slowly and he figures he is ready for the break that eluded him in defense of his national open title and again in the P. G. A. championship. His practice round of 36-33—69 yesterday was two under par of Medinah's toughest course, on which three of the four tournament rounds will be played.

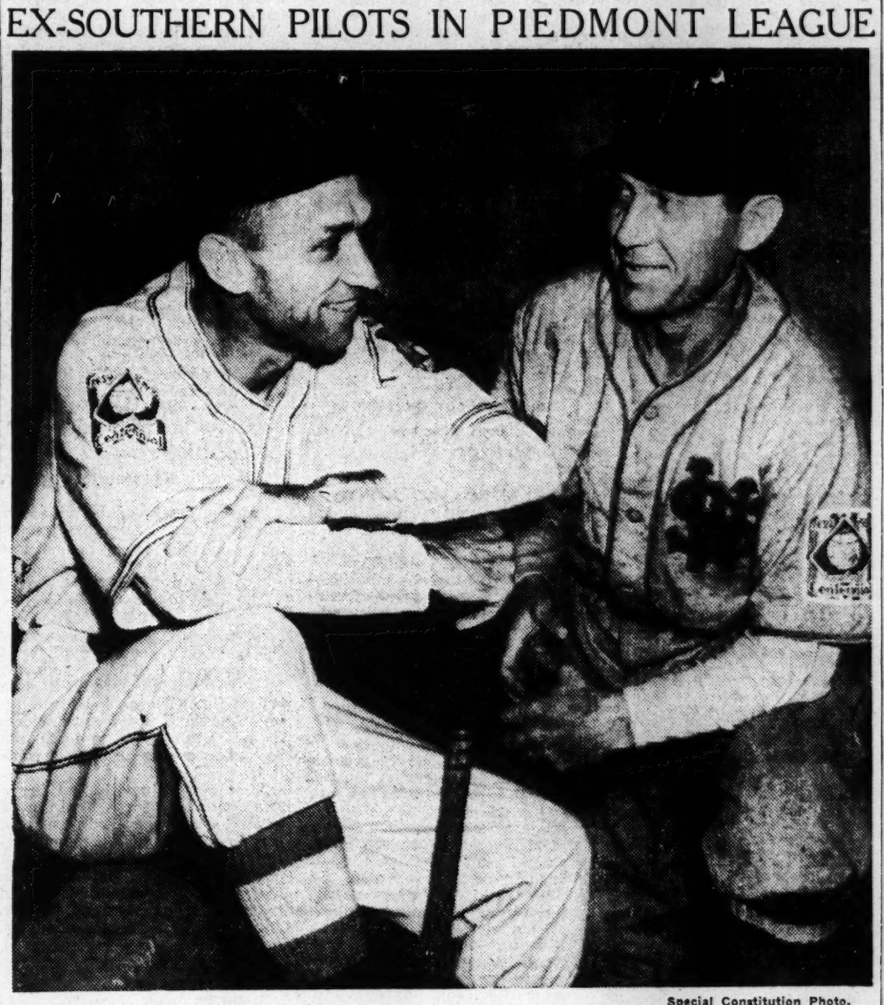

Picard scored a 68, two under par on No. 1 course, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of Oak Park, early sensation of the winter circuit, had a 69.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Maine, July 20.—(AP)—William H. Strang's bay filly Queen Victoria won the two-year-old trot, Grand Circuit feature, today before rain shortened the program to five races. Samson was second in the $400 purse race.

Durocher and Wyatt Are Fined by Frick

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP)—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was fined $50 and Pitcher Whitlow Wyatt $25 today by President Ford Frick of the National league for their altercations with the umpires in last night's game with the Cincinnati Reds.

Durocher was thumbed out of the game after disputing a decision of Umpire Dolly Stark at second base. Later in the game Wyatt tried to take a punch at Stark, but was presented by teammates, after the umpire had called Frank McCormick, Cincinnati first baseman, safe at first on a close play. Wyatt also had figured in the dispute which led to Durocher's banishment. Stark ruled that the pitcher left second base before the ball was caught in the outfield.

The fines continued the epidemic of penalties meted out to National league players and umpires during July. Durocher was fined $25 and thrown out of the game for his run-in with Zeke Bonura, of the Giants, on July 3. Bonura also was fined $50 and sent to the showers.

In the Giants-Reds flare-up of July 15, Bill Jurges, New York shortstop, and Umpire George Magerkurth were fined $50 each and suspended for 10 days, while Manager Bill Terry, of the Giants, and his first-string catcher, Harry Danning, were fined $50 each.

Nova and Galento Sign for 15-Rounder

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(AP) Lou Nova, rising young California heavyweight, and Tony Galento were signed today for a 15-round battle in Philadelphia's municipal stadium September 7.

Managers Joe Jacobs for Galento and Ray Carlin for Nova signed the agreement in the presense of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission.

The contract stipulated that the commission should name either Arthur Donovan, of New York or George Blake, of Los Angeles as referee.

Commission Chairman Leon Rains said either Donovan or Blake would be designated "about a week before the bout."

CLEVER BOXERS ON MONDAY BILL

Professional club fights will be inaugurated on a weekly scale at Warren athletic field Monday night and already Matchmaker Virgil Warren has lined up three bouts that promise plenty of old-fashioned glove throwing.

Buster Isenberg, former University of Georgia captain, who is a promising heavyweight, will fight Joe Bruce, hard-hitting Atlanta boy.

Ted Goodrich, once the toast of Atlanta fans, will attempt a comeback because, he says, "I still can punch the ears off these young punks." Goodrich, who insists he is not too old to be a winner, has drawn a nasty assignment, meeting Joe Apperson, the Dalton (Ga.) buzzsaw.

Pug Smith, former welterweight amateur champion of the southeast, boxes Bill Potts, of Chattanooga.

Opponents are being sought for Floyd Shiflett, of Calhoun, Ga., and Grady Johnson, a lightweight.

All fights will be six rounds. There will be no big-name stars with reputations to uphold, but boys who want to fight and who are eager to revive the game here.

Prices will be about the same as those which prevail for amateur shows.

Patty Berg Resting After Appendectomy

MINNEAPOLIS, July 20.—(AP)—Patty Berg, of Minneapolis, women's national golf champion, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Northwestern hospital early today and afterward was reported to be "resting comportably."

The operation, it was indicated, will make it impossible for her to compete in the women's western closed tournament at Birmingham, Mich., August 7-12, and may prevent her from defending her national title at Noroton, Conn., two weeks later.

Whether Miss Berg will play in the national tournament "will be entirely up to her doctor," her mother, Mrs. H. L. Berg, said.

SANDLOT GAME IS 'NO CONTEST'

Adair Park, DeKalb Barons To Replay Game This Afternoon.

Yesterday's American Legion sandlot game between the Adair Park Tigers and the DeKalb Barons, which was stopped in the first half of the sixth with Adair leading, 4-2, was ruled "no contest" last night by Glover Bailie, state athletic officer of the American Legion.

The game, which will determine the fifth district winner, will be played today at 2:30 on the northwest diamond at Piedmont park, and the victor will meet Gainesville in a series next week for the north Georgia championship.

When rain stopped play in the sixth inning, a violent argument, one of the characteristics of such tournaments, ensued. Adair claimed the fifth district title on the ground the game went five innings, the usual number necessary to make a game official. However, the Barons argued that both teams had agreed upon nine innings—or no contest.

Athletic Officer Bailie sided with the Barons, so the game will be replayed this afternoon.

VOLS GET 5 HITS OFF POINDEXTER LUMAN HARRI

Victory Is 11th; Frai Gabler Drives in Ty- ing Runs in 8th.

Bucs Hand Giants 6th Straight Defeat; Chisox Beat Boston

OSEDEL TAKES TENTH AS BEES WHIP CUBS, 2-1

rrymen Are Now Only 1 1-2 Games Out of Seventh Place.

By The Associated Press.

he Pittsburgh Pirates, not adse to kicking the Giants when y are already down, did it again terday, by an 8-4 score and ved up into the National league's t division.

t marked the crippled Giants' h straight loss, their worst losstreak of the season. Harry mbert, the Giant pitcher, had a time of it in the third, allowfive runs which cost him his rth loss of the season.

ob Klinger, of the Pirates, alugh knocked out in the sixth, s the victor. Elbie Fletcher, of Pirates, and Bob Seeds, of the nts, contributed homers.

The Giants are now only 1½ nes out of seventh place.

Boston's Bees took their second nsecutive game from Chicago's bs, 2 to 1, today, in an oldhioned pitchers' duel which saw ilor Bill Posedel allow the visrs but six hits and Vance Page e eight to the Swarm.

But the sparkling play afield and bat of Rabbit Warstler, Bee ndyman now subbing for the ined Eddie Miller at short, nearly ershadowed the work of both rlers.

Warstler had a perfect day at t, getting three for three, scored th Boston runs and handled ven changes well. His three hits ve him six hits for his last six nes at bat. He made three yesrday, the last one knocking in e winning run.

The win was the tenth of the ason for Posedel, the first Bee attain that figure.

CRACKERS

ontinued From First Sports Page.

itting Calvin Chapman. Chapan grounded out to Burge unsisted and the game was over. The Crackers scored their first vo runs in the first inning on ngles by Sperry, Mailho, Duke d Peters.

CUT LOOSE.

Then the Vols cut loose in the econd inning. George walked, Mihalic singled and Rodda doubled, coring George. Johnson walked d Rospond doubled, scoring Mialic and Rodda. Williams hit a acrifice fly to Mailho and Johnon scored. Harris had replaced oindexter with Williams comng up.

The Vols got their first hit off Harris in the eighth and their econd in the ninth. They secured nly five hits for the night.

On the other hand, the Crackrs wasted several opportunities. They got 13 hits in all, wasted five its across the second, third and ourth innings.

At any rate, justice was done when Gabler, who won a Knoxville game last week with a pinchit, came through to drive two unners home and Harris, himelf, delivered the winning wallop.

REST TODAY.

The Craackers rest today and hen move into Knoxville for a esumption of their blood series. A lot of changing around was necessary last night before the Crackers won. Marshall Mauldin, bad finger and all, moved to center field in the ninth, with Rucker coming in to third base as Larry Smith went back of the plate.

More plugging may be necessary on the road. Mauldin isn't ready to resume active play. And Manager Paul Richards is sure to be out for another week. Al Rubeling won't be ready to play before the club returns home on July 31, if then.

If the Crackers can hold their own until the ailing and crippled return, everything will be all right. Larry Miller is ready to pitch again and the only problem is what pitcher to take off to make room for him on the active list. He may see action on the long road trip.

Carolina Golf Head Wins Highland Title

Jeff Owens, of Hickory, N. C., Beat Daniel, 7-6, and Beaver, 3-2, in Finals.

By ROY WHITE.

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 20.—Jeff Owens, Hickory, N. C., president of the Carolina Golf Association and the Charlotte (N. C.) Country Club champion, was crowned champion of Highland's annual invitation tournament here this afternoon.

Owens, third in the qualifying round and a dark horse if there ever was one on this course, eliminated Robert Daniel, a LaGrange boy, 7-6, in the semi-finals, with a 75, and came back even better with a 73 in the afternoon to beat William Beavers, of Newnan, 3-2, and win the title.

Cliff Hunter, drawn into the championship flight when time prevented a play-off yesterday, knocked off Charles Dannals Jr., the medalist, and Atlanta's open champion, in the first round, but fell a victim of one of Beavers' best round and was eliminated in the semi-finals, 4-3, this morning.

Daniel who, like Hunter, eliminated Ely Callaway Jr., one of the favorites in the first round, also was beaten in the semi-finals, leaving two out-of-town boys to battle for the championship.

All the semi-final and final matches today were much closer than any previous two rounds and a large gallery followed the two matches in the morning and the championship in the afternoon.

Although LaGrange boys failed to win in the selected flight, a majority of the silverware was won by home town boys in the afternoon finals.

SEMI-FINAL RESULTS.

Publinx Play Will Present Family Party

Three Barneses, Three Szivedkos and Two Strafacis Entered.

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP)—The eighteenth public links championship, which opens next Monday on the Mount Pleasant Park course in Baltimore, may turn into pretty much of a family party.

The 190-man entry list released today showed three golfing families will be represented—the Strafacis, of Brooklyn, the Barneses, of Atlanta, and the Szwedkos, of Pittsburgh.

Atlanta Golf Team Off to Baltimore

Atlanta's municipal golf team through the generosity of Wiley Moore, prominent businessman and sportsman, will leave the city late this afternoon by airplane for Baltimore, Md., where it will participate in the 18th national public links tournament Monday through Saturday.

Luke, Ralph and Charlie Barnes and Bob McCoy will make the trip and arrive tonight in plenty of time for a couple of practice rounds Saturday and more Sunday.

Qualifying rounds will be played Monday and Tuesday with match play starting Wednesday and continuing through Saturday.

Since they already have produced one champion, 1935 winner Frank, the Strafacis probably should be rated the public links tournament's "first family." Represented this year by Domenic and Tommy, in numbers at least they must take second place behind the Pittsburgh Szwedkos, who will have brothers Mike, Frank and Andrew in the field.

The Barneses will be represented by Luke and Ralph, who aren't related to Charlie Barnes, also of Atlanta, and who might have won the numerical honors if they could have persuaded brothers Pete and Tommy to come into the tournament. That would have given them a considerable chance at the title, too, for Tommy was southern intercollegiate champ last year.

In adition to all the various family combines, there will be Carl F. Kauffman, of Pittsburgh, called the public linksters' "Bobby Jones" since he won the 1927-28-29 titles; and Robert E. Wingate, of Jacksonville, Fla., who took the honors in 1930.

For the qualifying rounds Monday and Tuesday Kauffman is paired with Telfair Ghioto, Jacksonville, Fla., and Wingate with Leo G. Heller, Asheville, N. C., and Ernie Tardiff, Santa Monica, Calif.

SKATING DERBY TO END TONIGHT

With a double-header at the city auditorium tonight between the Blue and White Crackers and the Red and Black Rangers, Atlanta's first national skating derby will come to a successful close. The first game is scheduled at 8 and the second at 10.

In the half-hour intermission between games, the finals for the amateur skating championship of Atlanta will be run off with 12 contestants who have reached the final round, fighting it out for the honor in a half-mile sprint.

The two games and the amateur finals should draw a capacity crowd.

The game is so fast and furious that there is seldom a dull moment. It is action all the time. Spectators literally go punch-drunk with excitement. Not once but several times during the derby here a number of people have fainted after the thrilling flag race that climaxes each game—but the next night sees them right back for more.

If you are a sports lover and have not seen the derby, you should by all means join the crowd at the auditorium tonight—and take the family, too—they will get a big kick out of it. This is the last opportunity to see the derby this summer. The auditorium is now air-conditioned.

Rangers, Crackers Tied At 23-All.

Red Rangers and Blue Crackers go into the final play in the national skating derby at the City auditorium tonight with the game score tied, 23 to 23. They will wind up the summer meet with two games at 8 p. m. and 10 p. m.

Bob Starnes led the furious Ranger attack that took both games Thursday night, 11 to 7 and 16 to 10. He scored eight of his squad's points and sped ahead of the pack as individual high scorer for the derby, having 122 tallies to Ranger Captain Hutson's 120 and Cracker Captain Redd's 112.

INDIANS DEFEAT BECKMAN, 3 TO 2; RUFFING WINNER

Kelley Winner in Relief; Lee Blanks Red Sox, 4 to 0.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The rampaging Chicago White Sox kayoed Dennis Galehouse with four runs in the first inning yesterday and Thornton Lee made them good by shutting out the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 0. The victory made it four out of five for the Chicagoans in the series and 15 victories in their last 19 games.

Mel Harder won a tight 3-2 decision over Bill Beckman and the Philadelphia Athletics as the Cleveland Indians swept the two-game series.

The Washington Senators beat Detroit, 8 to 7, to take the series, two games to one, Roberto Estalella's eighth-inning home run driving in the winning runs. Hank Greenberg, Earl Averill and Roy Cullenbine hit homers for the Tigers. Harry Kelley, who relieved Dutch Leonard, was winning pitcher.

The New York Yankees won their eighth straight victory by nosing out the St. Louis Browns, 2-1, in a pitchers' battle that Red Ruffing captured from Bob Harris. It was Ruffing's 13th win of the season.

JACK CRAWFORD BEATS MULLOY IN 4-SET MATCH

Scores Are 7-5, 6-1, 3-6, 8-6; Two Aces End Match.

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 20.—(AP)—A tiring Jack Crawford blazed away with two service aces today to wind up a gruelling match with stubborn Gardnar Mulloy, of Coral Gables, Fla., and enter the Longwood Bowl tennis semi-finals against the top-seeded Gene Mako, of Los Angeles.

They will mark time until Saturday, for the only men's singles match on tomorrow's card is the semi-final between Adrian Quist, of Australia, and Bobby Low, of Los Angeles.

Crawford, member of the Australian Davis Cup forces, appeared very weary during the last stages of the two-hour match but he hung on grimly and gained a 7-5, 6-1, 3-6, 8-6 victory.

After being spotted the first two sets, which were filled with long rallies, Crawford started to tire and the smooth-stroking Mulloy forced the match into overtime by aiming his cross-court volleys at his opponent's backhand.

The 10-minutes rest did not appear to be long enough for the drooping Australian, but he bore down hard in the 12th game on the final set and upheld his service after Mulloy deuced it four times.

Crawford then gained his first lead in that set, a 7-6, by cracking Mulloy for the fourth time in 13 games and then wiped out two double-faults with aces as he ran out the match on his own delivery.

The first men's doubles team to qualify for the semi-finals were William and Chester Murphy, the Chicago brothers, who gained a 6-2, 6-4 win over H. H. Hyde and John Gow, of Hartford, Conn. The top-ranking Gene Mako and Frank Parker followed them into the second last round by defeating August Ganzenmuller and J. Norman Anderson, of New York, 6-1, 6-1.

Australian Ball Player Sees Cracker-Vol Game

"Down Under" Baseball Is Played in Winter; Game Here "Far More Advanced."

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

SYDNEY, Australia, July 20.—"Strike the rascal. Kill him!" a group of fans cried here this afternoon during a baseball game when an umpire's decision went against the home team.

Handsome Mr. Allin Tinsley, of Sydney, is in our town. He is a baseball catcher for one of the 25 church teams in that city. He is here for the Baptist World Alliance and he was cornered during the game at Ponce de Leon park last night by a couple of unsuspecting reporters.

We were a bit amazed and you could have knocked us over with an uprooted pine tree when Mr. Tinsley talked of the game quite intelligently for we, as many others, believed that the only place one could hear the cries quoted in the above news item was in the good ol' U. S. A.

LITTLE CONFUSION.

Of course, his accent was a bit hard to understand at times and the states and cities were unfamiliar. His use of "combat" instead of "game" or "tilt" or "battle," as our headline writers have it, was a little confusing. Likewise, Allin's use of "cracking" as an adjective was odd at times. But he didn't use "By Jove" even once.

Anyway he is a "prince" of a fellow and was very kind about our somewhat silly questions last night. Especially the one which asked for an explanation why from May to August is winter in Australia. That's when they play baseball there. They play cricket during the summer, from August to May, and a lot of cricket players play baseball to keep their eyes on the ball, or whatever the thing they use in cricket is called.

There is no professional baseball in Australia. The nearest thing to it is our semi-pro ball. Various business houses have teams. There is a major league but players are not paid. Gate receipts go to the baseball association and are used to pay officials.

MORE ADVANCED.

There is very little difference in the game although Tinsley emphasized that the American game is "far more advanced."

"It is a cracking game," he said, "but it will never catch up with cricket, which draws 90,000 people with regularity."

This is Allin's first trip to the United States and last night's game was his second professional one. He saw a Pacific coast contest before coming to Atlanta. He likes the night game, but it is not played in Australia.

He came across the ocean with the Australian Davis cup team and said if determination and spirit could win the silver, the Aussies would do it.

"They are a great bunch of fellows," he said.

Chief differences in the American and Australian baseball game? Well, the Americans use a great many more pinch-hitters and relief pitchers and Australians are almost never given intentional bases on balls.

QUITE DANGEROUS.

"We consider that quite dangerous," he said. "Then, too, at home one has to be struck quite soundly to be allowed to take first, but over here if the ball just touches one's clothing he is allowed to go to first."

The Aussies use sacrifice bunts, pitch outs and even "squeeze" plays. Equipment is the same and Mr. Tinsley was quite proud of the Australian hickory bats.

He is a "commercial traveler" or traveling salesman. His favorite Crackers are Willie Duke and Russ Peters. His batting average for six years of play is around .400. Australian teams make from six to eight errors on the average.

And even if his "base" does sound like "bise," he's a fine "guy" and there are a couple of reporters who hope he has an excellent visit to Atlanta.

Frank Scalzi To Join Giants; Replaces Jurges

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—(UP)—Former Shortstop Frank Scalzi, of the New Orleans Pelicans, climbed aboard an airplane for New York today after announcing that he would take over the Giants' shortstop position, vacated by suspension of Bill Jurges.

Scalzi told friends that he had been paid $5,000 to join the Giants and had been promised $600 a month. He said he was scheduled to break into the lineup tomorrow.

The former University of Alabama football player had been playing with the Pelicans on option from Cleveland. Recently he protested to Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis that Cleveland was trying to cover him up and Landis yesterday declared him a free agent, to every club except Cleveland and New Orleans.

Scalzi batted .275 for the Pelicans.

PEBS 6-1; BARONS 0-5.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 20.—Birmingham's Barons and the Little Rock Travelers divided a double-header here tonight, the Rocks taking the first game on the six-hit, shutout hurling of Charlie Harris, and the home club winning the second, 5-1 on an unusually good performance by Del Wetherell. Wetherell gave up five hits in keeping the Pebbles well under control during the nightcap.

Bolyard, Schalk and Mahan paced an 11-hit barrage by the Rocks in the opener, while Art Luce's three hits was best for the Barons in the second clash.

SMOKIES 11; LOOKOUTS 5.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 20.—Knoxville's Smokies snapped their losing streak at seven games by shelling Chattanooga hurlers for 10 hits and an 11-to-5 victory tonight. A three-run homer by Big Bill Nicholson in the sixth put the Lookouts within one run of Knoxville's early lead, but Smoky batsmen dispelled all doubts as to the outcome by driving across six runs in the eighth for their first win in eight starts.

PELS 3; CHICKS 5.

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—The New Orleans Pelicans had two tough breaks tonight—loss of a ball game to Memphis, 5 to 3, in 11 innings and injury to Russ Bevel, second baseman.

Don Pulford, Pel hurler, held the Chicks scoreless for eight innings but allowed three runs in the ninth which tied the score. The Chicks put over two more in the eleventh to win.

In the first inning Bevel was struck on the side of the face by one of Herman Besse's fast ones. Unconscious, he was taken to a hospital where it was said he suffered a fracture of a bone in the upper jaw.

bit to the inglorious record of the ranking players by bombing in a quarter-final match to Marvin Wachman, of Chicago, 6-1, 6-4. Only two of the original dozen favorites remain in the tournament.

In another quarter-final encounter, Billy Gillespie, of Atlanta, unranked, required only 19 minutes to dispose of Jack Mahoney, of the University of Virginia, 6-0, 6-0. Gillespie, a semi-finalist in the New York State Clay championships last week, thus entered his second successive bracket of four, making this easily the best outdoor campaign . . his career.

Wachman's triumph enabled him to reverse the four-set decision which Peacock gained over him in the finals of the Eastern Intercollegiates late last month.

Herman Besse Hits Russ Bevel on Jaw

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—(AP) Russ Bevel, shortstop for the New Orleans Pelicans, was struck on the head by a pitched ball in the game with the Memphis Chicks tonight and was carried from the field and rushed to a hospital.

Bevel, the first Pelican up in the first inning, was struck on the side of the head by a ball pitched by Herman Besse, Memphis hurler. He dropped to the ground and mates carried him from the field.

Physicians said after a preliminary examination Bevel suffered a possible fracture of the jaw but his condition was not regarded as serious. X-rays were to be taken.

OHIO PASTOR HELD BY ARABIAN REBELS

Friendly Tribesmen Take Gifts Into Moab Hills After $5,000 Demand.

JERUSALEM, July 20.—(AP)—Arabs bearing gifts of rice, flour and choice fowls took to the Moab hills tonight to beseech a rebel band of their own race to release a kidnaped preacher from Ohio.

The prisoner is 29-year-old Gerould R. Goldner, and the Arab kidnapers want $5,000 to free him, according to Dr. Jacob Goldner, his father, who also was kidnaped, but permitted to return to Jerusalem to arrange for ransom.

Dr. Goldner, 67, is a Christian church pastor in Cleveland; his son is pastor of the Christian church at Mogadore, Ohio. The latter's wife and their 10-month-old son are in Cleveland. The younger Goldner attended Hiram (Ohio) College and Yale Divinity school.

United States Consul George Wadsworth joined in the rescue efforts, but a preliminary search by British planes, police and military authorities was suspended while friendly Arabs made an effort to find the abductors.

The Arabs bearing gifts were residents of the area near the Dead sea, where the young minister and his father were seized. Influential Arabs in Jerusalem also were active, and Greek monks of the Mar Saba convent, which the Goldners visited, started a separate search.

Dr. Goldner said he and his son left Jerusalem Tuesday and visited Mar Saba that night, rising early the next morning to return to Jerusalem.

"After about 45 minutes of easy riding," he said, "we were accosted by an armed Arab rebel who forced us to wait until he was joined by three others.

Taken to Abandoned Cave.

"Soon we were surrounded by 11 Arabs who escorted us to their headquarters in an abandoned cave.

"There one rebel who spoke a little English informed me I would be able to return to Jerusalem, but my son must remain until $5,000 was produced. I was escorted to the outskirts of Jerusalem by two rebels."

(Dr. Goldner telegraphed relatives in Cleveland that "Gerould is safe." The Goldners left the United States June 10 on an 11-week tour of the Holy Land.)

A donkey boy, one of two who was permitted to return to Jerusalem with the elder Goldner, said the two Americans were treated well by the Arabs and given food.

He said the elder Goldner broke into tears when leaving his son, but the Arabs urged him not to worry.

The leader took a koran from his cloak and swore on it that if the money were paid, he would not harm a hair of the minister's head.

KIDNAPED OHIO MAN'S FRIENDS OFFER MONEY

CLEVELAND, July 20.—(AP)—Churchmen friends of the Rev. Gerould R. Goldner, 29, tonight offered funds toward a $5,000 ransom demanded by Arabs who kidnaped the Mogadore, Ohio, pastor and his clergyman father in the Holy Land.

The Rev. Howard Spangler, assistant at the Cleveland Disciples of Christ (Christian) church, where the father, Dr. Jacob Goldner, is pastor, said church officers "are considering steps, if necessary, to raise the ransom money." He cabled Dr. Goldner: "Plight known. Funds available."

5 STATES TO ENTER FREIGHT RATE PARLEY

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., July 20. (AP)—Officials of five states will meet here Saturday to discuss a proposal that a steering committee be named to bring before the interstate commerce commission a demand for more equitable freight rates in the southwest.

Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Texas and Georgia are expected to be represented, the conferees including:

Louisiana—James P. O'Connor and P. A. Frye of the Louisiana Public Service Commission, and E. B. Wilson, acting traffic manager of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce.

Georgia—Judge Edgar Watkins, of Atlanta.

Debutante Hit-Skip Driver Critically Injures 2 Youths

PUTNAM, Conn., July 20.—(AP) Two Putnam youngsters, one with his left arm amputated, fought for their lives tonight in a hospital after having been knocked from their bicycles by an automobile driven by Miss Audrey Gray, 21, member of a socially prominent Locust Valley, N. Y., family.

Police Captain Leo N. Dubois said Miss Gray, an attractive debutante, admitted her car hit Wilfred Martineau, 14, whose arm was amputated, and his brother, Gerard, 10, but she believed they were unhurt, and drove on to Southbridge, Mass., where police arrested her.

She said the boys swerved into the path of her car.

She was charged with evading responsibility and reckless driving, Captain Dubois said, and released under $1,500 bail provided by her mother, Mrs. Henry Gray, who came to Putnam by airplane.

The hospital listed the condition of both boys as critical.

Scientist Suggests New Theory Why 99 Died Aboard Submarine Thetis

J. B. S. Haldane, After Experiments With Davis Lung, States Sudden Change From Foul Air to Escape Chamber Might Have Had Fatal Results.

LONDON, July 20.—(AP)—A famous British scientist, J. B. S. Haldane, who tested the effects of foul air in a sealed chamber and concluded it was unpleasant but not torture, today suggested a new theory why 99 men failed to escape from the submarine Thetis.

At a special inquiry into the disaster, Haldane said the sudden transfer from the foul air in the submarine to the escape chamber, while breathing the oxygen of the Davis escape apparatus, might have been too much for the men.

If the men had breathed oxygen from tanks for about 45 minutes before entering the escape chamber they might have escaped without difficulty, he theorized.

Haldane, describing his use of the Davis lung upon being freed from an airtight steel cylinder resembling the escape chamber, said:

"For a minute or two I breathed quite calmly and happily, then I was seized with vomiting. I do not say that I had to take the apparatus off but I did take it off."

He said he thought the men in the Thetis attempting to escape with the lungs may have experienced similar symptoms, torn off their apparatus mouthpieces and drowned.

Only four of the 103 men aboard the Thetis escaped using the Davis lung after the submarine ran into the bottom of Liverpool bay June 1 in a test dive. One of the survivors, Captain H. P. K. Oram, watched Haldane make his 14 1-2 hour experiment by sealing himself in the airtight test cylinder.

Oram believed persons aboard the submarine when he left were in better condition than was Haldane after his experiment, the scientist told the court.

TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR No. 125

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan's defiance stirred Ahtea to fury. "You—you dare dictate to me? By Pantu, I'll—" "Your threats don't interest me," Tarzan interrupted. "But I'll bargain with you. Free O'Rourke and Kailuk, and I'll reveal the man who plotted revolt of your slaves."

It was a costly bargain for Tarzan, because he was himself the master conspirator. Yet, he was willing to bear the consequences if he could win freedom for his loyal friends. The queen, however, was in no mood to meet his terms. She must uphold her authority.

"Ahtea does not bargain with prisoners and slaves, Tarzan of the Apes. O'Rourke and Kailuk shall die as I have decreed. And you, my bold Tarzan, shall reveal the conspiracy." The Jungle Lord slowly shook his head. Then the queen of Tohr cried shrill commands.

"Mungo! Guards! To the public whipping posts with them! Notify the people, the court, my chief and nobles. Let all assemble in the plaza." She turned grimly to Tarzan. "At one hour past midday the flesh will be stripped from your bones with whips!"
